MILEAGE CHART

The average S.W.D. student spends 15-30 minutes of each school day driving back and forth from school to some place or the other. Many students drive quite a distance from home to S.W.D.; others have open campus enabling them to leave and go where they please several times a day; still others choose to go out for lunch. So, for your information, we have put together a mileage chart indicating the average driving time from Southwest DeKalb to various places of interest.

Panthersville Stadium	16 minutes
South DeKalb Mall	13 minutes
Hardee's	6 minutes
Glenwood Drive-in	15 minutes
Wendy's	5 1/2 minutes
Farrell's	45 minutes
McDonald's (Glenwood Rd.)	14 minutes
Al's pizza	11 minutes

MENU

This year a new system was put into effect — the 55 minute extended lunch period.

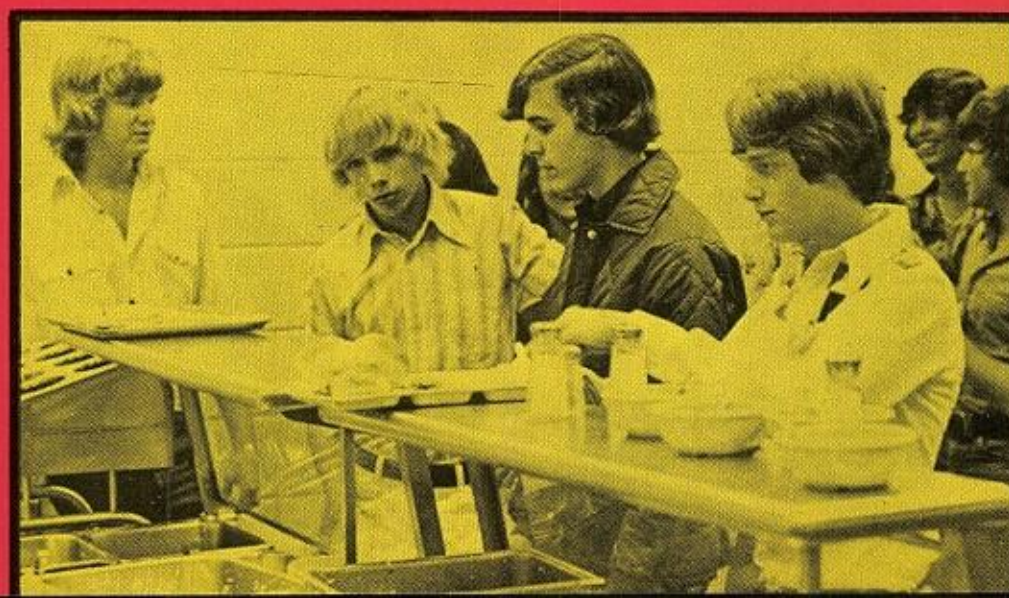

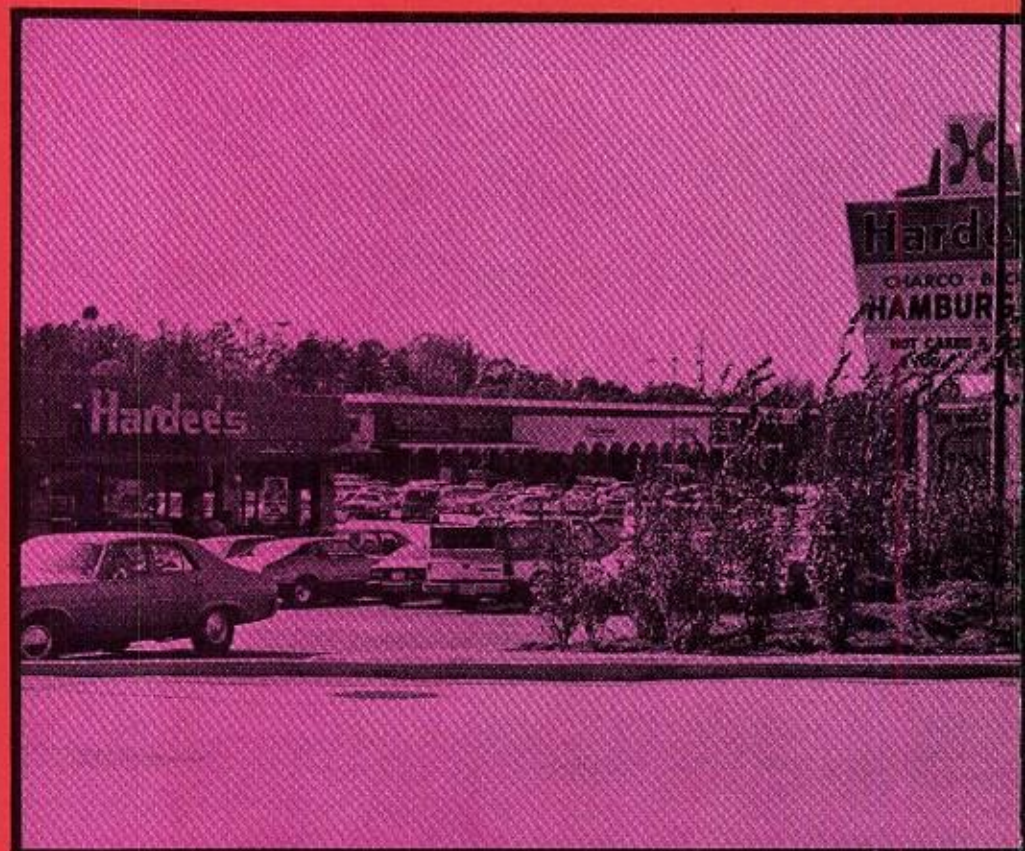

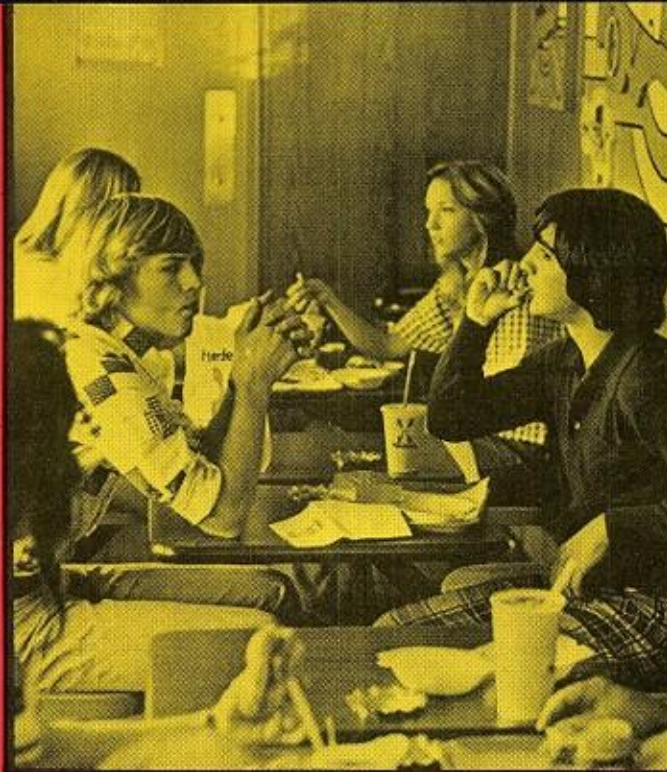

The extended lunch period was great for the pre-freshmen. "I go to the lunchroom everyday. I would never skip and go to lunch — what if I got caught?"

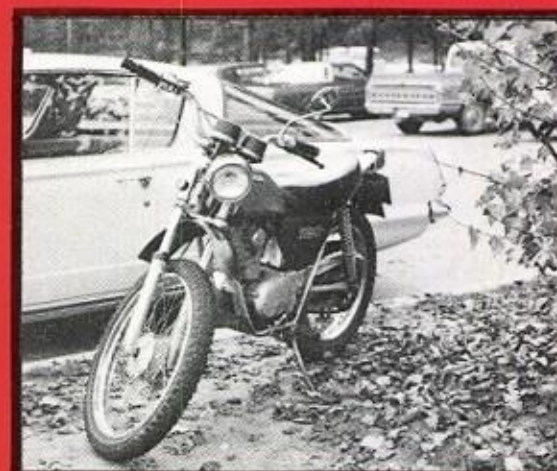

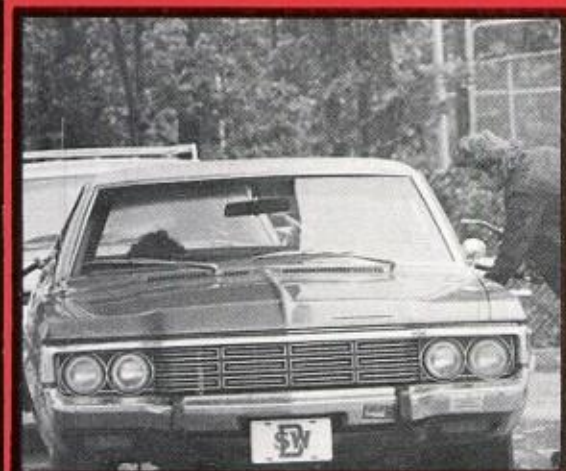

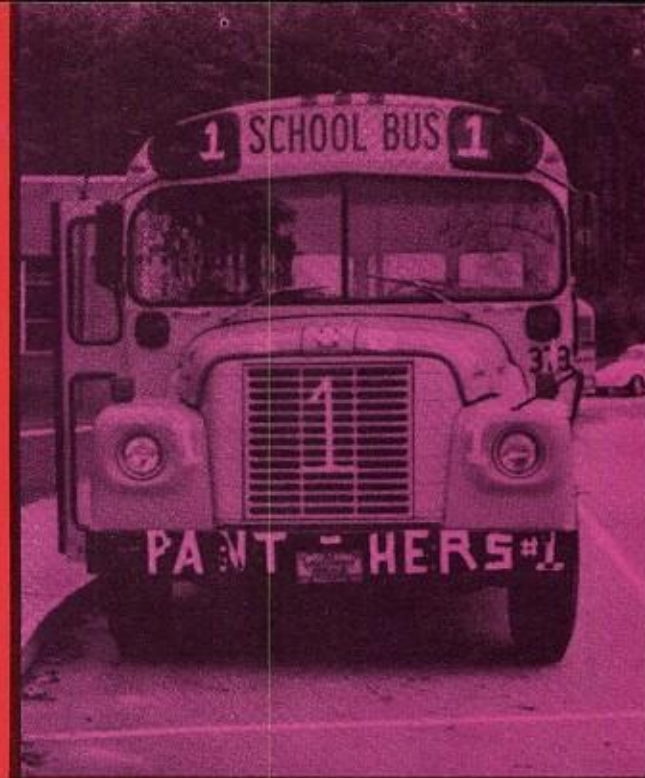

A ninth-grader remarked, "I think I'll start taking my lunch, but I'll still buy my milk in the lunchroom. It's pretty good and you can't beat the cafeteria for good conversation."

However, when asked how they used their lunch period, the sophomores had a different attitude. It seems they spend most of their time in the library. "If we go to the lunchroom, we get hit by flying milk cartons. I would starve before I'd go in there. I wish I could drive!!!"

The 11th graders take advantage of the extra lunch time. They seemed to enjoy Wendy's — even though it was a little more expensive.

When asked about the lunchroom and the extended lunch period, the seniors merely asked, "What is a lunchroom?"

With the coming of each school year, the question is always asked: "How am I going to get to school?"

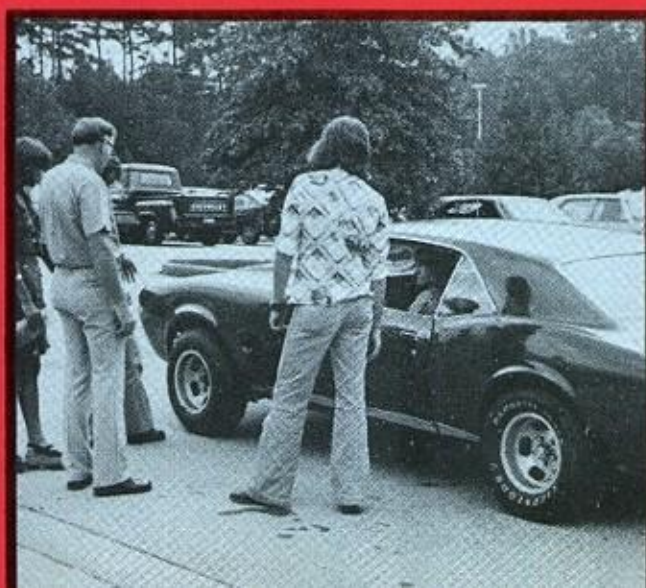

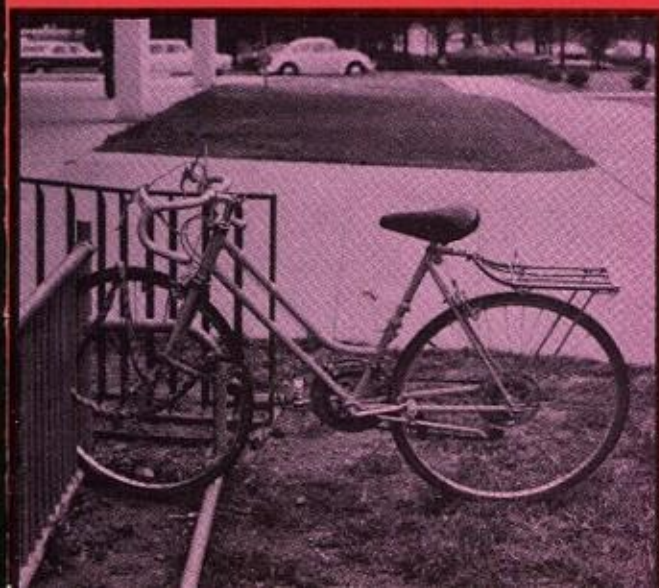

It's easy for the 8th graders — they experience the joys of riding a school bus. What do you do from 7:15 to 8:10?

The 9th grader turns to another form of transportation — the bicycle. Bright and early each morning the freshman sets out for school with books in a back pack or basket.

The 10th grader is too mature for a bike and he doesn't have his license yet. What to do? He finally realizes he has to let his mother drive him to school. He'll soon learn all of the exact times and places to duck!

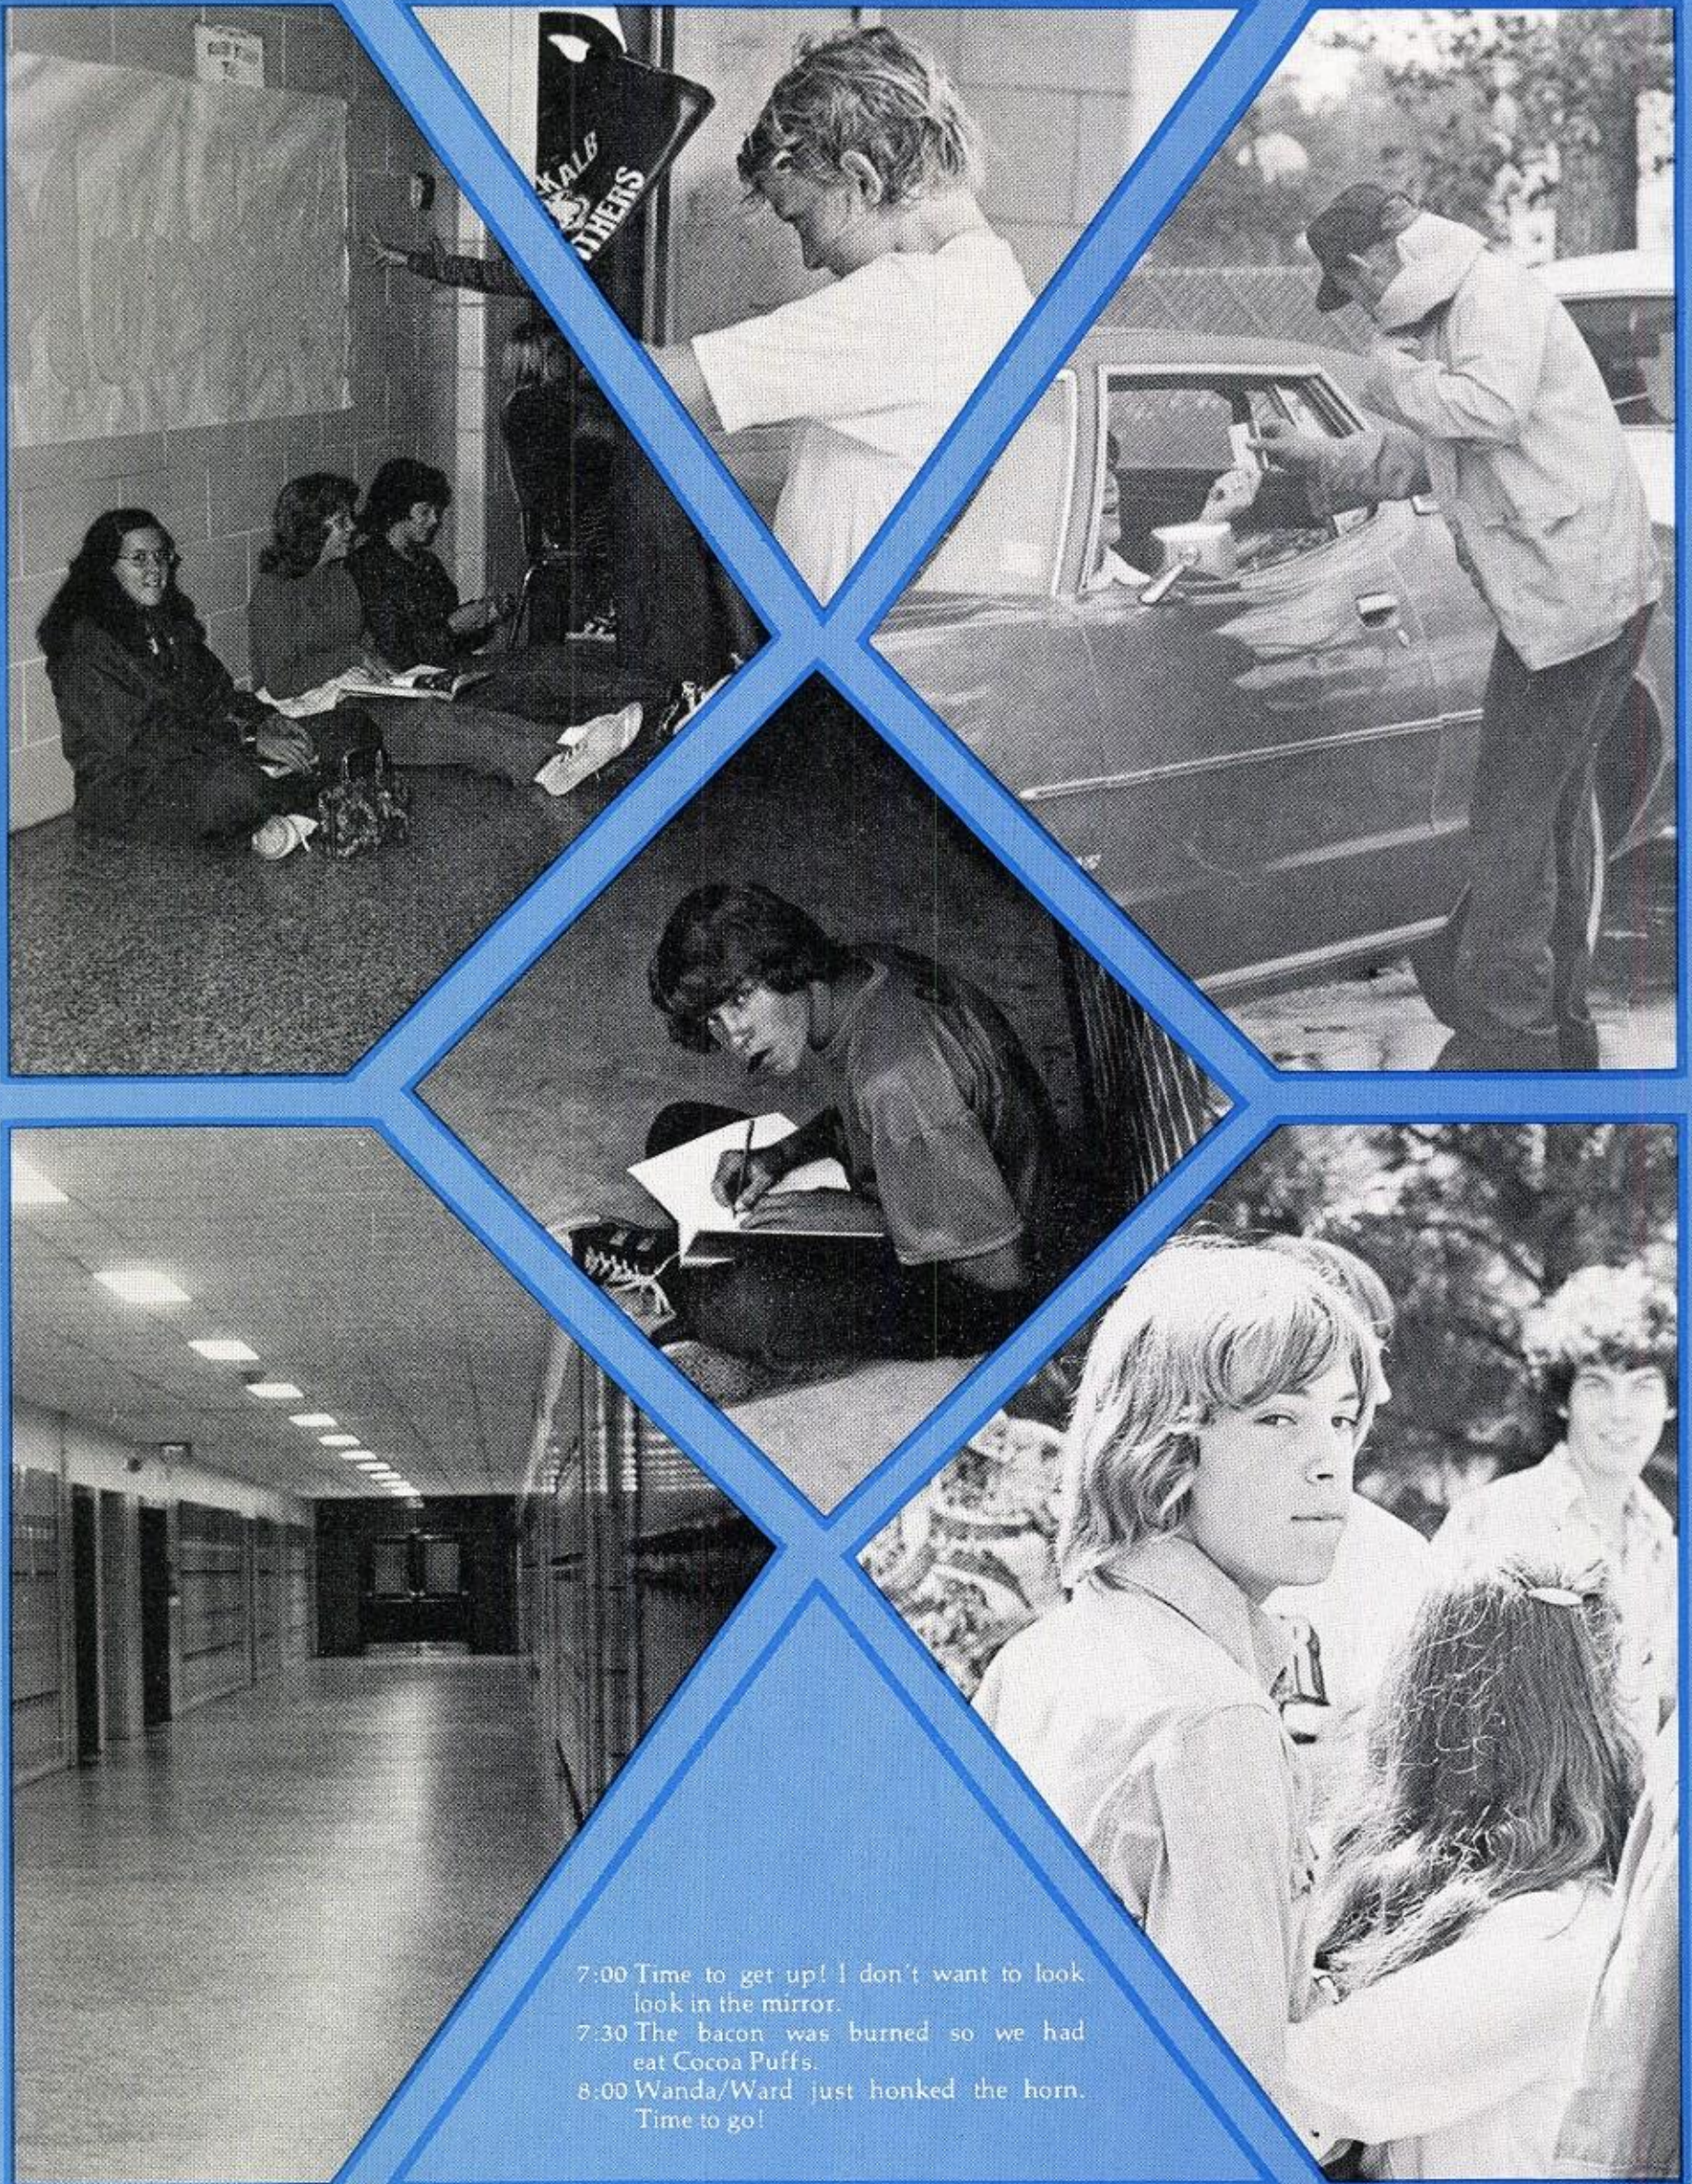

Heaven!! The juniors and seniors have it made — they have their license. It's great to be 16.

It comes so-o-o slow — but think how good it's gonna be when it finally gets here!! Then you can start worrying about paying for your own gas.

DAWN

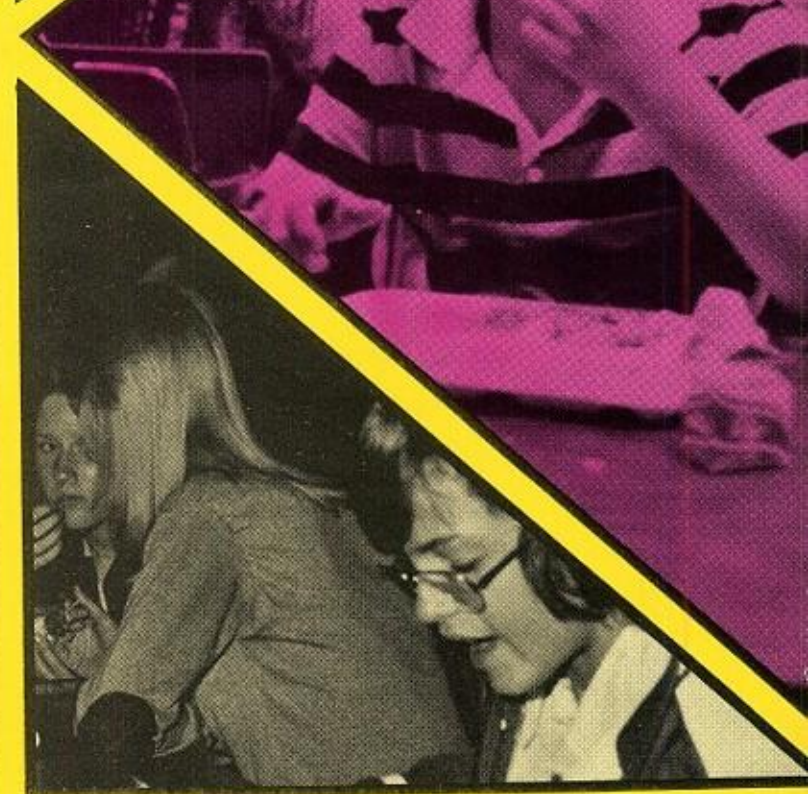

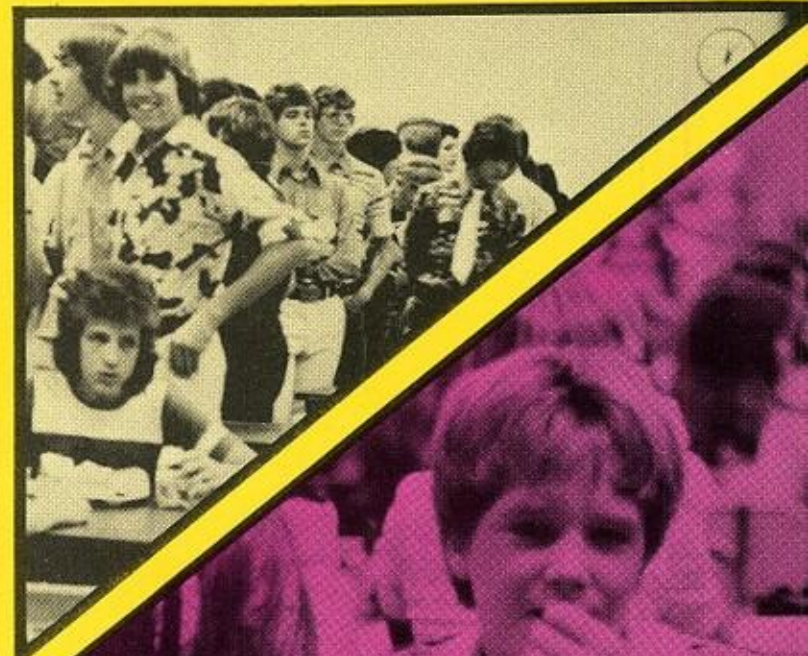

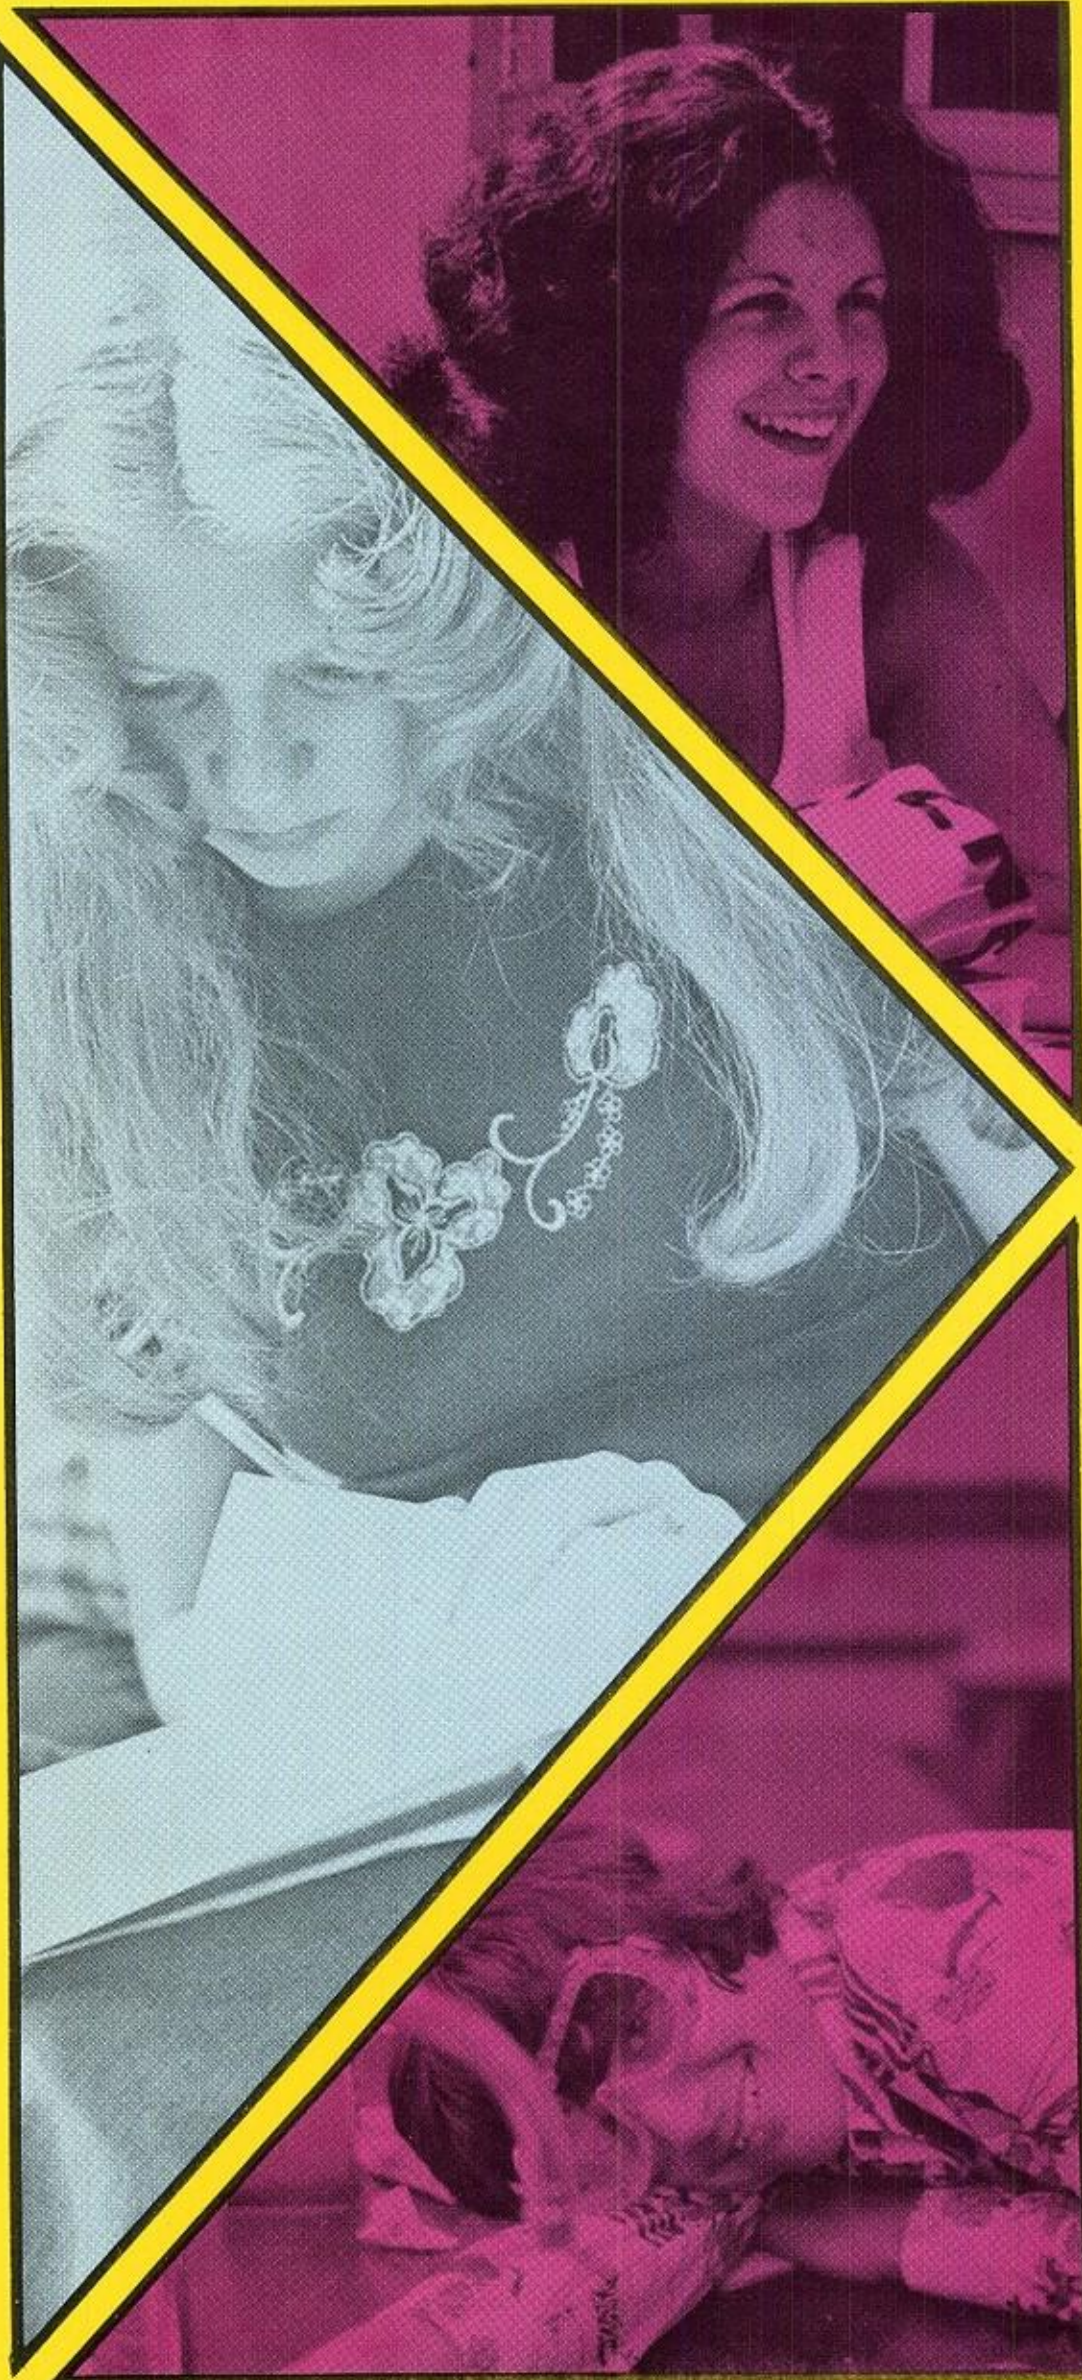

7:00 Time to get up! I don't want to look look in the mirror.
7:30 The bacon was burned so we had eat Cocoa Puffs.
8:00 Wanda/Ward just honked the horn.
Time to go!

MORNING

8:20 Oh no! Late again.
9:10 Good, homeroom. Now I can find Wanda/Ward in the halls.
10:20 Ms. Carter did not tell us that we'd have a test today. Did she?
11:20 Ahh! Lunch at last!

M I D D A Y

11:15 I wish that bell would hurry up and ring — I'm hungry!

11:20 R-i-i-n-n-g-g Time for that good ole cafeteria cooking.

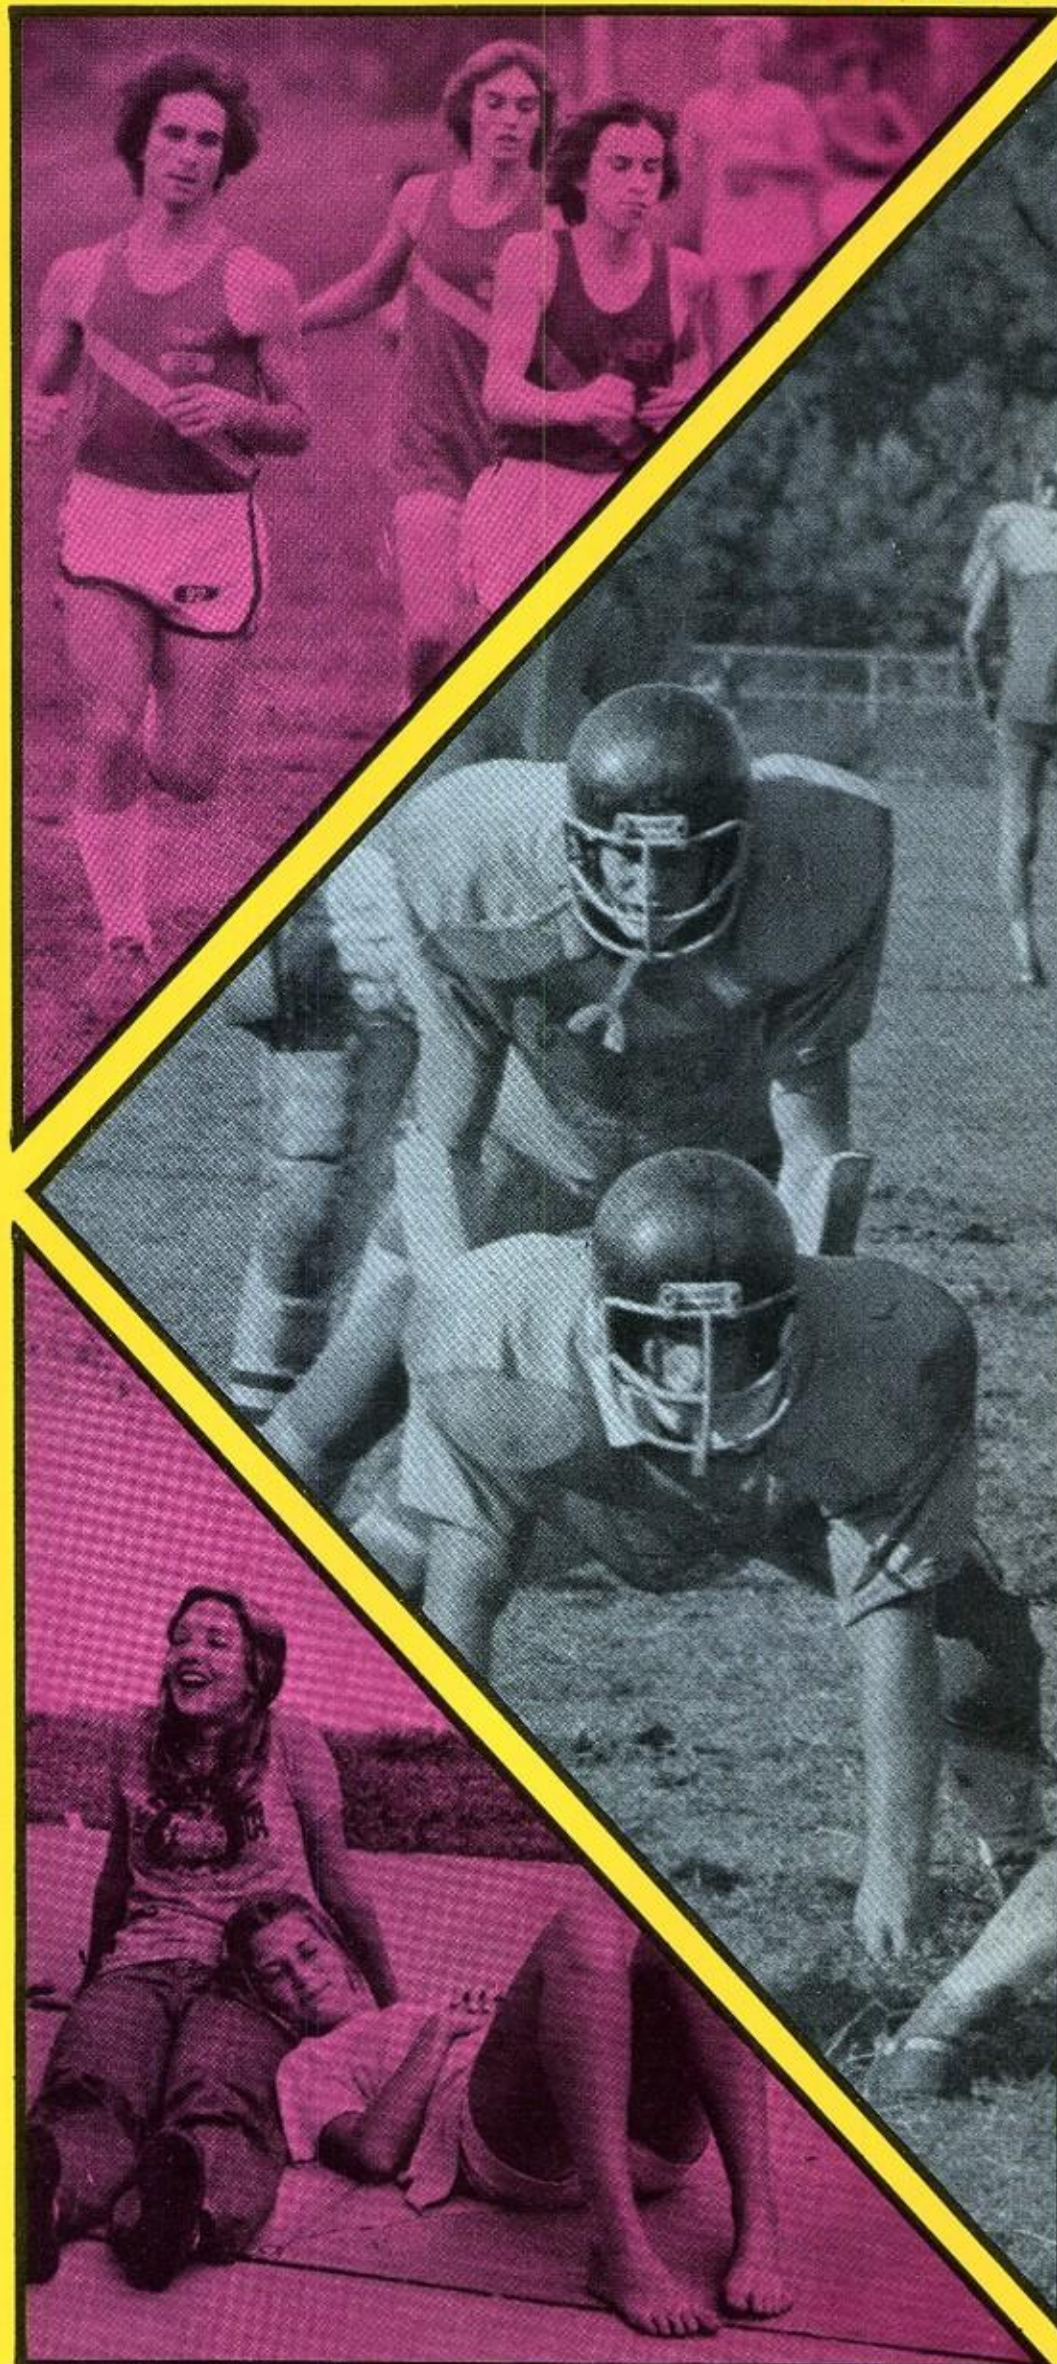

11:30 Still standing in line for lunch.

11:45 Yum! Leftover hamburgers.

12:00 Another line for ice cream!?!

12:15 I think I'll go sit between the buildings and study Trig.

12:20 R-i-i-n-n-g-g What happened to the extended lunch period?

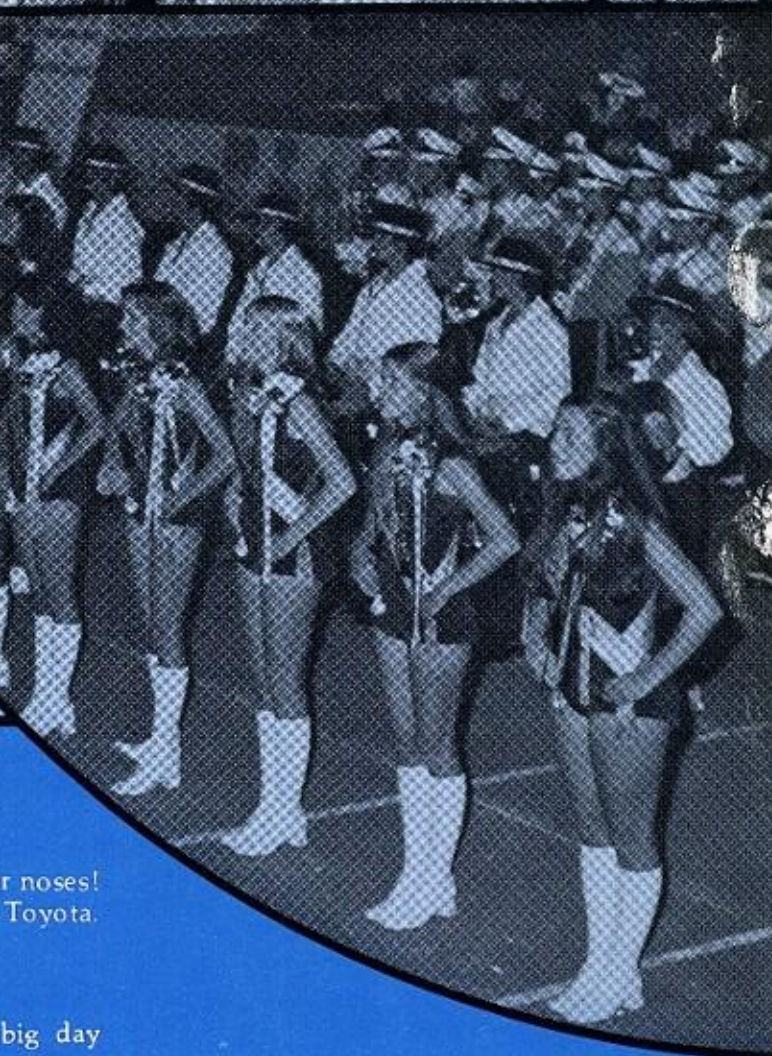

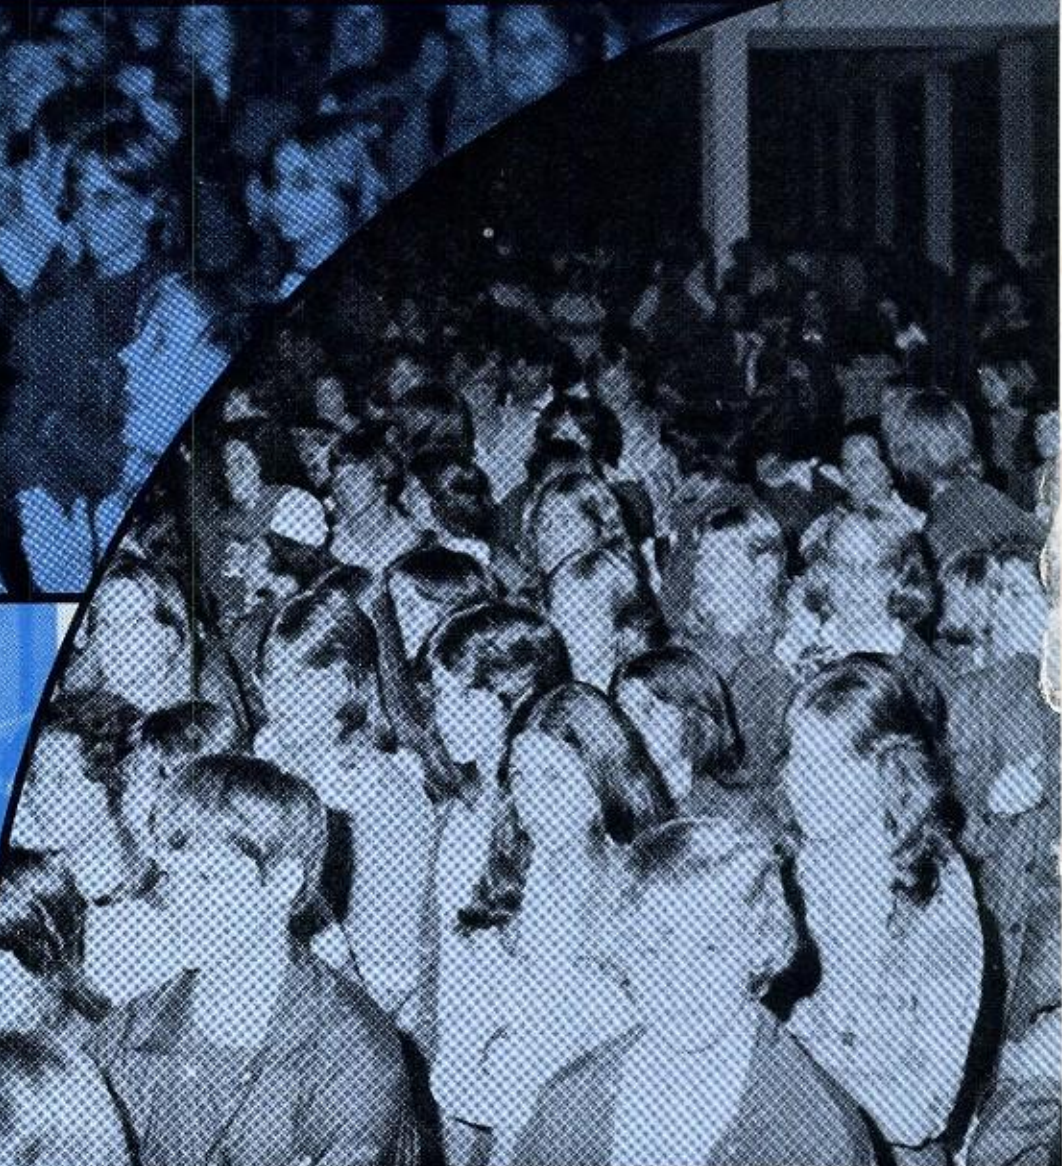

2:40 Please report to the gym.
 2:45 Ah-h-h-h, but can you dig it?
 3:00 Two-bits competition. C'mon Seniors, stand up and cheer.
 3:40 Oh! I missed the bus. Time for the long walk home.
 3:45 It's off to practice.
 4:00 I'm tired. Can we have some water?
 6:00 Is practice really over? You mean we can go home? But, but . . . What's home?????

USK

AND

NIGHTIME

6:00 Finally got the float set up. I think we'll win for sure.
6:30 Those judges just can't see talent, even when it's right under their noses!
7:00 Picked up my brother and my friends. Wow! Ten people in a little Toyota.
Hope we make it to the Panther Growl alive!
7:30 We're number 1!!! Yea!!!
8:00 Wonder who'll get on the Homecoming Court?
8:30 It's been a fun night. Got to get home and get some rest, big day tomorrow.

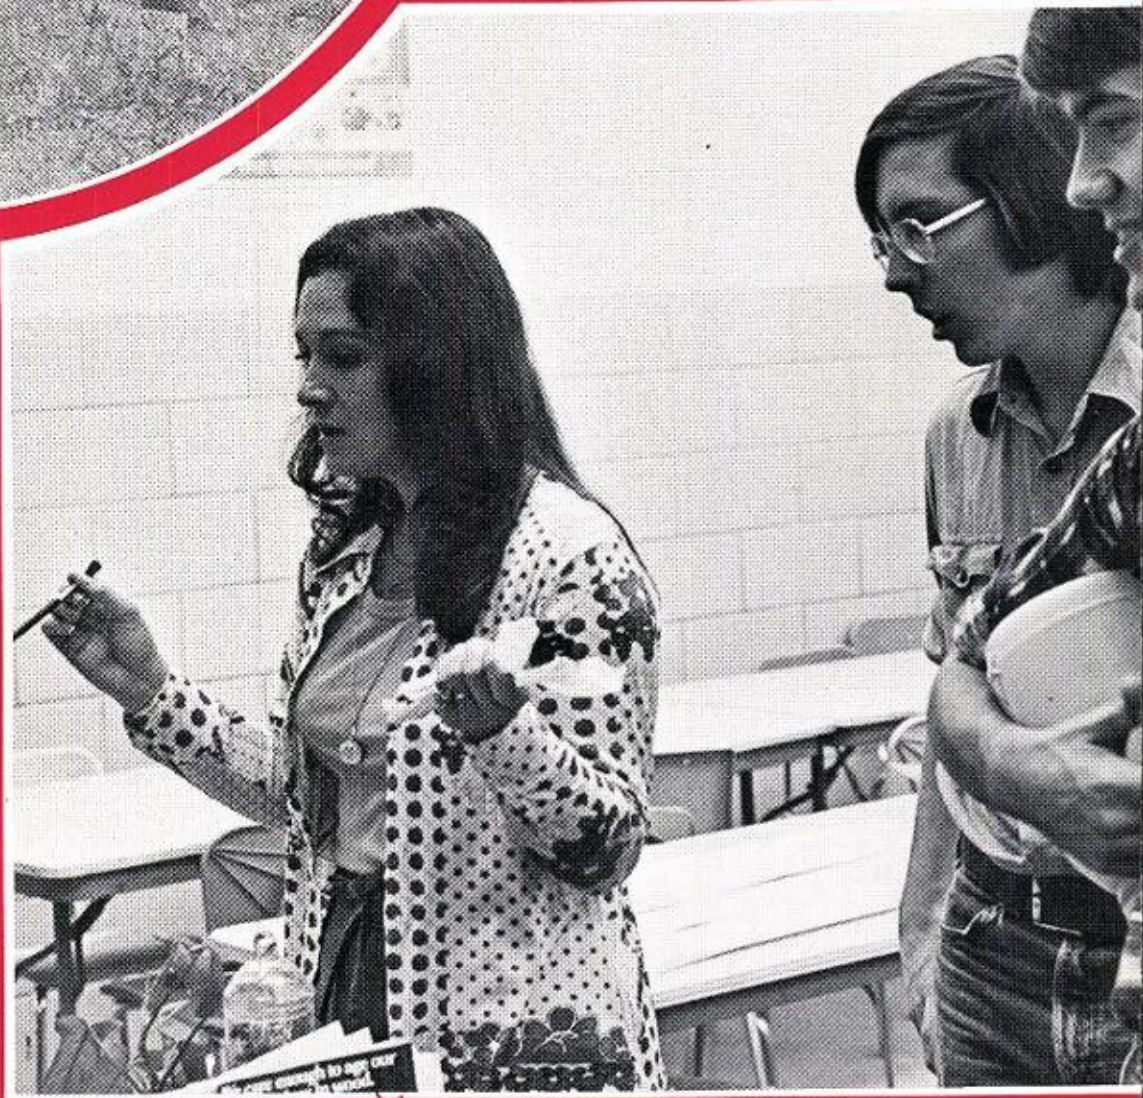

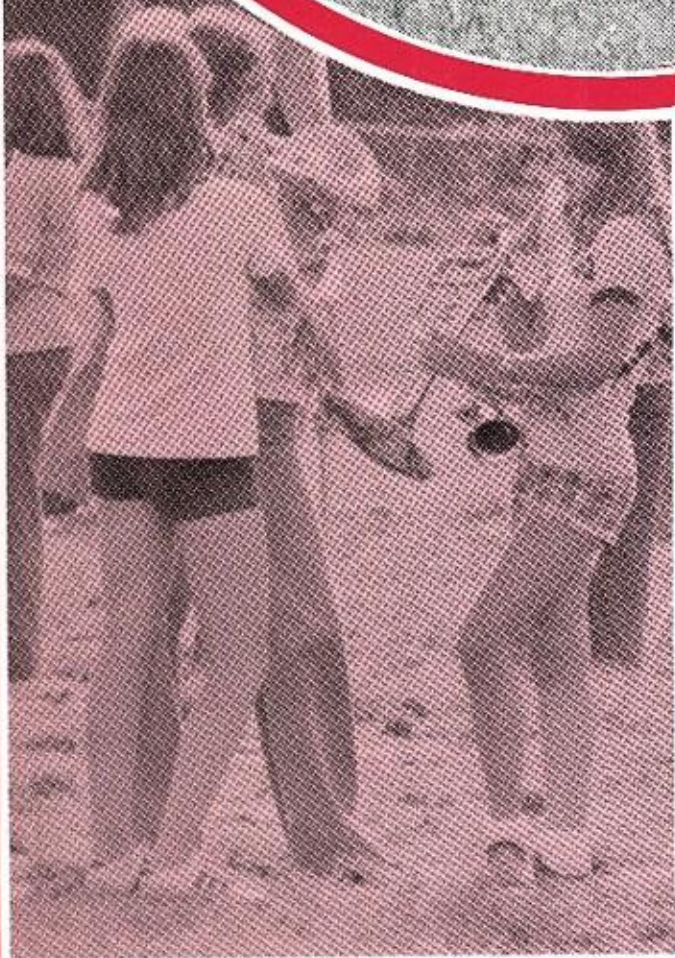

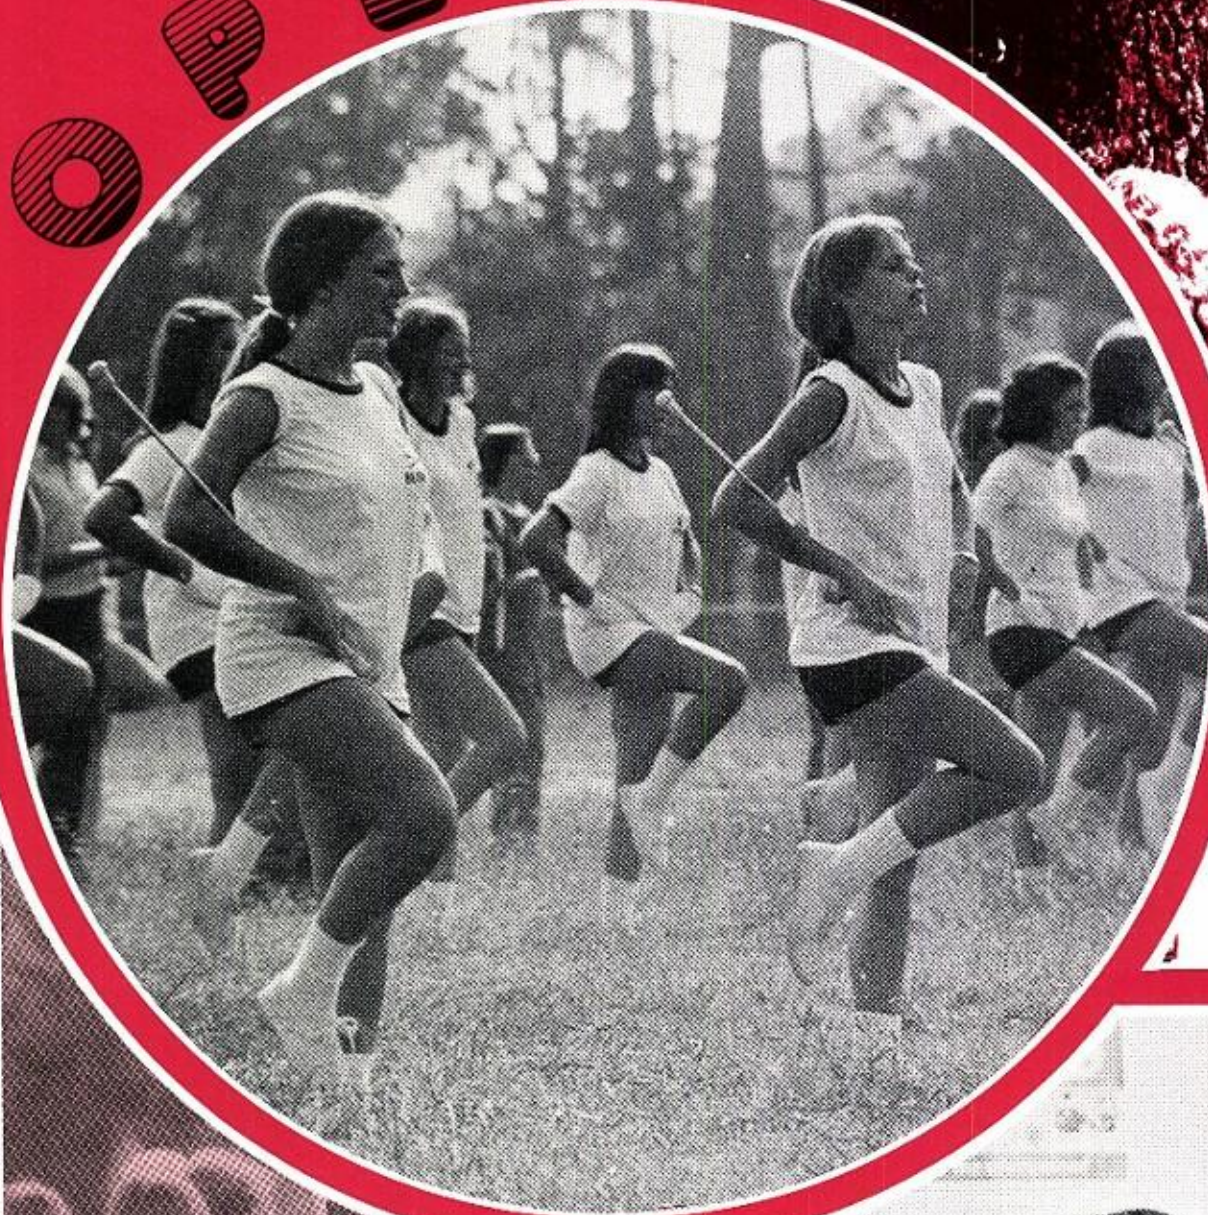

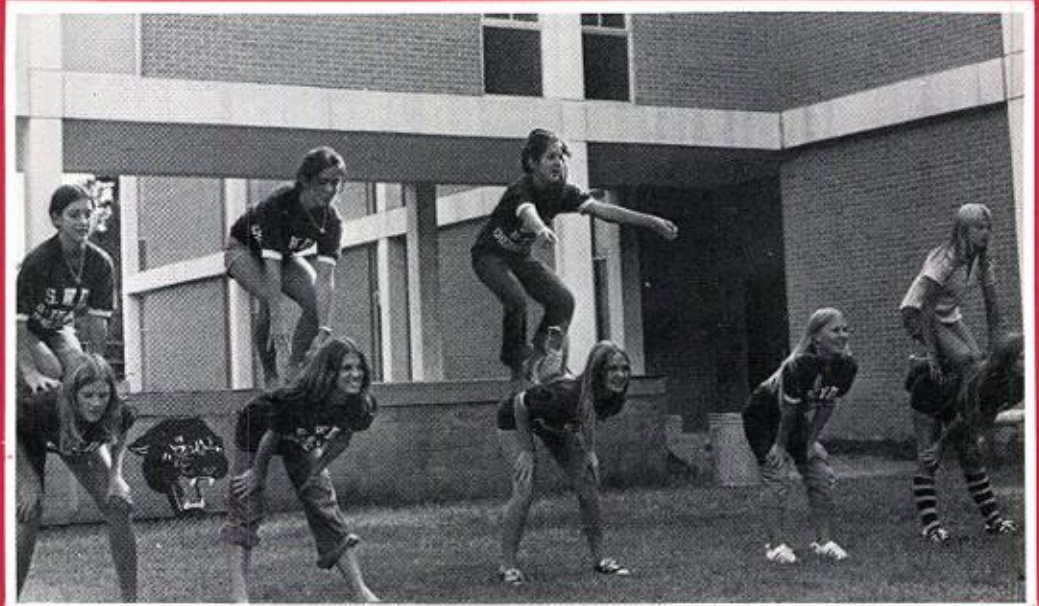

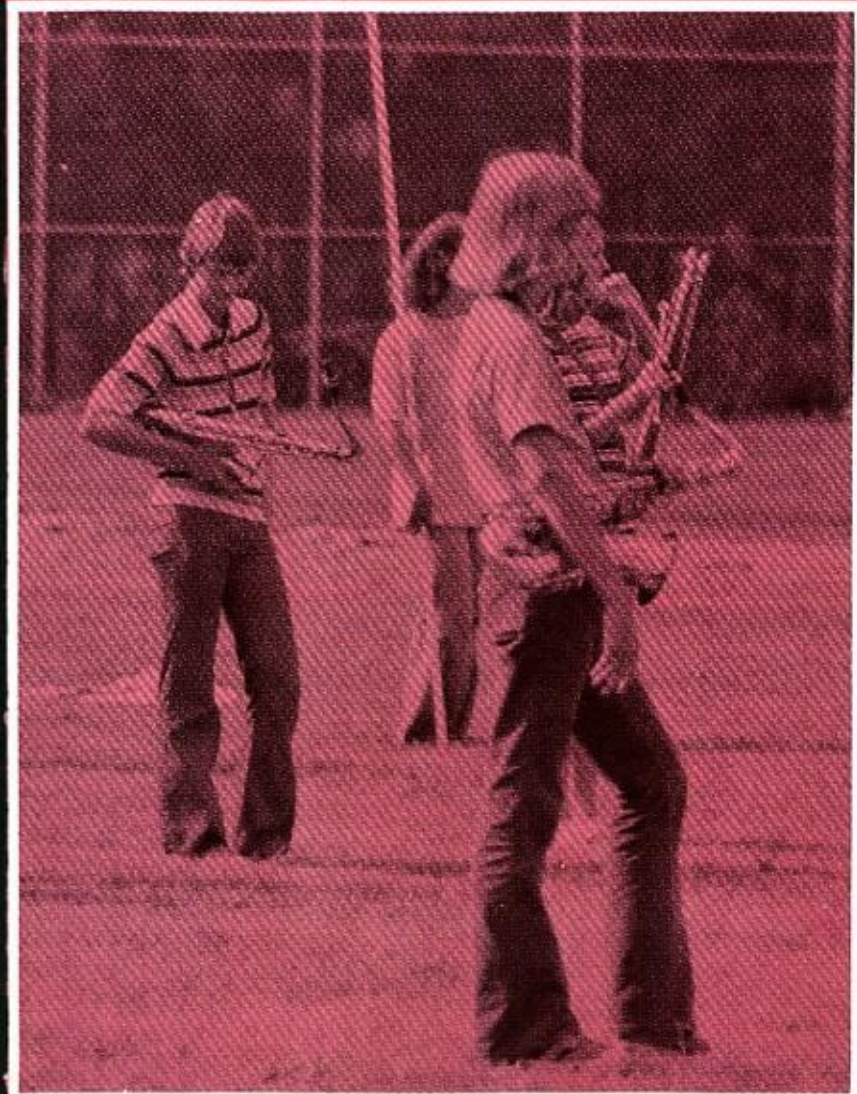

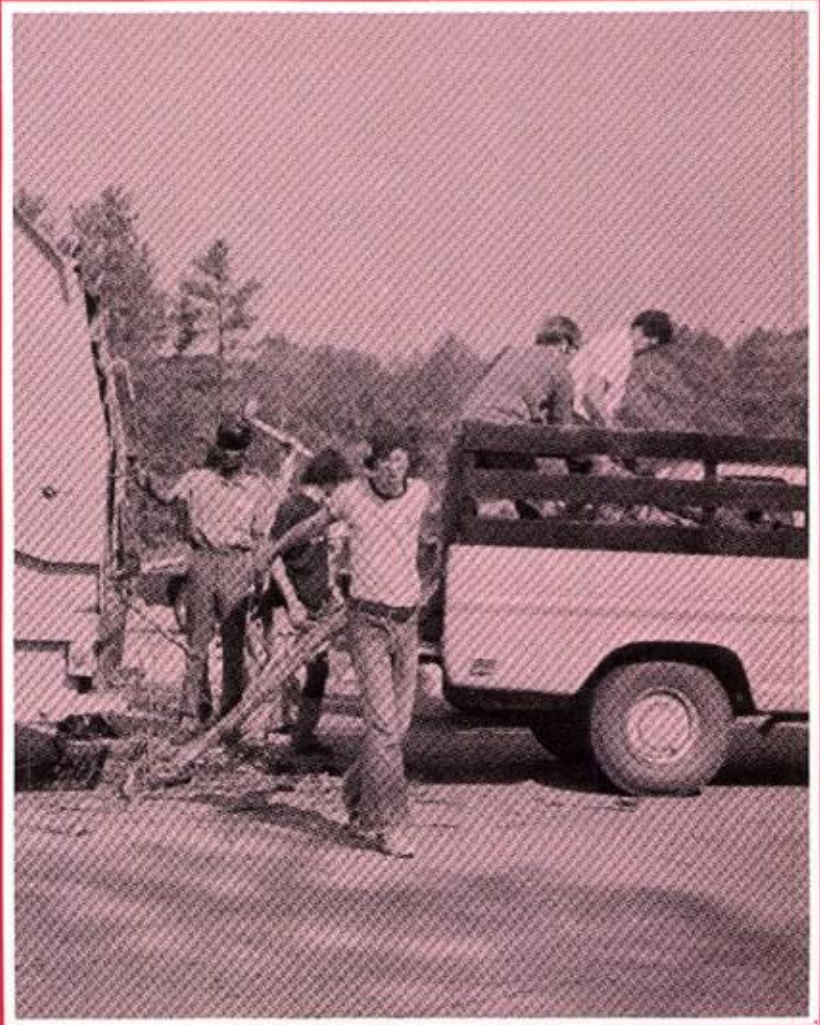

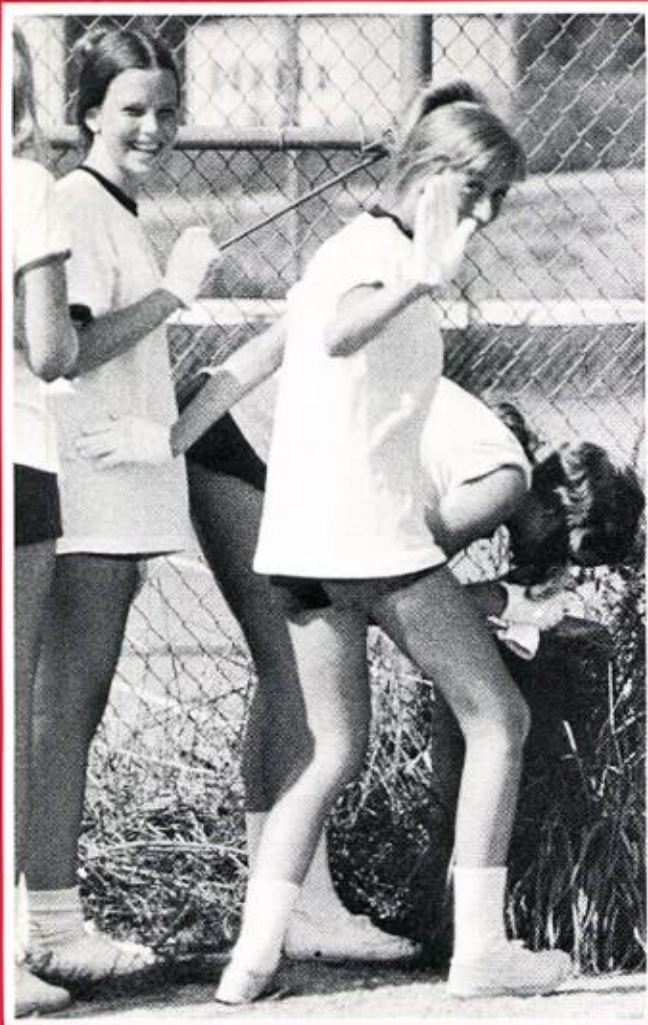

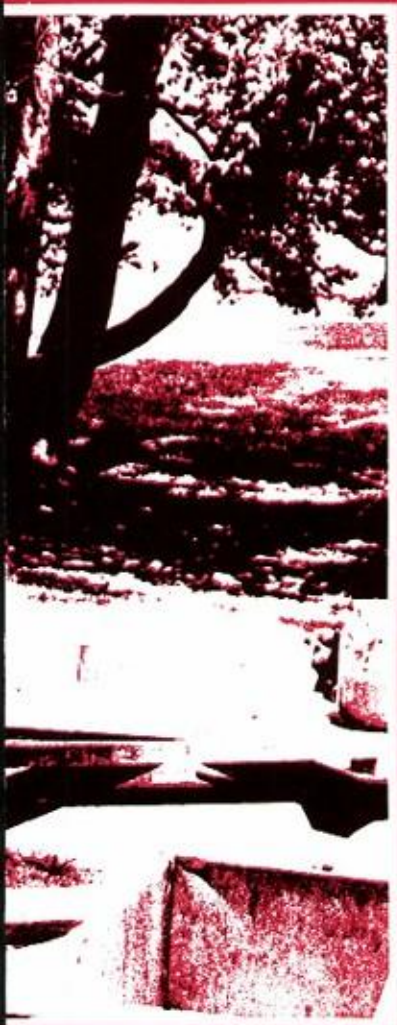

Nighttime began at seven-thirty. The players appeared ready to win. The game began — the crowd roared — play after play — each being successful. Suddenly it was half-time. Too soon for football fans not soon enough for thirteen girls, who became more anxious as the band performed. Balloons rose into the nightcourt on the field, roses, crown waiting to belong to a queen, Marilyn Hairston, a smile of joy, a warmth of tears. The night for some was marked with honors, for everyone, victory.

ROUND

The activities that go on during S.W.D.'s nine month school year require year round hard work. The band and corps start practice almost immediately after school is out to work on the following years' performances. The cheerleaders work all summer painting signs and getting their cheers together for the games four months later. If you play baseball, you'll need to join a summer league that go on during the summer — however the most important work is done by Student Council. They work all summer on money-making projects and thinking up new ideas for the upcoming year.

"Boy, school is a real pain!"

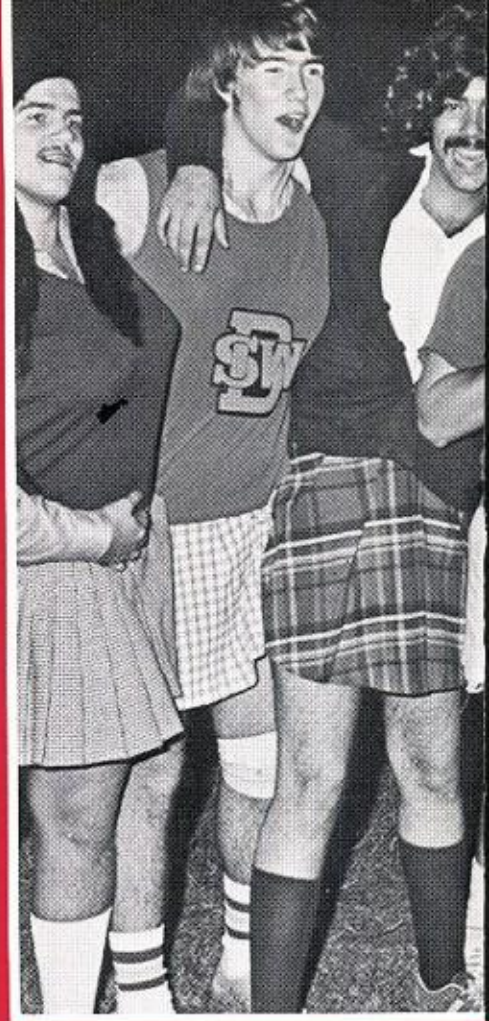

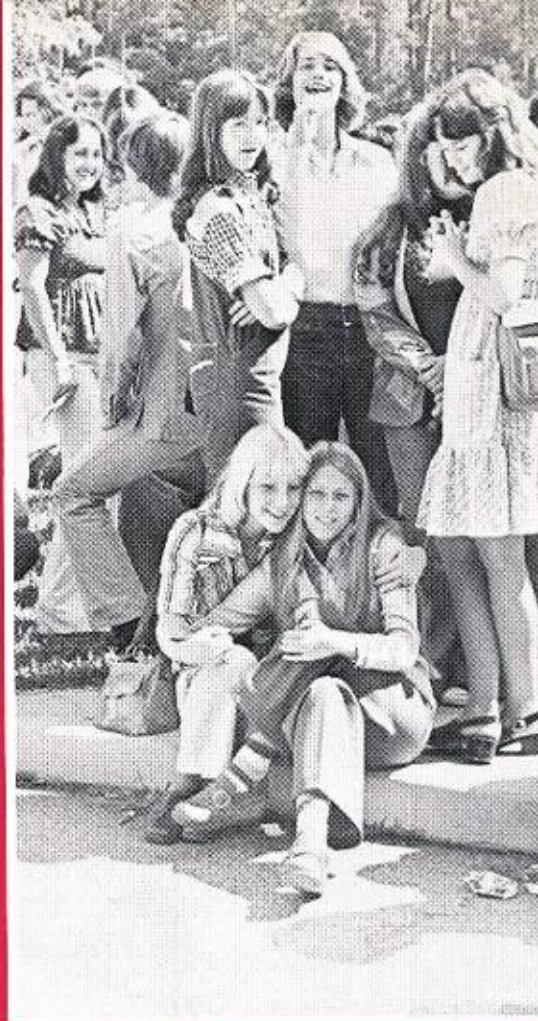

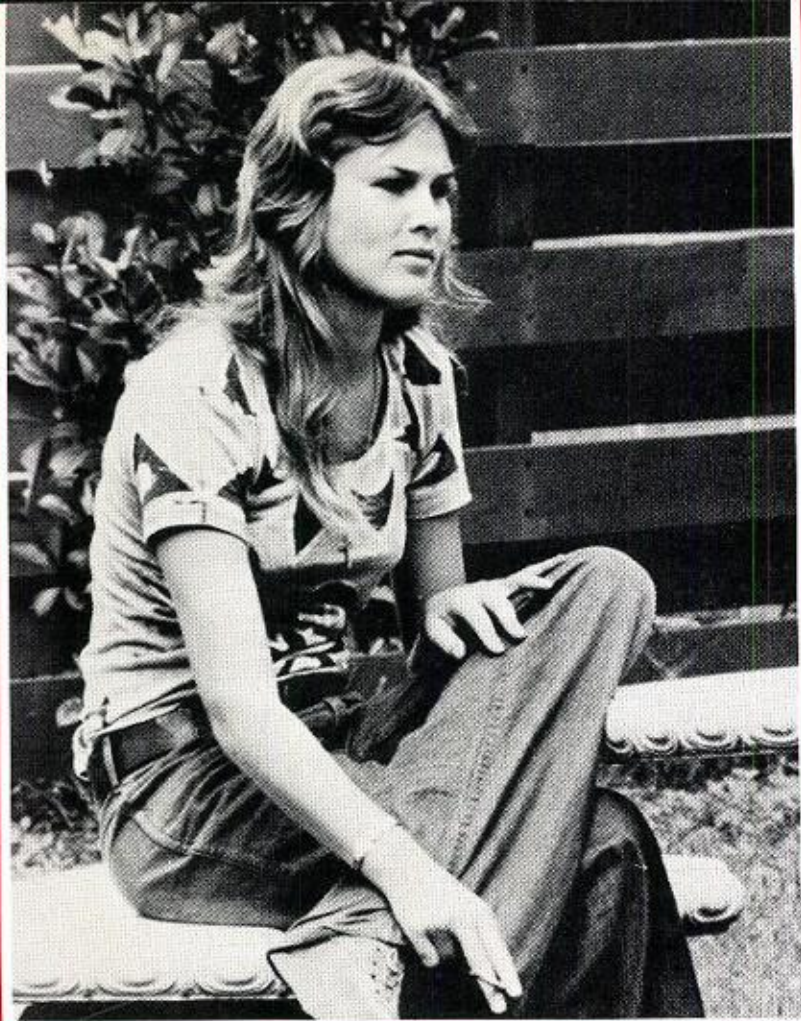

"Yea man, I know what you mean. I have to get up at 7:00 in the morning just to warm up the car."

"But you know, I've been doing some research for a project on the history of education. Two-hundred years ago, kids our age had to get up at dawn just to do their chores. On top of that, they didn't even have radios, televisions, or stereos. Could you imagine trying to study without music?"

"My dad is always telling me not to complain about riding the bus and he brings up that moldy oldy story about walking five miles to school everyday. If he really wants to make me feel bad, he sticks in the little fact that he didn't even have a car until he graduated from college."

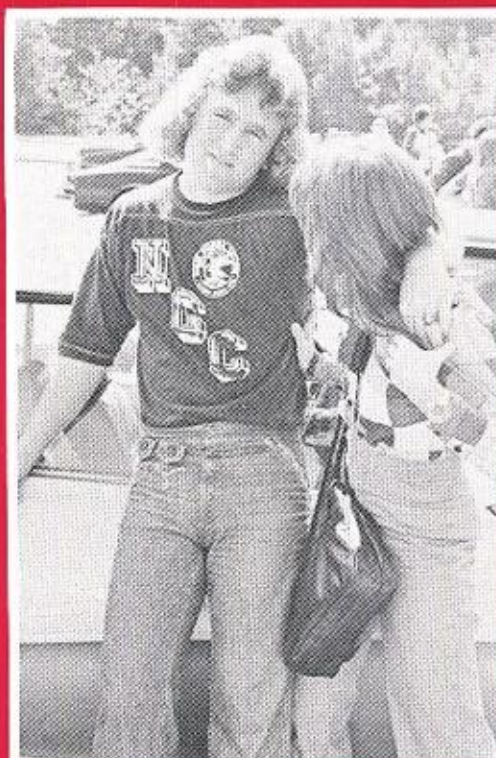

"My parents tell the same tear-jerkers at our dinner table, too. I don't know how much of it to take seriously, but I do know that we all have it a lot easier than the students and teenagers before us."

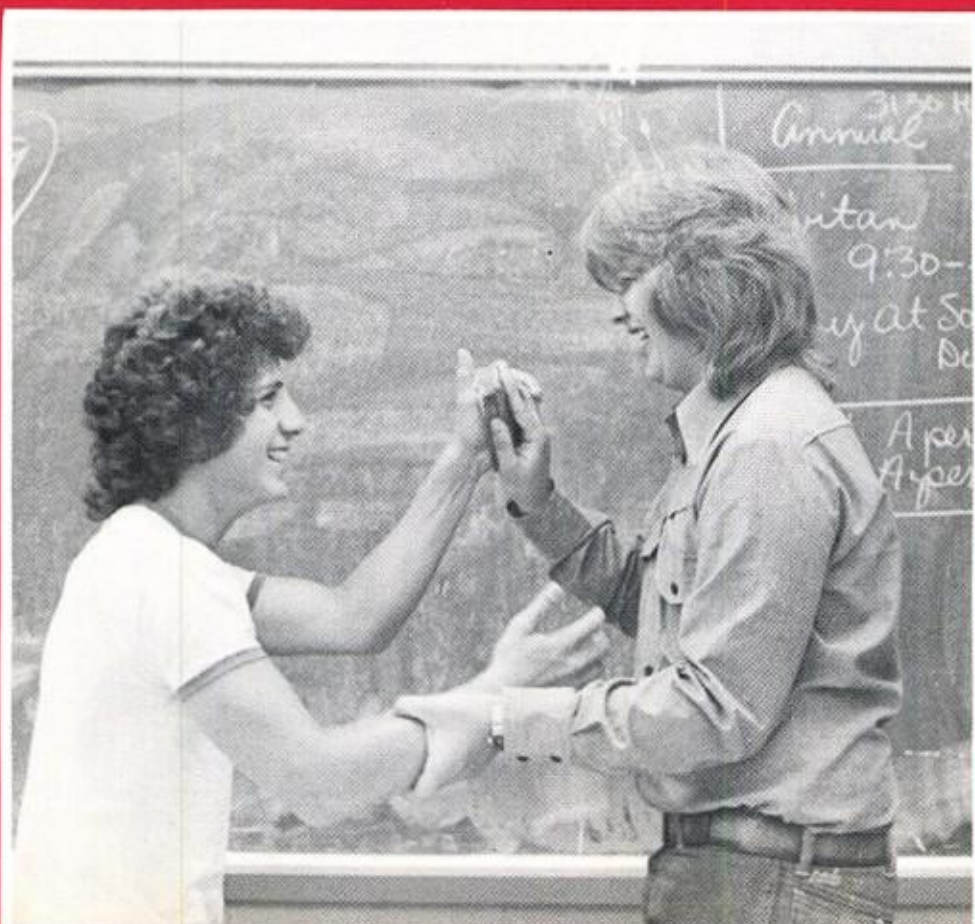

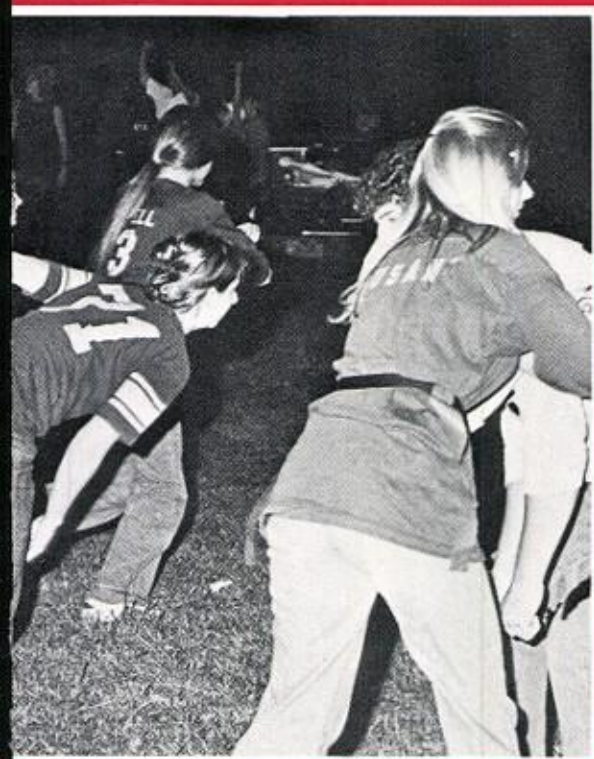

This is Reginald Reporter on the S.W.D. campus catching the opinions of the students covering the Liberation Movements sweeping the country. First, we need a definition. Excuse me sir, but could you tell me what liberation is? "It is the movement of a given group to obtain equality and favorable social understanding." Thank-you, sir. That was S.W.D.'s illustrious Student Council President, Danny McNeely. Well, before we go much farther we need a little background info on Women's Lib and the Gay Liberation Movements. Wait! Is that P. Sawyer, the world renowned historian? By gollies, it is! Miss, oh, miss, could you answer a few questions for us? "Sure." How far have women come in their movement for equal rights? "Before the 19th century, women could not vote in any type of election — today women can vote in every election. Women today are demanding total equality — they want equal pay, equal jobs, equal everything. Thank-you, ma'am. One more question. What has the Gay Liberation Movement been up to these days? "Centuries ago, the gay movement was suppressed; homosexuality was something to be ashamed of. Today, people are beginning to accept homosexuality as a way of life." Thank-you, P. Sawyer.

Now that we have heard some comments on this controversial subject, I hope you can draw some personal opinions of your own. It seems that Liberation Movements still have a lot of liberating to do here at S.W.D.

ABSOLUTE FASHION AND

These are luxuries that we often take for granted. So next time your driving around in your Firebird Trans-Am, think of how much easier it is to drive your car through the car wash, then it is to clean out the stables!!

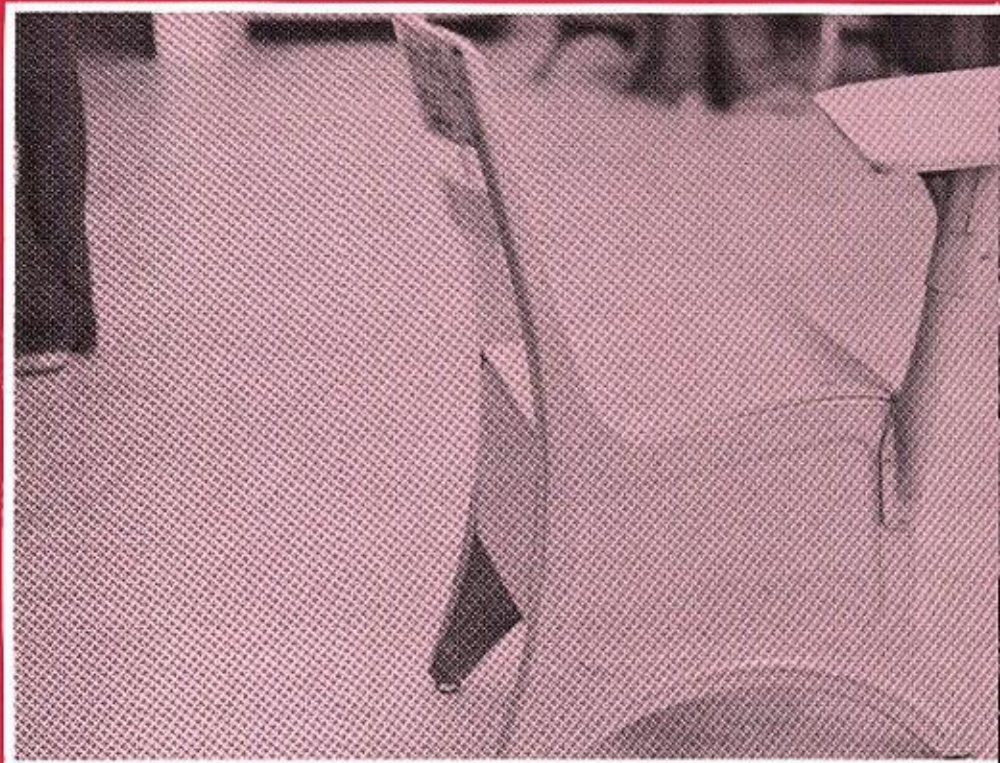

TRANSPORTATION

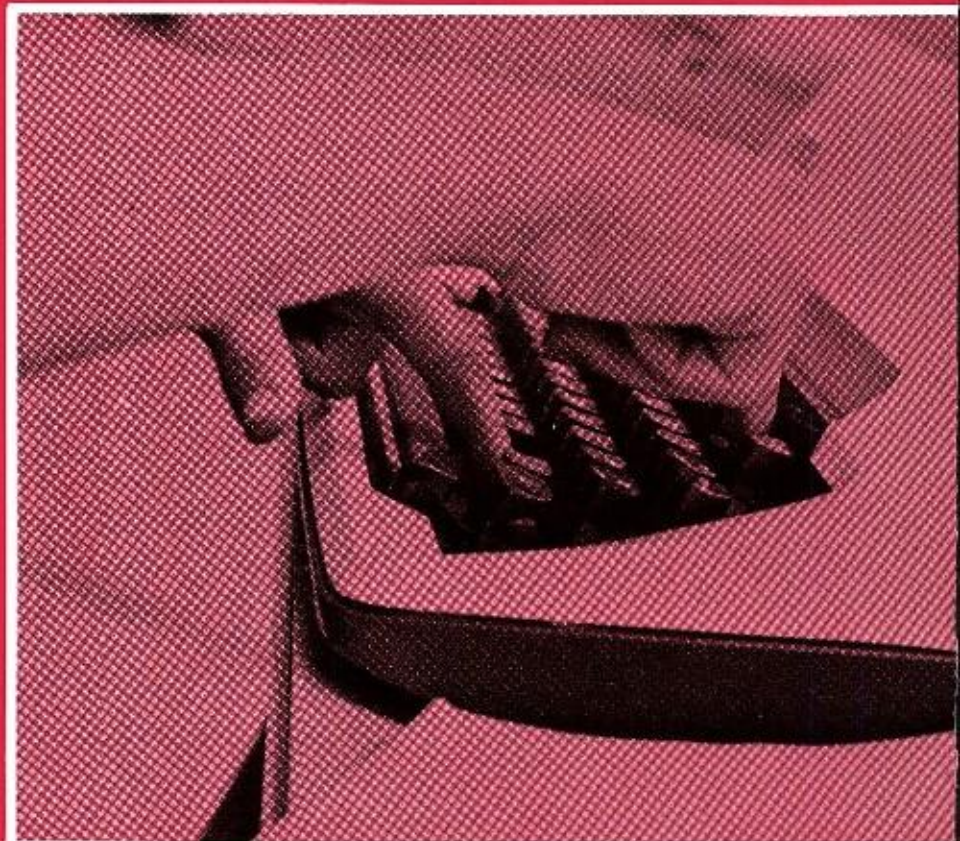

THE LOOKING

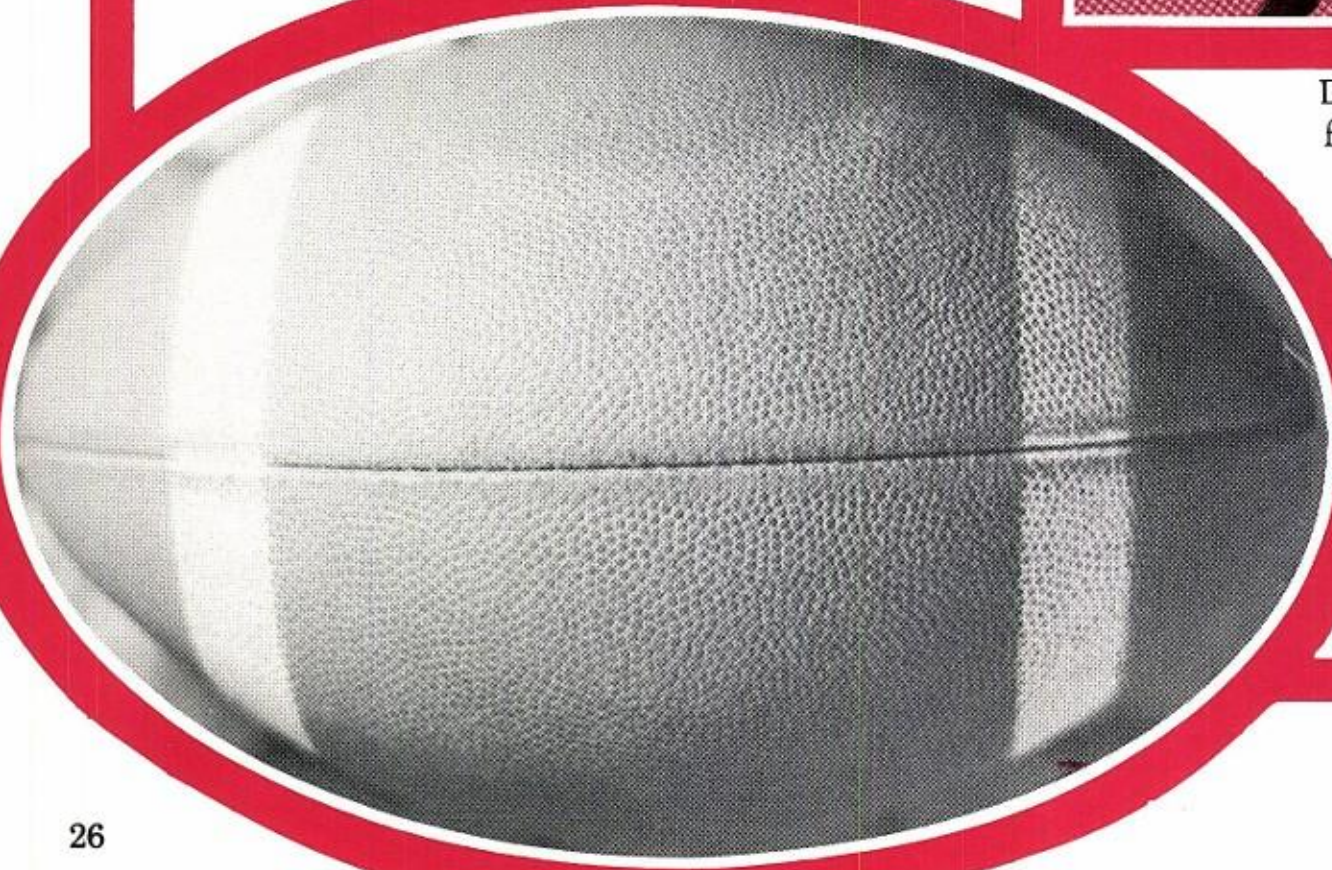

8:10 ... Another day another student resting his books and himself on me. I'm not complaining about my job, just particular. Take, for instance, the size of a student. I would prefer my occupants to be 5'2", eyes of blue, long-legged, and perfumed. But somehow I always manage to attract the 250 lb. linebacker or the president of the Beta Club and his own private library that he carries everywhere he goes. Whenever you're bored, just scratch out a little note to your friends or practice your artistic talents and sketch a little picture on my face. Be careful, you may end up giving me a bath!!

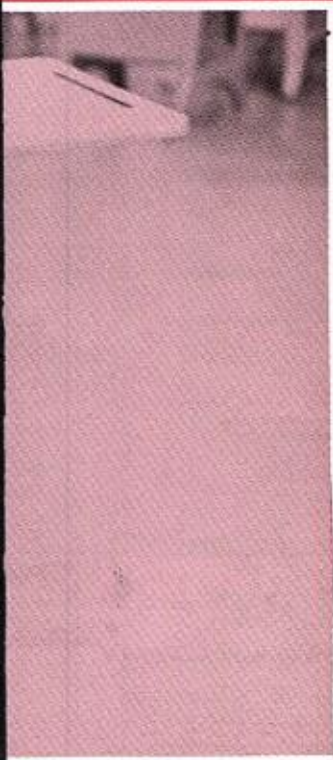

23, 34, Hut, hut, scramble, scratch, block, tackle ... Always ending up at the bottom of the pile, but always the center of attention. The quarterback and I have a very personal relationship, an affair called football. Our arrangement is such that we meet every Friday and Saturday night and have at least two hours together. Someday we hope to become the proud parents of a victory!! This is a rather hard task because I am tossed, passed off, and bounced all around the field. Somehow the quarterback and I always get it together, because when I cross that goal line or sail through those goal posts, I hear the fans cheering us on! We're No. 1, We're No. 1, ...

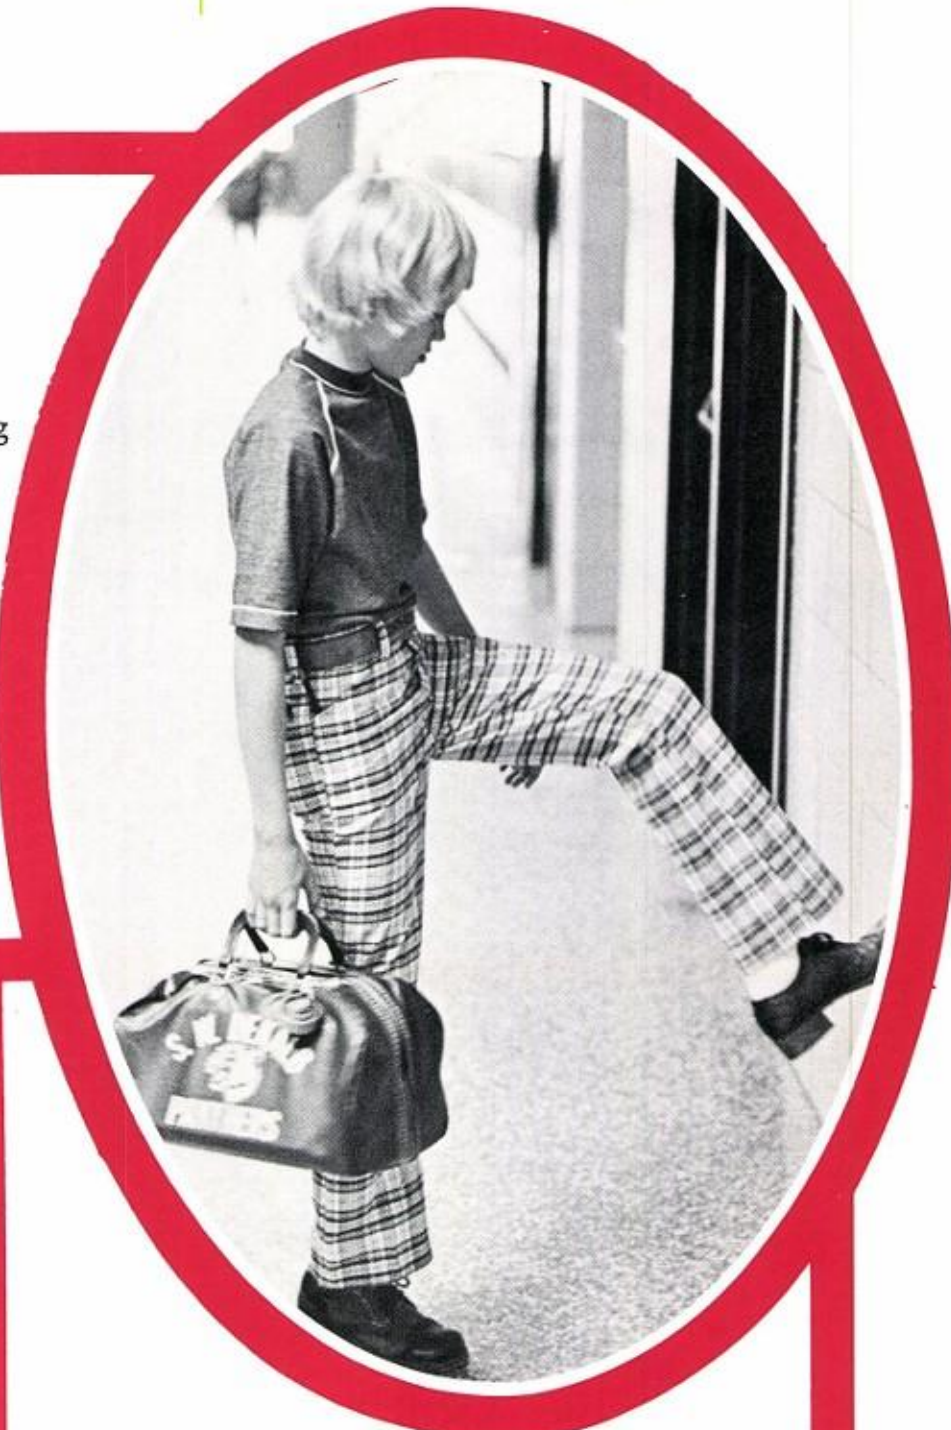

Did I hear her say to set up for a timed writing? Oh no, here they come again. I hope these hands are softer than the ones that rubbed against my keys last period. On the other hand, I don't particularly care for that girl with the long, red, pointed nails to poke at me either. What am I complaining about? At least the teacher had a good heart when she passed that 300 lb. tackle last year!

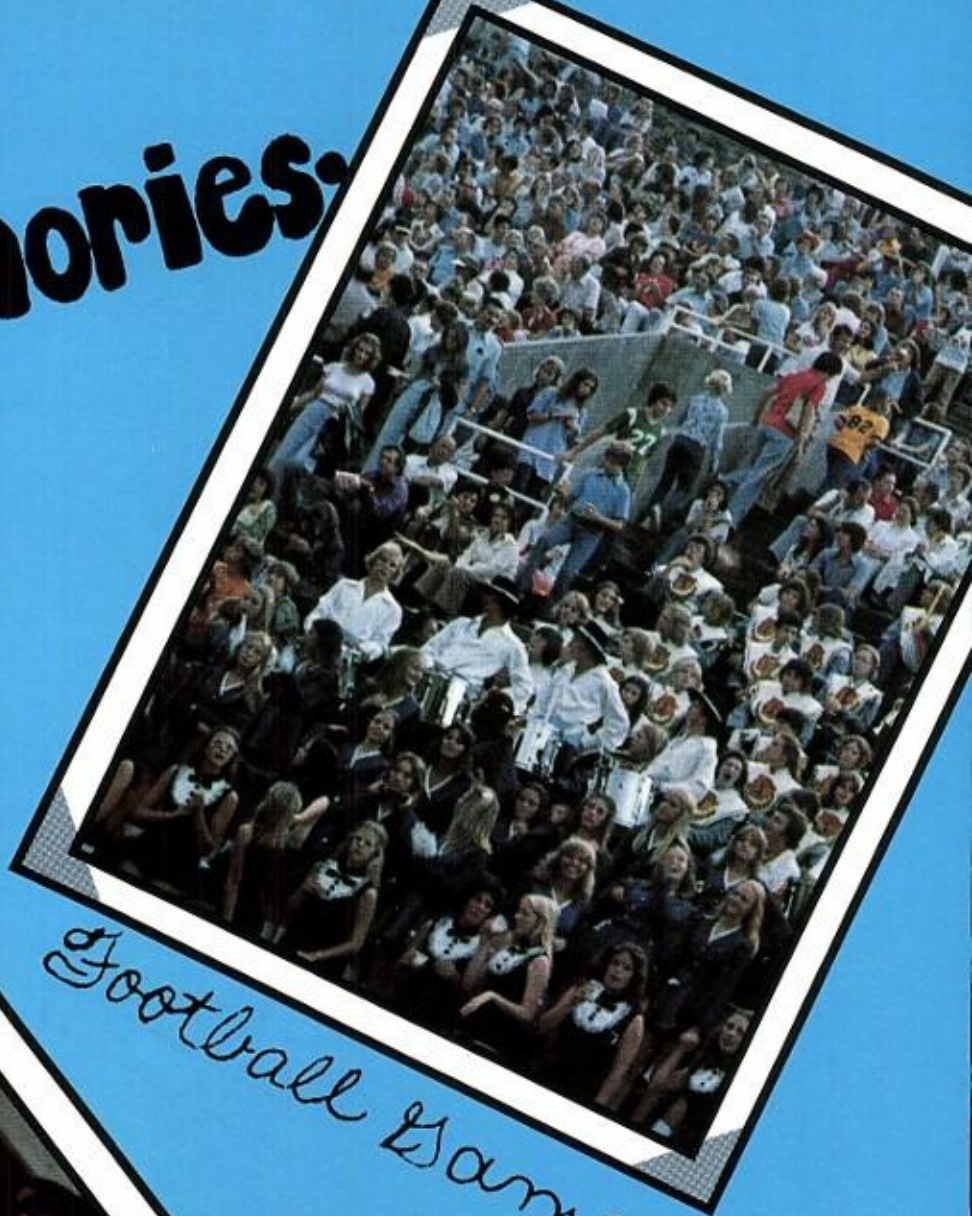

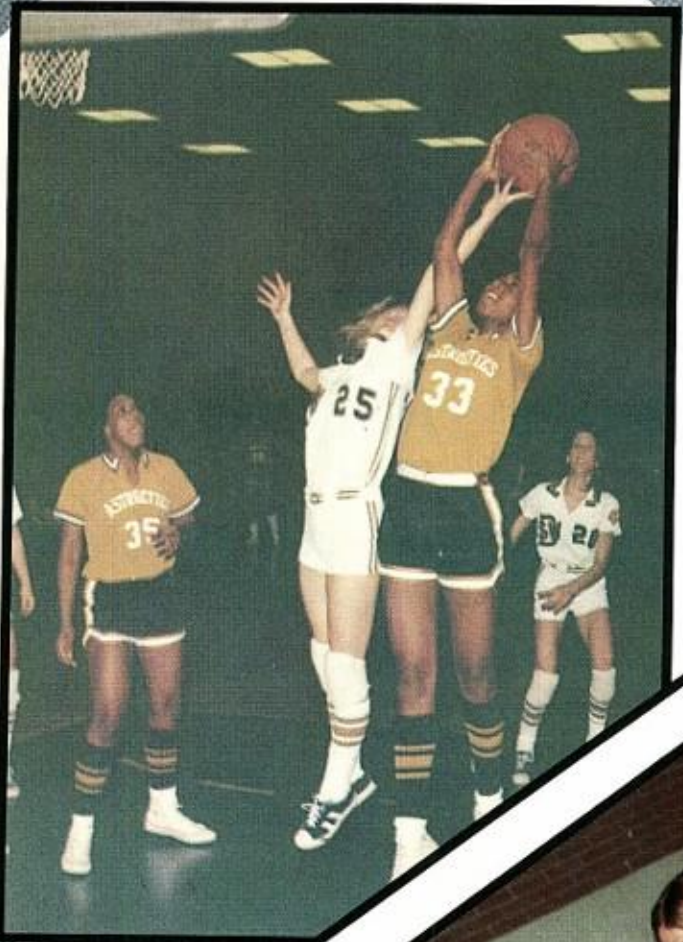

Boy, I feel better since Rodney Hot Rod just shined the 'ole Mean Machine up with me out on front. When my blue letters are gleaming and wheels screaming I'm the baddest thing to hit the parking lot. Of course you have to get used to all those other license plates taking a "gaze". When you're a celebrity you have to learn to live with being so well known and envied. But let's face it. S.W.D. stands for the best, of all the rest!

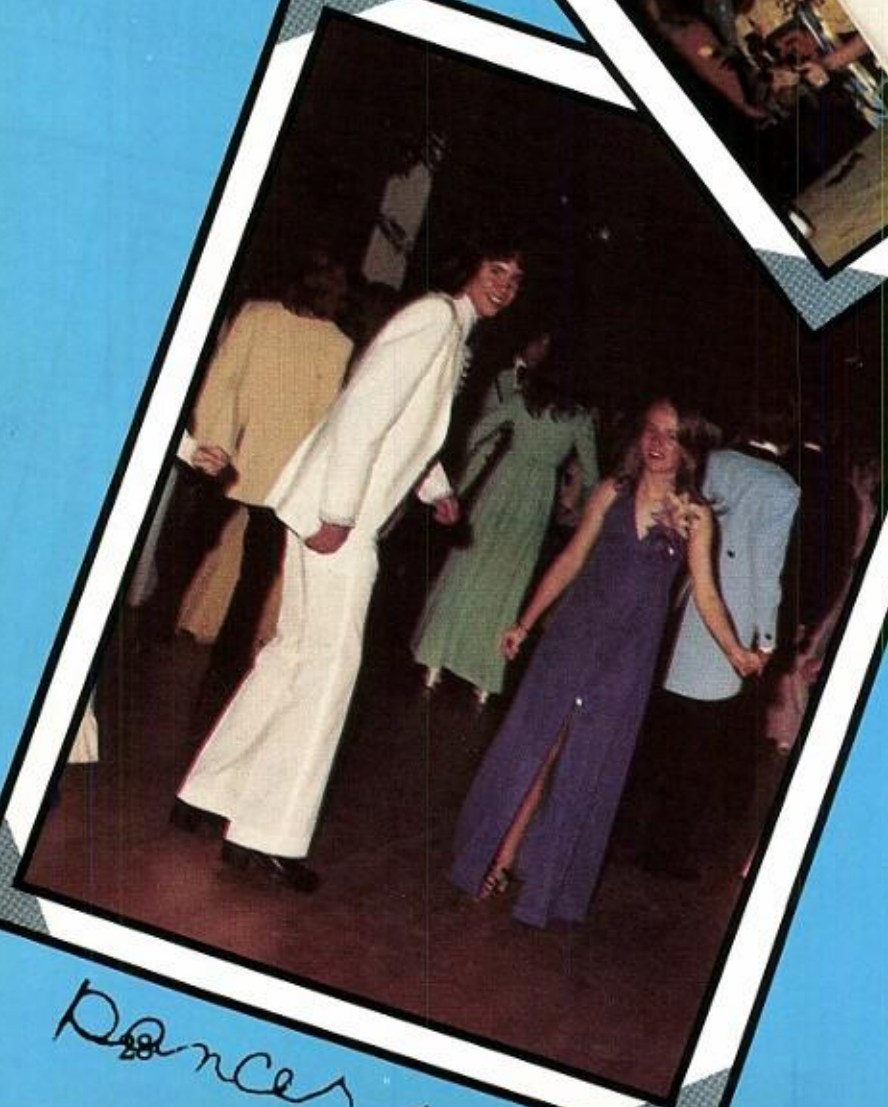

36-24-36, yep, that's me! Not my figure, but my combination. Funny this guy should forget my combination, but he did and now I have to take the blame for his stupidity. If I had a leg, maybe I'd kick him back, but since I don't, maybe I'll push all the books out when he jams my arm up to open me. Or maybe I just won't open at all!

Left, right, left, right, hey watch out up there! You almost set me right down in that piece of gum. You'd be surprised at the things you could run across down here, face to face with concrete. Even more interesting than what I see are the places I go and the different jobs I do. If I were a tennis shoe, than you'd find me "doing my thing" on the basketball court beneath the feet of Tyrome Shoelaces. You'll know I'm a platform shoe if you hear a stampede of cows coming around the corner of 3200 Hall. Wherever I go, whatever I am, I keep on truckin'!!

Homecoming '75

The halls are silent now, the air still, heavy with memories of one hundred eighty days, seven hours and twenty minutes, one thousand, two hundred sixty hours and the memories of school and games and dances and the forward rush of three-twenty memories of students sweating through tests, longing for the bell, praying for no homework, but filled with other remembrances. A student's mind can drift back to the life of the past in September halls crowded with new faces, a wider path led to the smoking court and some tried to get back into things while others tried to get out of them. Everyone awaited June. Some would return to live it again, for others it was gone, except in the mind.

To be a teacher and coach, one must be reliable and understanding. He must be willing to listen and learn as well as teach. That person must also transmitt humor and unfailing enthusiasm in all that he does.
Southwest DeKalb has found such a teacher, coach, and friend. Because he is such a person, the Senior Class would like to dedicate the 1975-76 PANTHER to Coach Jim Adams.

The 1976 Queen of Hearts Pageant was held February 12. There were 107 contestants entered, of which 30 were chosen as finalists. From these 30 the judges selected 13 girls to the court which consisted of Seniors WeeSe Donalson and Abbe Vogel; Juniors Kay Autry, Stacy Hull, Maria Lopez, Shelley Steele, Felicia Harber, and Sharon Smoak; Sophomores Pam Adams, Pat Quinn, Beth Mathis, Susanne Blue and Judy Merkl. Maria Lopez was chosen as 2nd runner-up, Pam Adams as 1st runner-up, and Miss Susanne Blue as the 1976 Queen of Hearts.

HOMEcoming

Homecoming at S.W.D. begins weeks before the actual game. Girls are nominated for the court 3 weeks before. Classes and clubs begin building their floats. Spirit Week is planned by the cheerleaders. The Powder Puff Game, between the Seniors & the Underclassmen, is planned and played. Then the special Homecoming — Spirit Week! Everyday you dress in a certain way to show your spirit. On Tuesday an assembly is held and all candidates are introduced to the Student body. Wednesday the court is voted on. The tension is building!! By Thursday, everyone is buzzing around anxious to hear the results. The floats are judged at the Panther Growl, Thursday night. The float winners are announced and the football team is introduced. And then the moment we've waited for. The court is announced. Friday morning, the school votes on the Homecoming Queen. Then comes the game. Friday night halftime includes the introduction of the court, runners-up, and finally the new Homecoming Queen is crowned! Last, but certainly not the least of Homecoming events is the dance. The dance is held in the cafeteria and is attended by the majority of the student body. Yes, Homecoming at S.W.D. includes quite a string of events. Homecoming 75' was definately the best.

"WE'VE GOT SPIRIT!"

Blue jeans, overalls, red-checked shirts, ponytails and freckles marked the first of a five-day spirit week — it was hillbilly day. Tuesday, Bicentennial day, was an eye-catching assortment of red, white and blue including clothes, hats, and shoes. The third day and probably the funniest was fifties day. Students and faculty alike participated in showing their spirit by wearing long, grey woolen skirts, bobby socks and saddle shoes, ponytails, rolled up blue jeans, T-shirts, and greased back hair. All this was followed by Thursday's hat, jersey, and glasses day. Visitors to the school did a double take as students walked by in jerseys, goggles and an assortment of floppy, feathery, old and new hats. Finally the blue and gold day. Everyone wore whatever they had in blue and gold.

And that's just the beginning! Along with the dress-up part of Spirit Week, organizations got into the act with their annual Homecoming float competition. All the floats were well-constructed with beautiful colors and characters. Among the most outstanding floats were: KAPPA — 3rd place, Jr. Civitan — 2nd place, DECA — 1st place and Jr. Civitan — most Bicentennial.

The tears, screams, hugs, and smiles that come with the announcement of Homecoming candidates and court were only the beginning to the excitement and anticipation of this event. There were eighty-six candidates, 13 of which were chosen by the students to be the 1975 Homecoming Court. They were Cindy Buttrill, WeeSe Donalson, Stephanie Ferguson, Marilyn Hairston, Kim Harmon, Judy Merkl, Beth Mathis, Catherine Mathis, Michelle Metaxas, Pat Quinn, Gayle Smith, Shelley Steele, and Susan Stranahan.

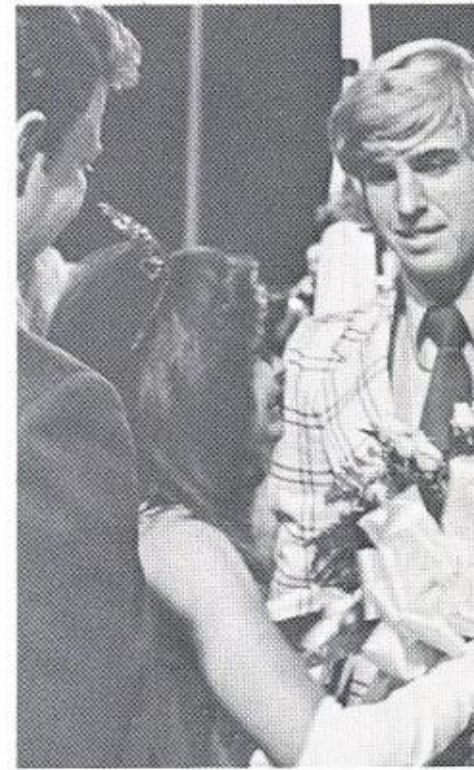

When all the hugging and jumping up and down had subsided, the cheerleaders helped to "ELEVATE YOUR MIND" while you "GOT YOURSELF TOGETHER" and the band let everyone know why SWD is Number 1!

PANTHER GROWL

HOME-coming
'76

It was a cool, windy night with darkness setting in over the packed stands. People poured in through the gates as buses unloaded students, band members, football players and cheerleaders. Everyone came to see the Panthers play the Towers Titans on home ground for S.W.D.'s "Homecoming Festivities Spirits" were particularly high because Towers had defeated Southwest the year before. The Panthers swore revenge.

From the start, it was Southwest clearly ahead of Towers scoring three times for a total of 21 points and holding the Titans to no points at all. The final score 21-0, set the fireworks for the announcement of S.W.D.'s 1975-76 Homecoming Queen and her court. Second Runner-up was Stephanie Ferguson, with Cindy Buttrill as First Runner-up and Marilyn Hairston was crowned '75 Homecoming Queen.

HOMECOMING DANCE

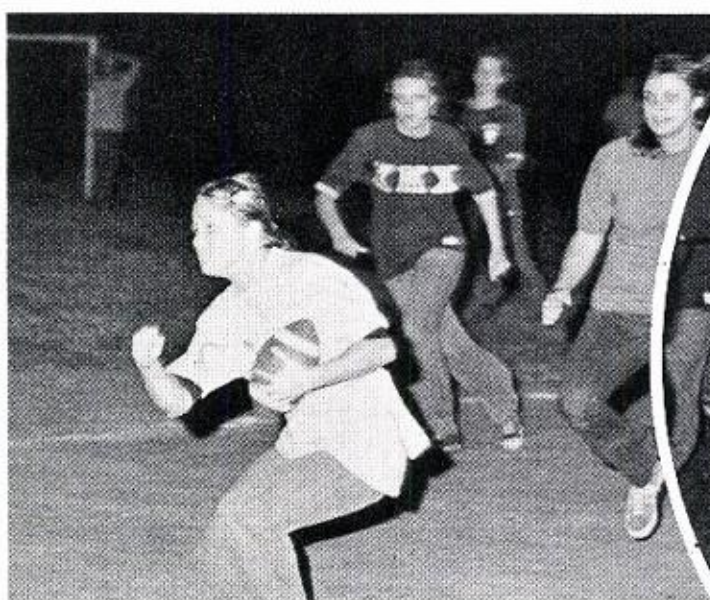

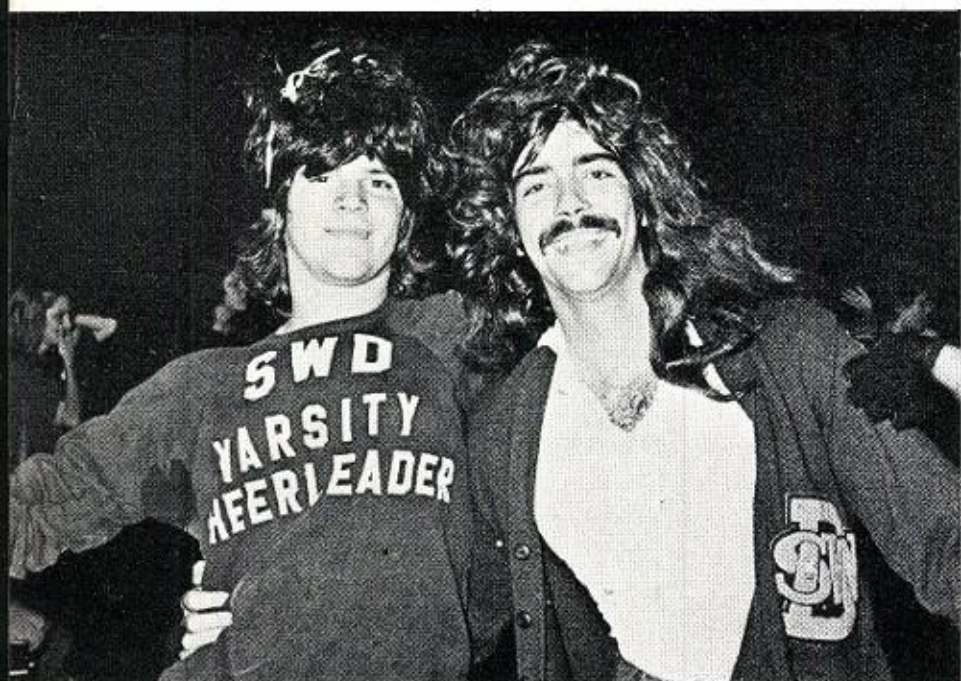

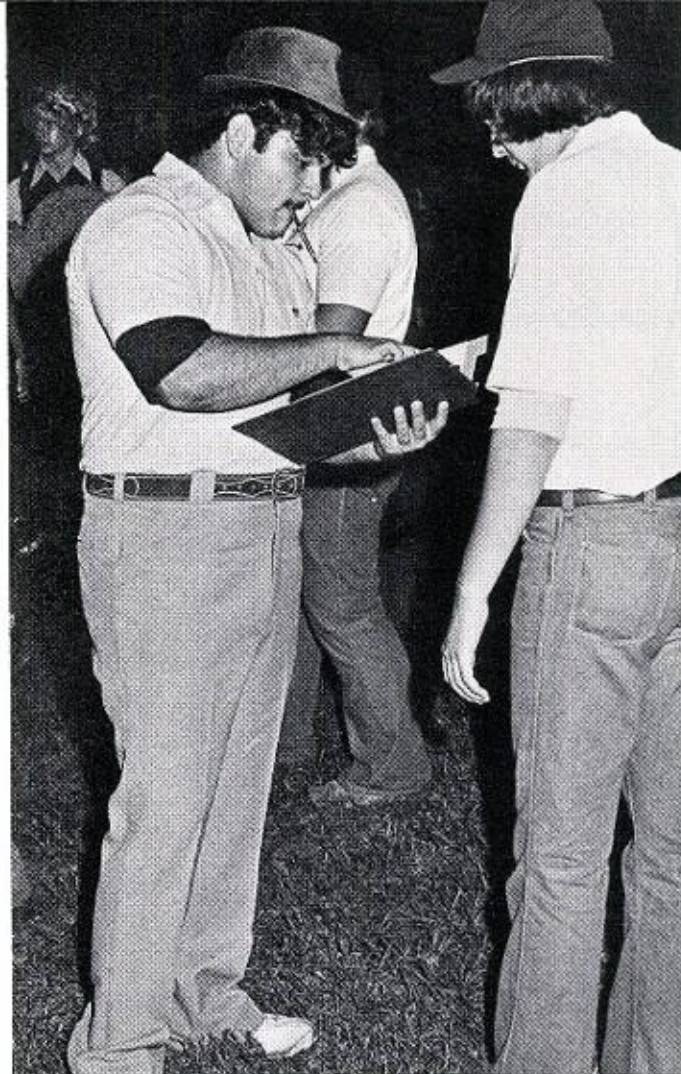

What can you say about the 1975 Homecoming Dance? It was packed! The yearly dance was held in the cafeteria. While standing in line just to get a number for a picture one could listen to the boogie music provided by "Black Stone Circus". The student council, who sponsored the dance, agreed that this year's homecoming dance was the most successful.

POWDER

This year's Powder Puff game was truly a "Star Spangled" event not only because of the Bicentennial celebration but also when playing one tended to see stars.

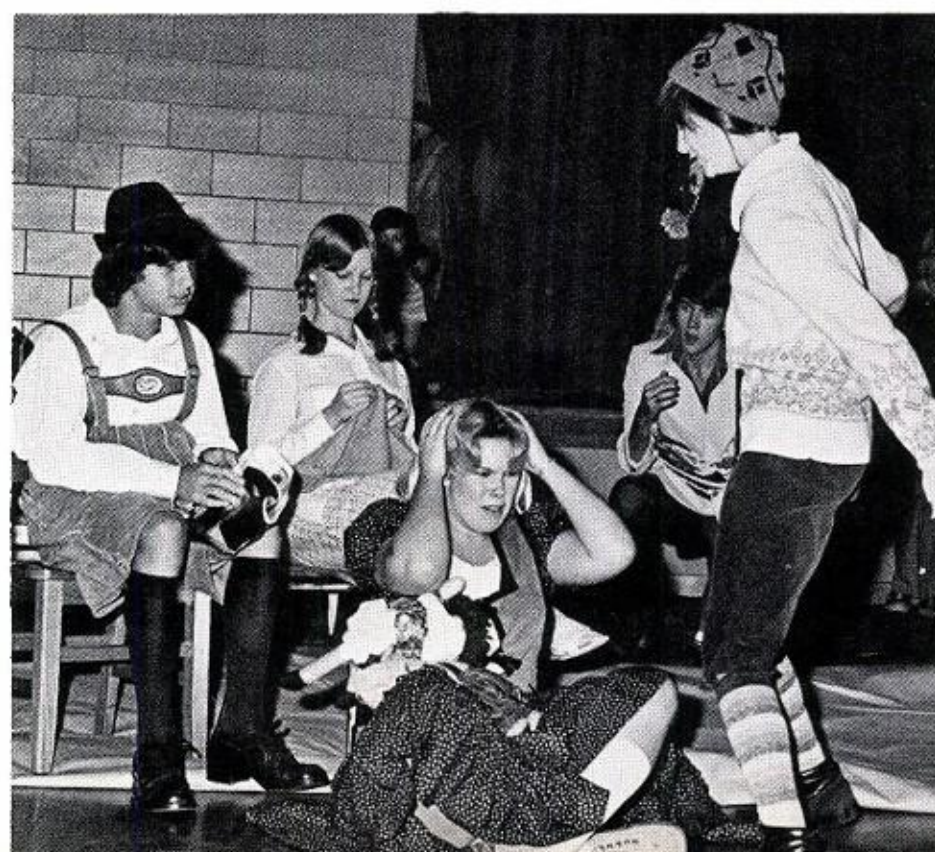

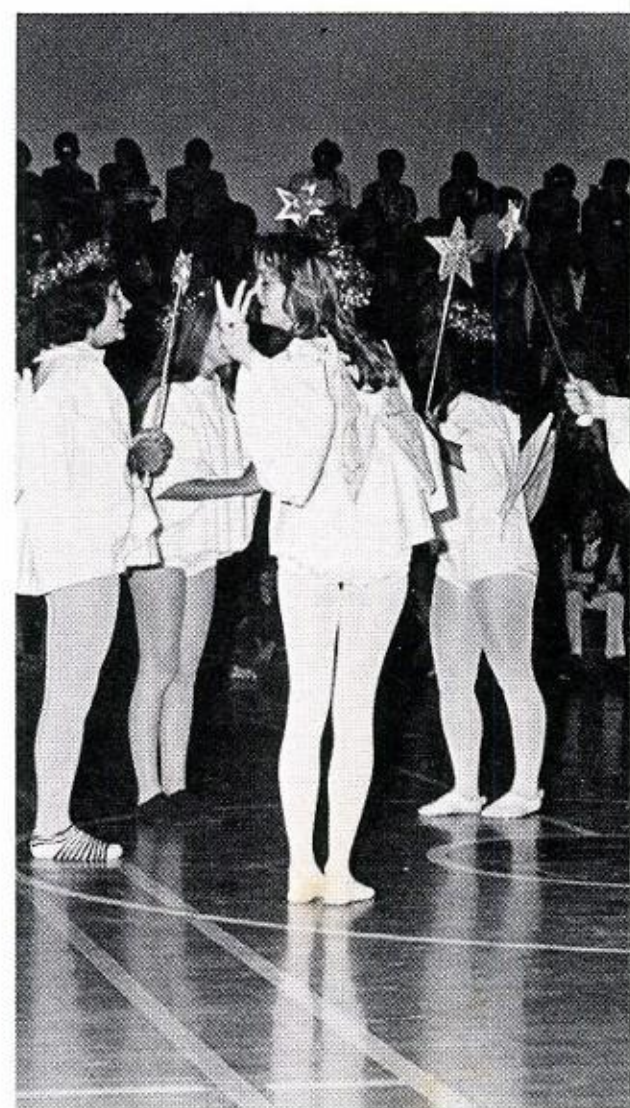

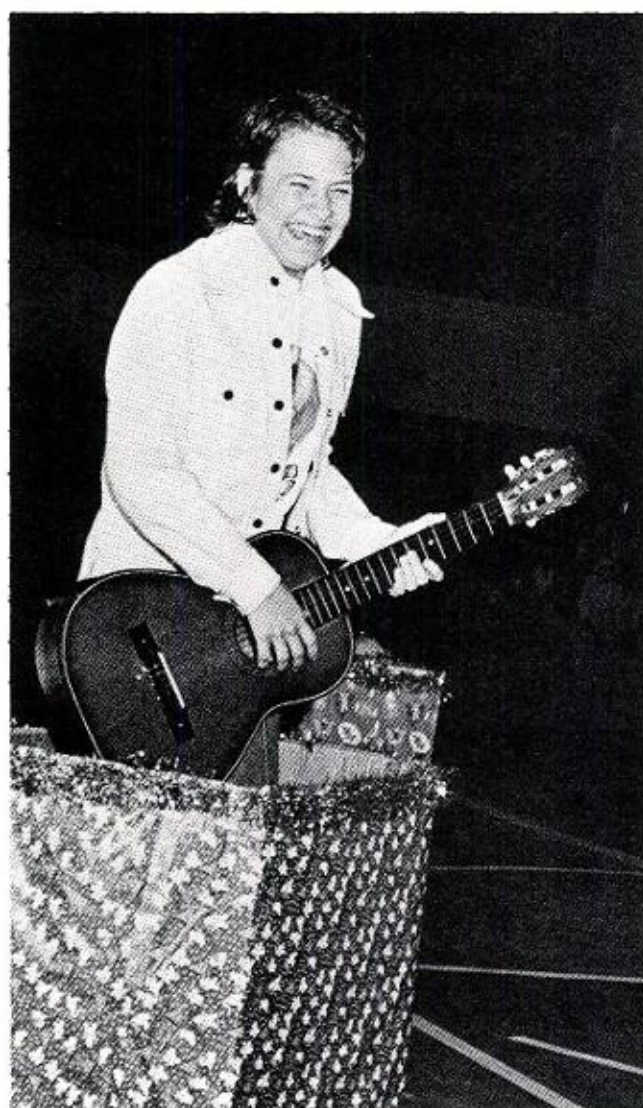

In one of the most fired-up contests yet, the underclassmen and seniors went at it full steam ahead with Robyn King and Jill Joiner taking command of the underclass and Laurie Mills and Cindy Buttril at the senior front. From the very start of the game it was competitive. During the days of practice that preceded the game, shouts, cheers and not so mild insults flew across the field between the opposing sides.

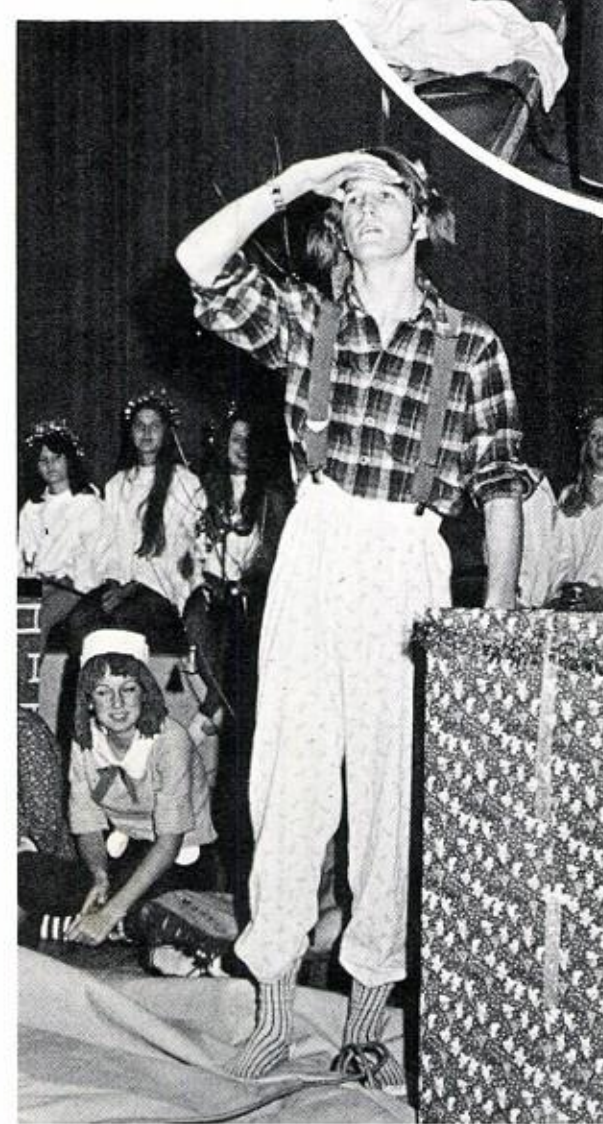

The game was mostly underclass-dominated with seniors trailing from the very first play, while flags tied to belts on one side, shaving cream and fingernails proved effective on the other.

Everyone took part in the fun including spectators who were doused with water balloons and teachers who were treated to free shaving cream and water hoses. It was a good time with the underclass savoring a 33-12 victory, the first in several years.

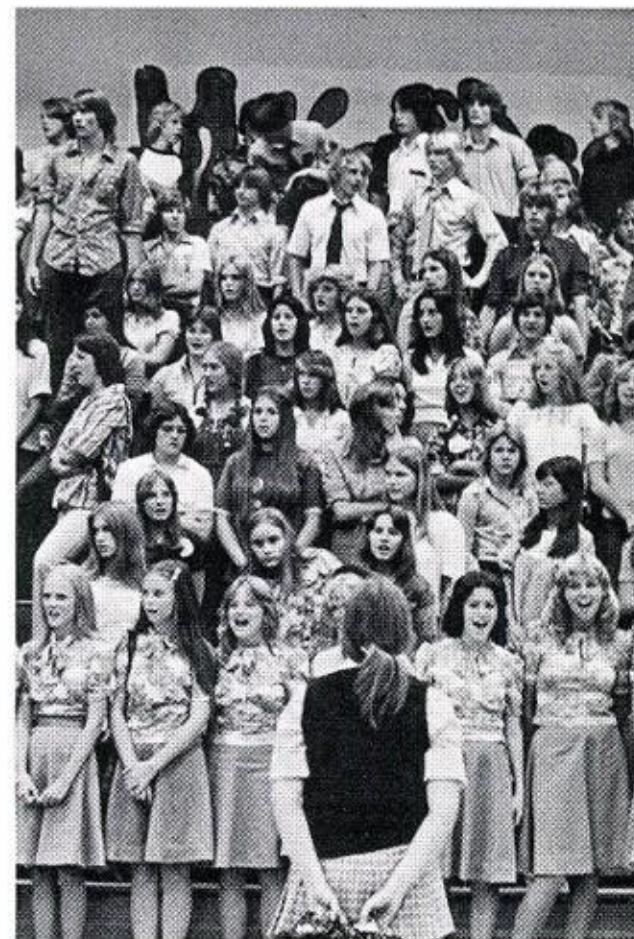

CHRISTMAS AROUND THE WORLD

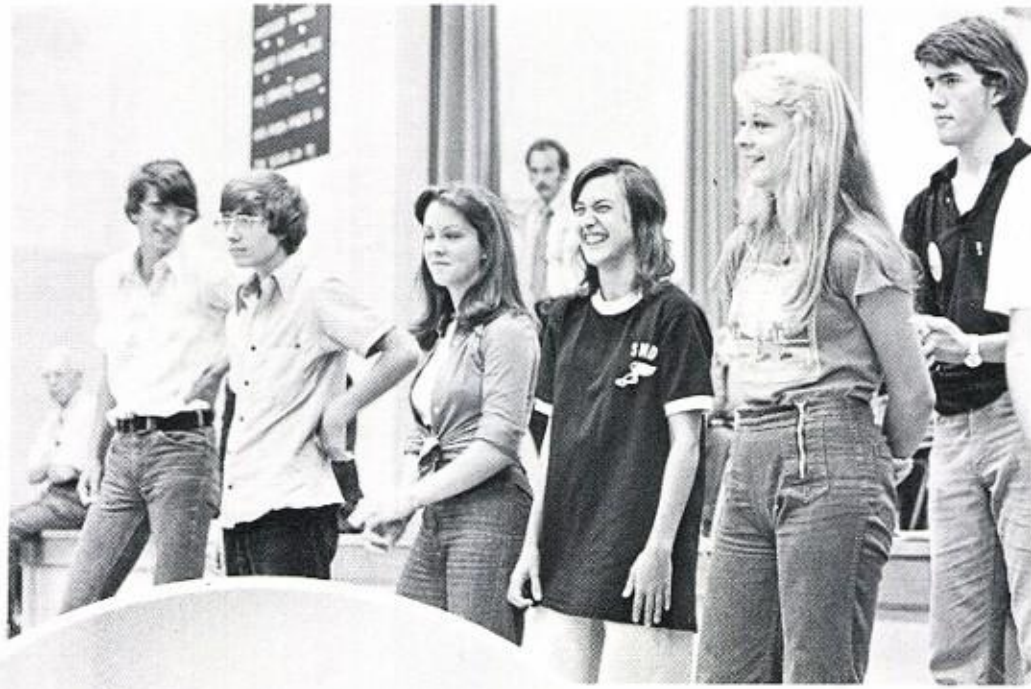

Feliz Navidad! Natalis Christus! Joyeaux Noel! Froliche Weinachten! No matter how you say it, this year's SWD Christmas Assembly was a merry one. Spanish, Latin, French, and German clubs all participated in individual Christmas skits which included mini-skits and Christmas carols from their particular countries. The Drum Corp got the Assembly on its feet with their always excellent cadence. The language clubs followed with skits and songs and the Rhythmettes danced and twirled to Christmas music, followed by the "Angelic" Majorettes. At the end of the Assembly, everyone joined together and paraded around the gym singing "Merry Christmas", "Feliz Navidad", "Natalis Christus", "Joyeaux Noel" or "Froliche Weinachten."

PEP RALLIES

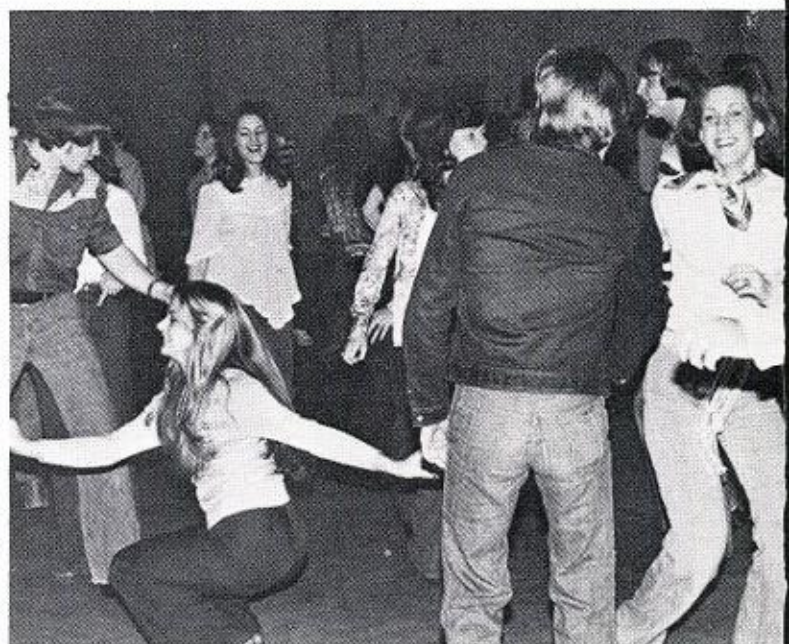

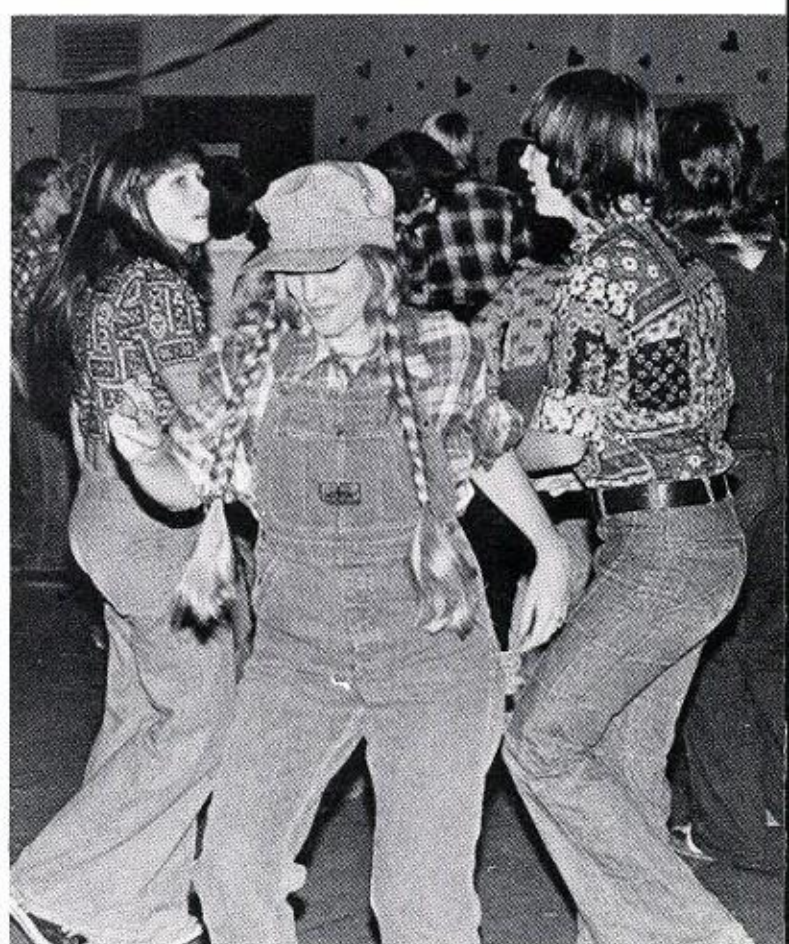

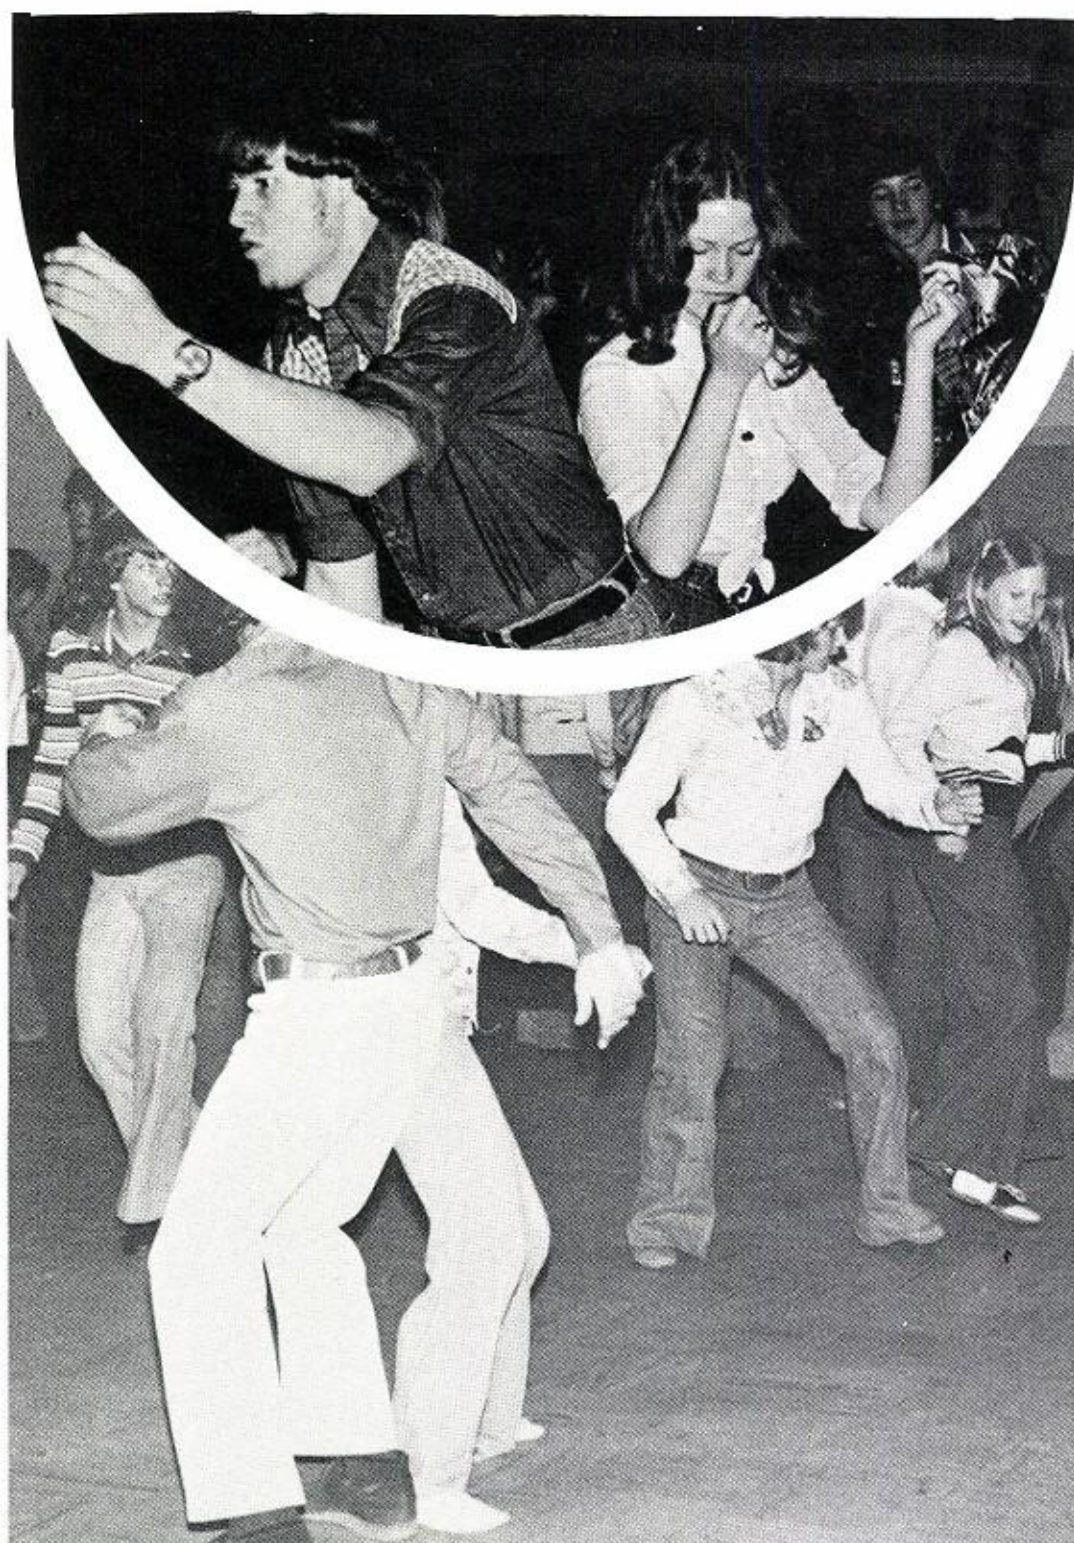

Cheers, shouts, chants and applause surround the gym walls while the band lets loose a fanfare all its own. Fourteen girls in blue and gold dance around megaphones, clapping and screaming with enthusiasm. Two thousand students clap their hands and join in the cheers. Candy and bubble gum fly from paper sacks into the stands and another SWD pep rally is moving right along. This year's pep rallies have been some of the highlights of the 6th period blues. The cheerleaders, band, and corps get the students to "let loose" with skits, spirit competition, candy and gum, and a list two miles long of panther chants. What's a SWD pep rally? An organized student riot of enthusiasm and spirit!

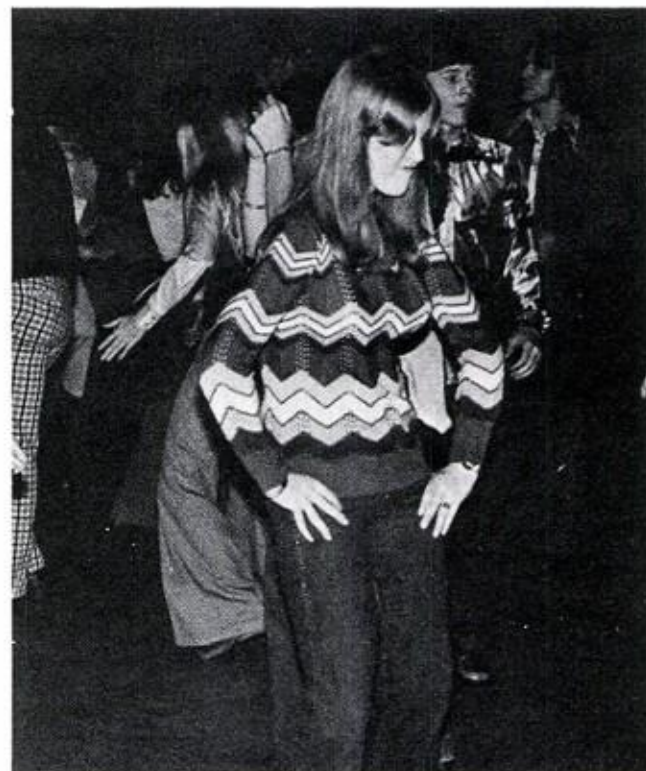

SADIE '76 HAWKINS

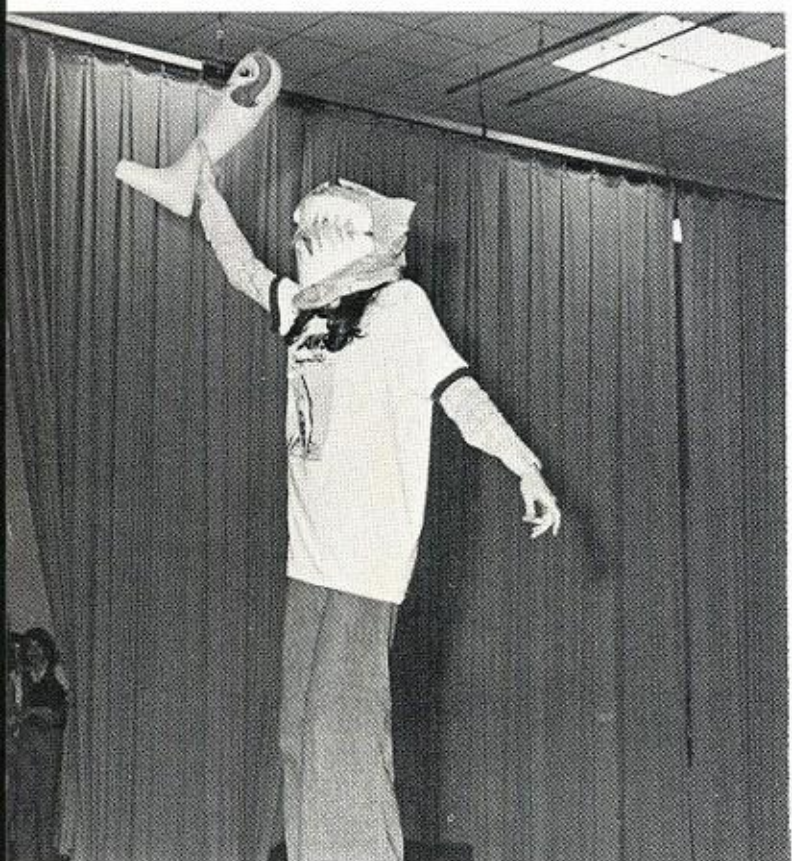

February 14 is our traditional celebration of Valentines Day. This was also the date celebrated by S.W.D. as Sadie Hawkins. The Sadie Hawkins Dance was presented by the Annual Staff and Student Council.

Many hours of hard work and "Country Valentines" style decoration went into preparation. The cafeteria was accented by cupids, hearts, a wishing well, and high-lighted by a Mar-rin' Sam performing quick, country style weddings.

S.W.D. was honored with the fantastic performance of the band "PENDULUM". They played everything from Kiss to their own original song. Their act was topped-off by their own explosion of light. People went on boogieing and bumping all night long.

This was one of the best dances here at S.W.D. and was considered a great success. So when it comes time for it next year, ya'll be sure to come.

BONDUR

From "Sleeping Beauty" in Germany to the "Academy Awards" in Spain . . . Language Day takes you around the world in six periods.

The clubs, German, Spanish, Latin, and French, put together their own entertaining skits in their own native tongues. Directed and produced by the foreign language teachers, the students wrote up, dressed out, and acted their roles in each skit as they were presented. The topics of SWD's Language Day ranged from children's fairy tales in German and Latin to a French Cafe' scene and the Academy Awards; Espanol style!

ENTERTAINMENT

CHEER

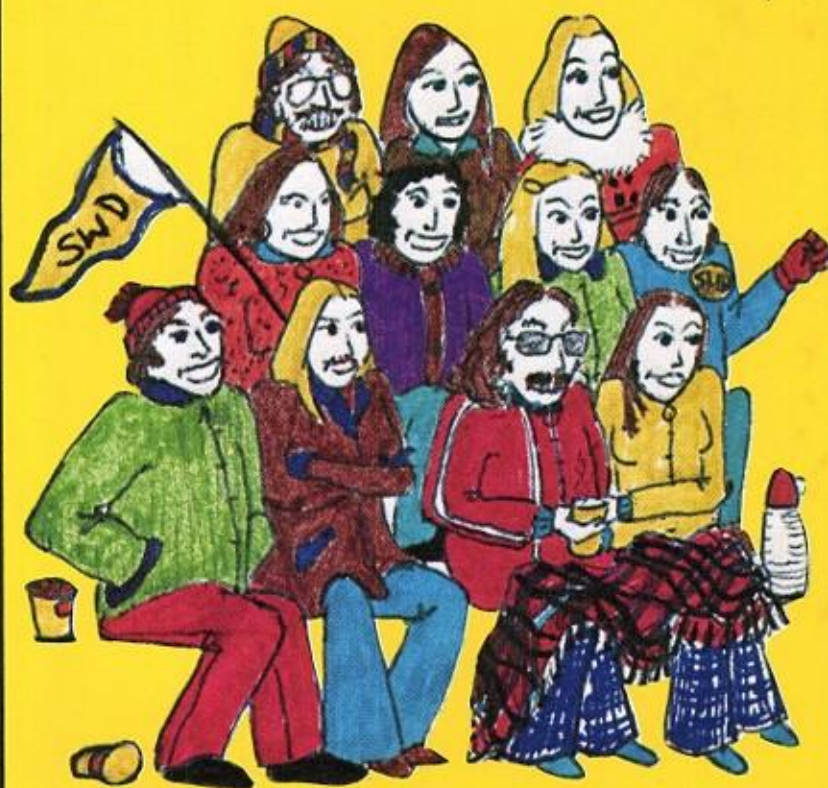

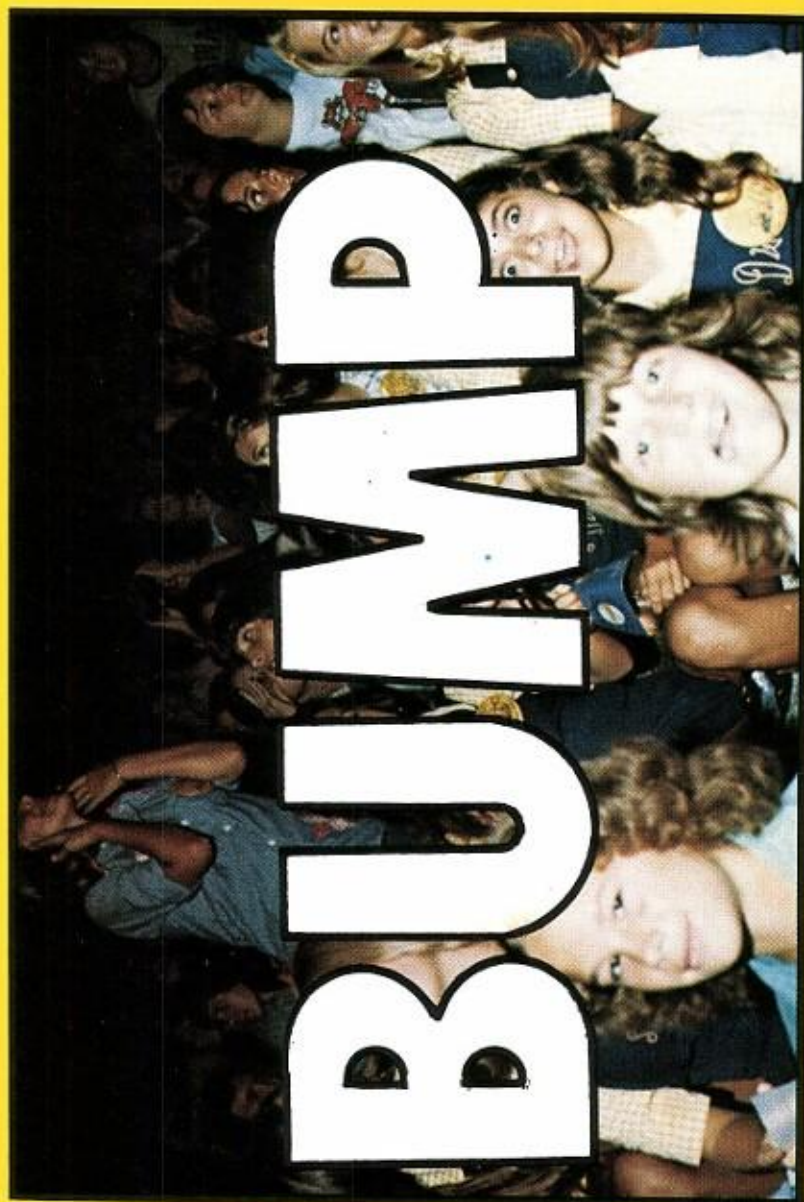

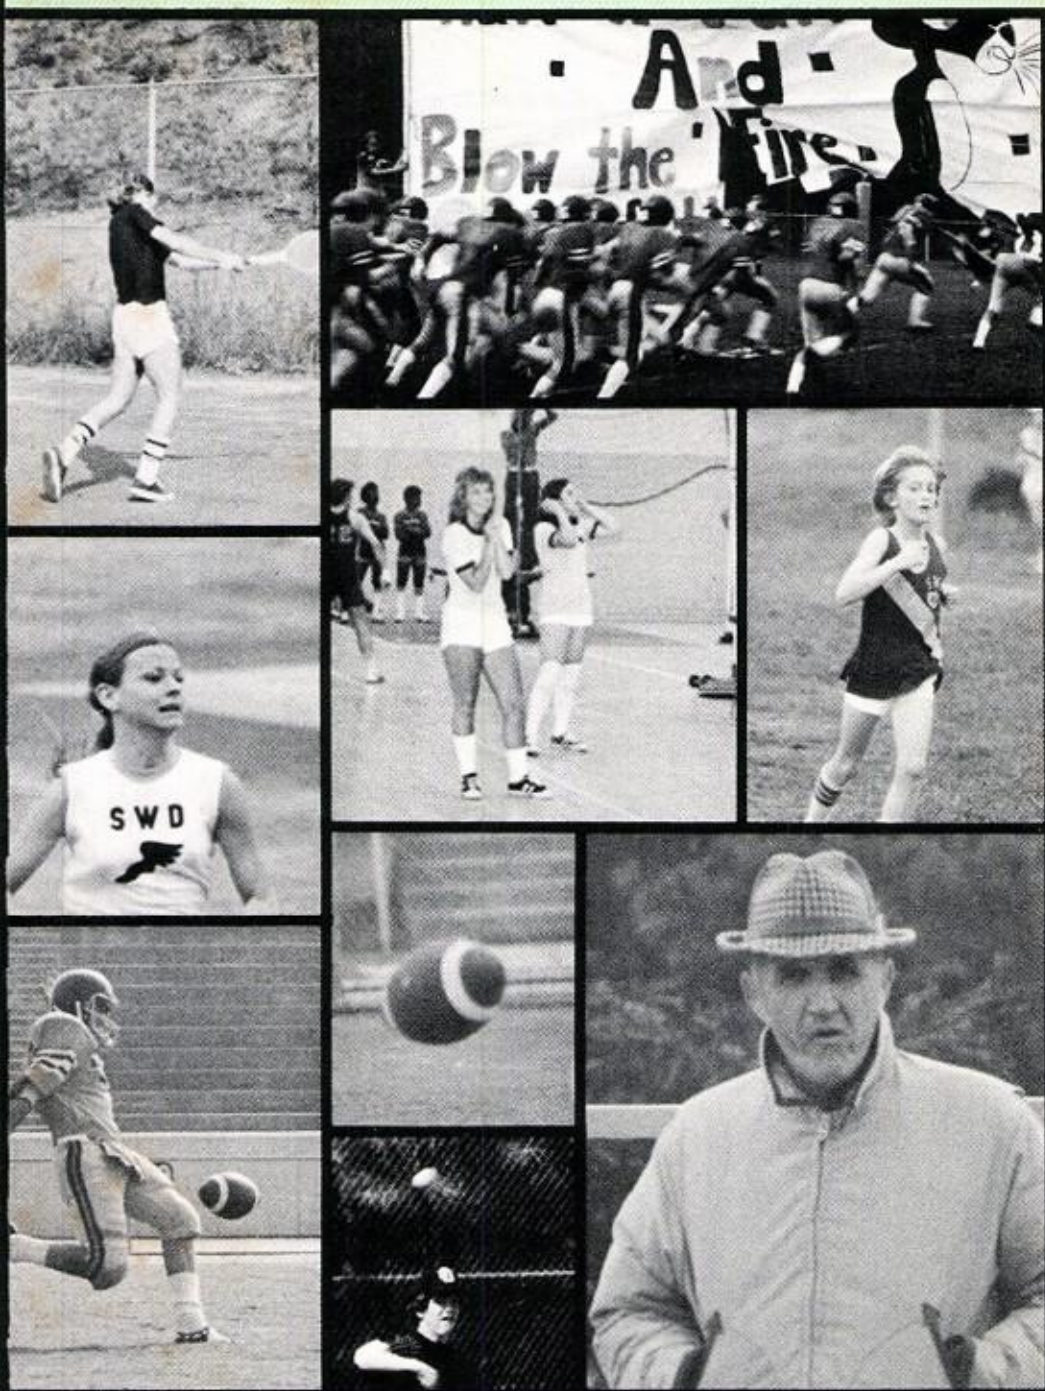

Thousands cheer because the stars are out Spring, Summer, and Fall at SWD. Stars such as Gary Burger, Duke O'Brien, Dennis Herring, Ken Merkl, and Steve Foley not to mention Lynde Worley, Robyn King, and Denise Carter and other big-name performers at SWD. More will be appearing next year.

You'll even cheer louder when you remember that you don't have to pay one extra cent to see any of these special attractions. It's all part of the five-year ticket. So's the other entertainment that seems to appear anywhere you turn. No telling when you're likely to run into a football jock, basketball stud, or a mat man that helps make SWD alive with entertainment, day or night.

You'll see a fresh show and talented new performers who'll get you toe-tapping and hand-clapping in no time. Three cheers for the fans!

You can bump into all sorts of friends, relatives and total strangers at the largest bumper-to-bumper ride in the world, PANTHERSVILLE. They'll say, "Fancy running into you." If they really say this, go give them the runaround on the cross-country track. Then you can hear your ups and downs on the original basketball court. Remember the thrill of wrestling when you were a kid? Now let yourself have a chance to discover this bumping musical joy that you just don't find in many places today.

SEE

Look over here, hey, look over there, and did you see that? Just enter the gate and the flags wave at you, the fans applaude as you enter a world where you begin to see things that you haven't seen anywhere, everywhere!

Southwest DeKalb would be a sight to see even if there wasn't a thing to do. But there's everything to see and do, day and night. It's a fantasy world of adventures, rides, shows, and exciting things that just happen like you'd never expect. But you'd better get started if you're going to give everything the once-over and your most favorite things the twice-or-thrice-over. That one five-year ticket you paid for is all you need to ride and ride, see, see, and see, do and do and do.

When the sun goes down SWD is as different as night and day. Lights! Action! There's color, color everywhere. Bam! Pop! Swoosh! Boom! The sky explodes with dazzling fireworks and spirit with every victory. Southwest DeKalb is a magic marvel in the cool, cool, cool, of evening. Unreal! The only thing that comes close to being as exciting as SWD at night is SWD during the day.

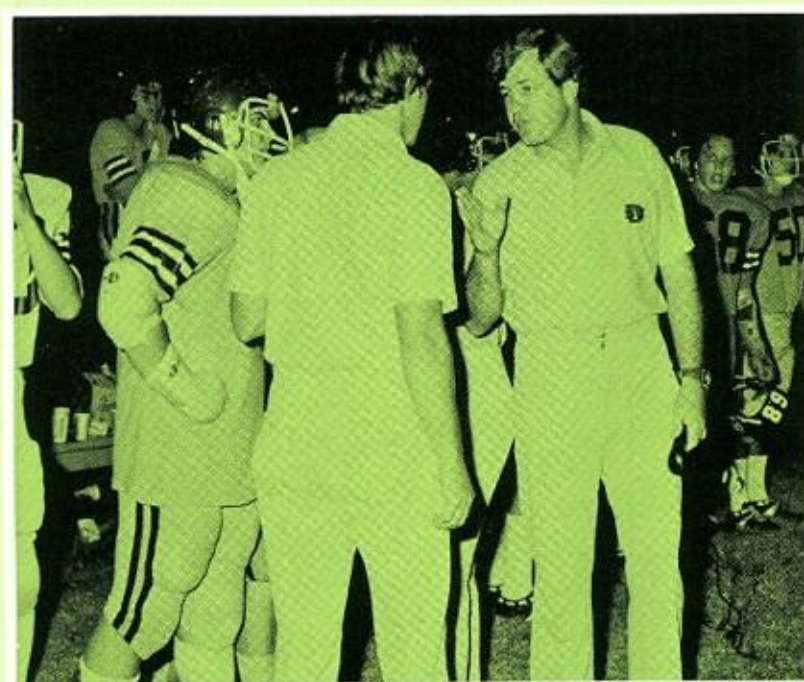

SPRIT

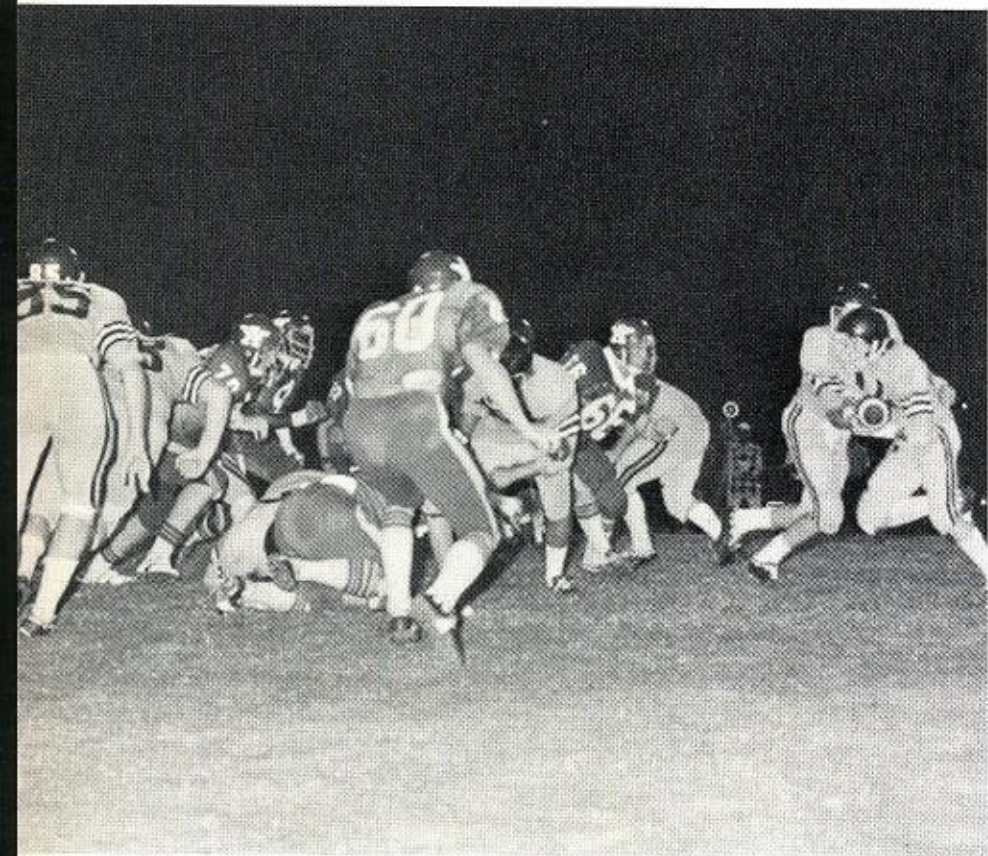

The Southwest Dekalb offense was led by Jeff Gabriel, Dennis "Fish" Herring, Drew and Randy Wagner, Tim Lawrence, and Mich Caldwell who all combined to do the scoring. Together the Panthers buried some of their top rivals in such close contests as the Avondale and Towers defeats. Although the season ended on a disappointing and controversial note, the S.W.D. Panthers and Coach Dewey Alverson put together a record and more important, a team, that we can all be proud of.

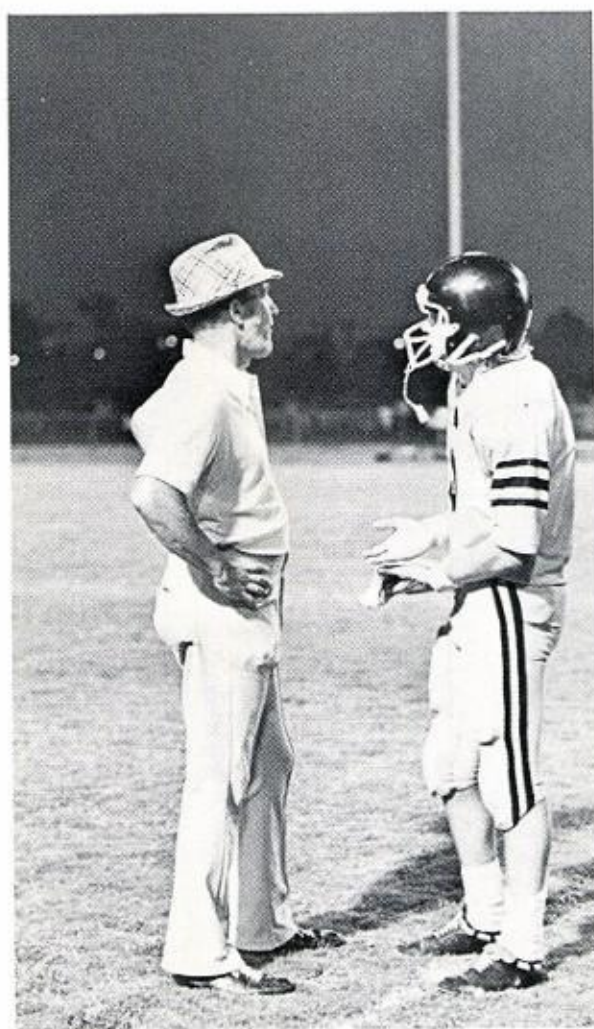

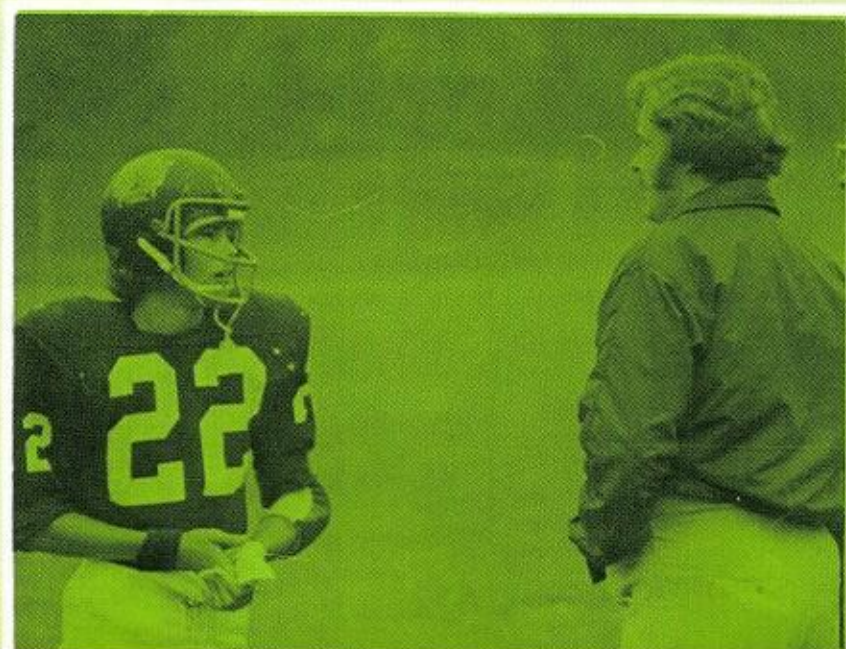

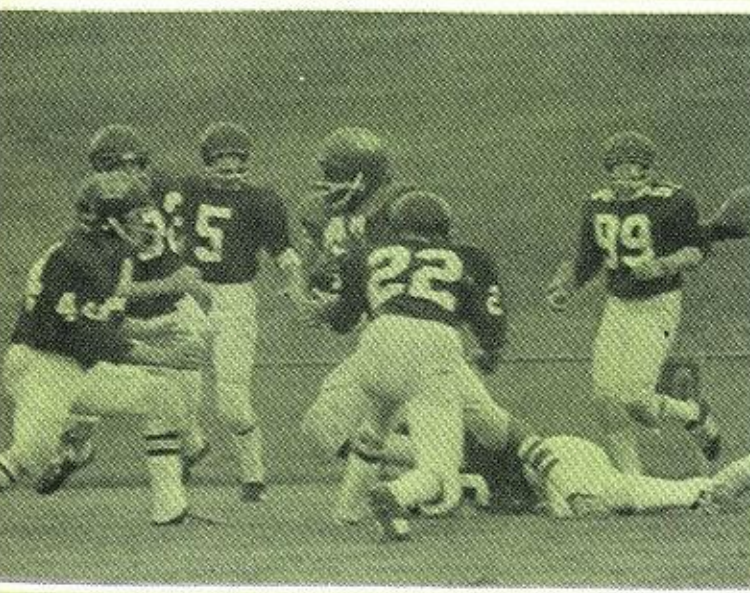

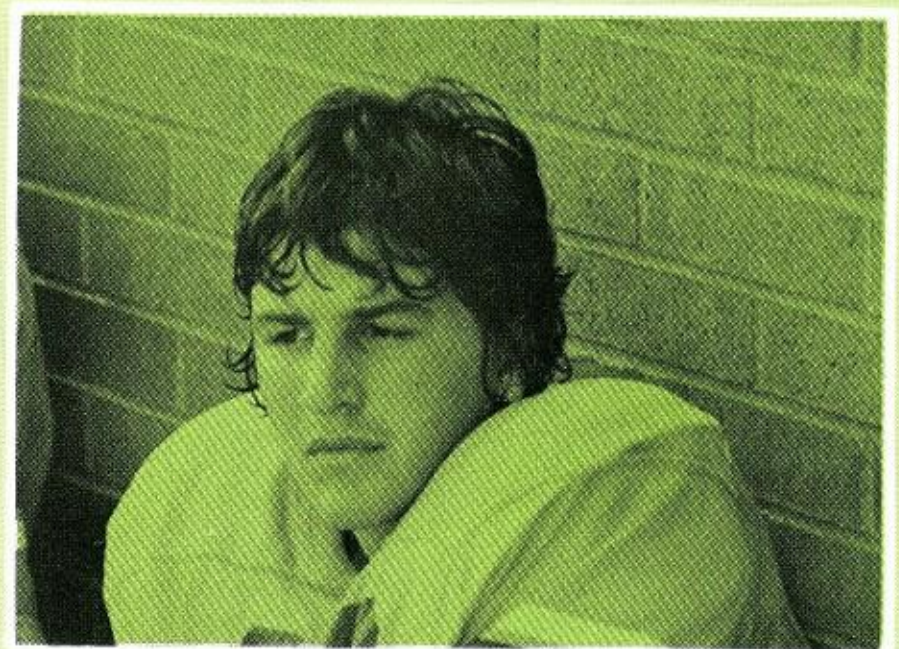

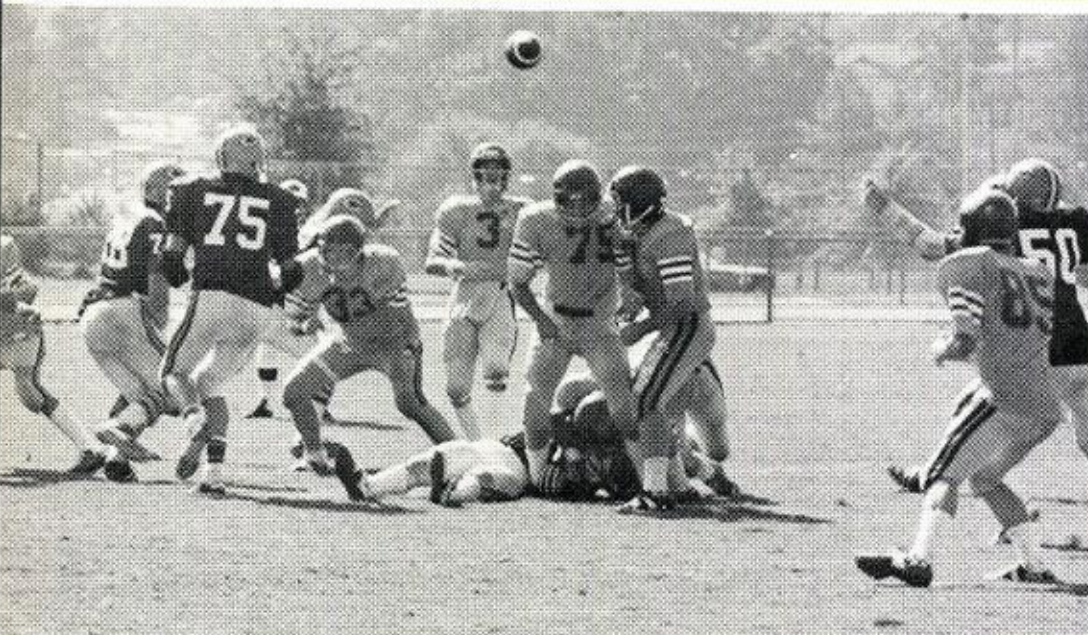

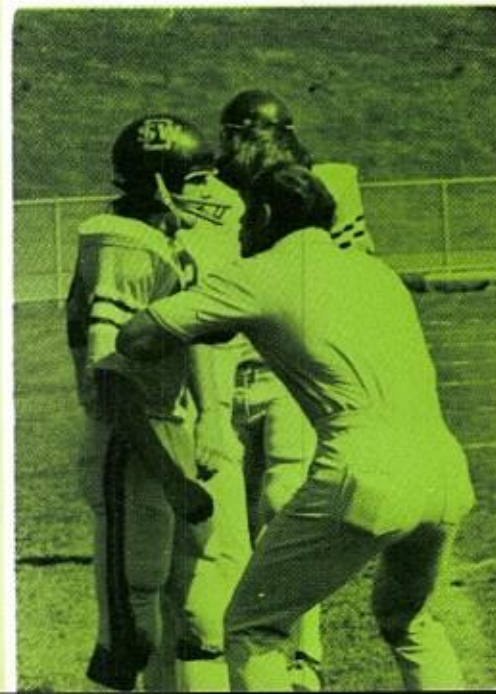

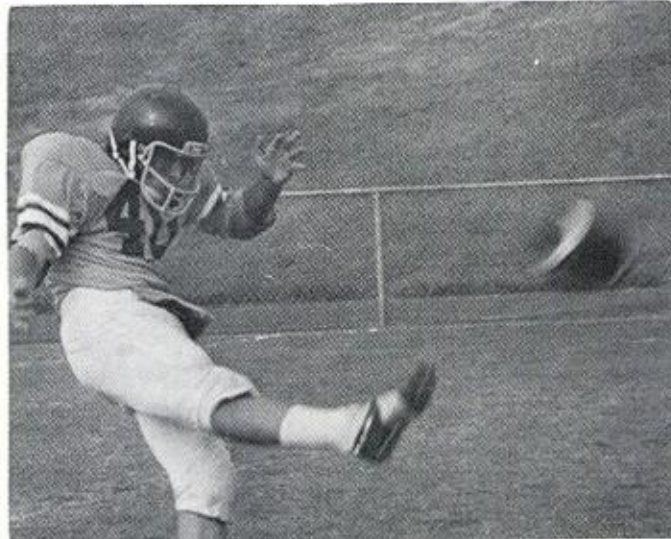

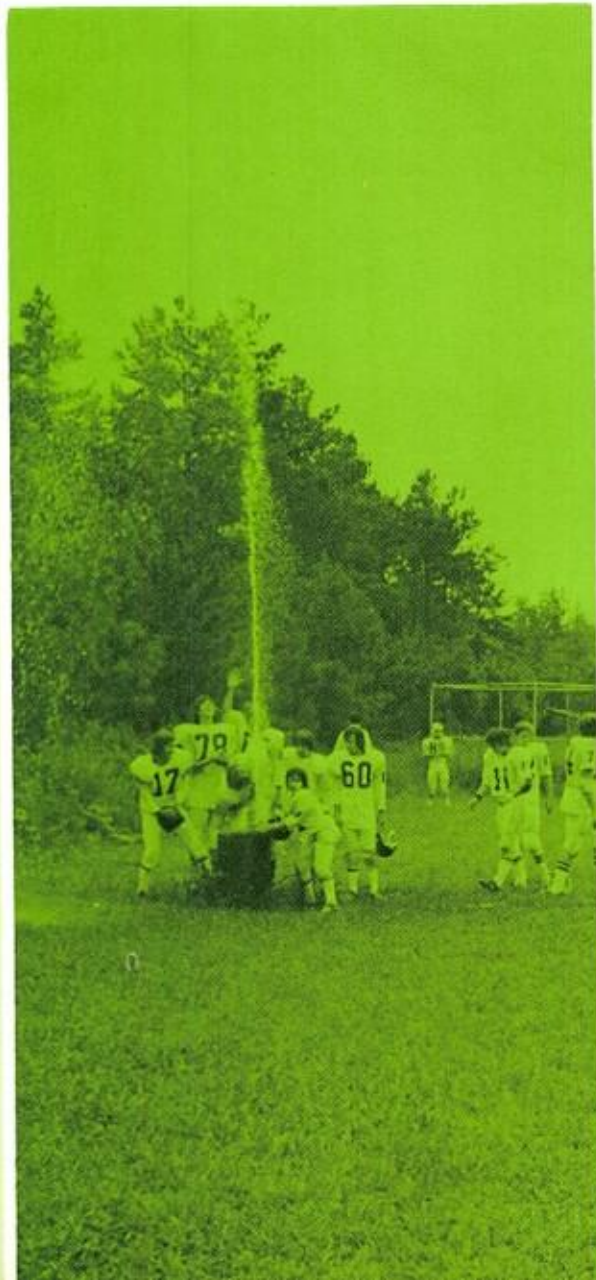

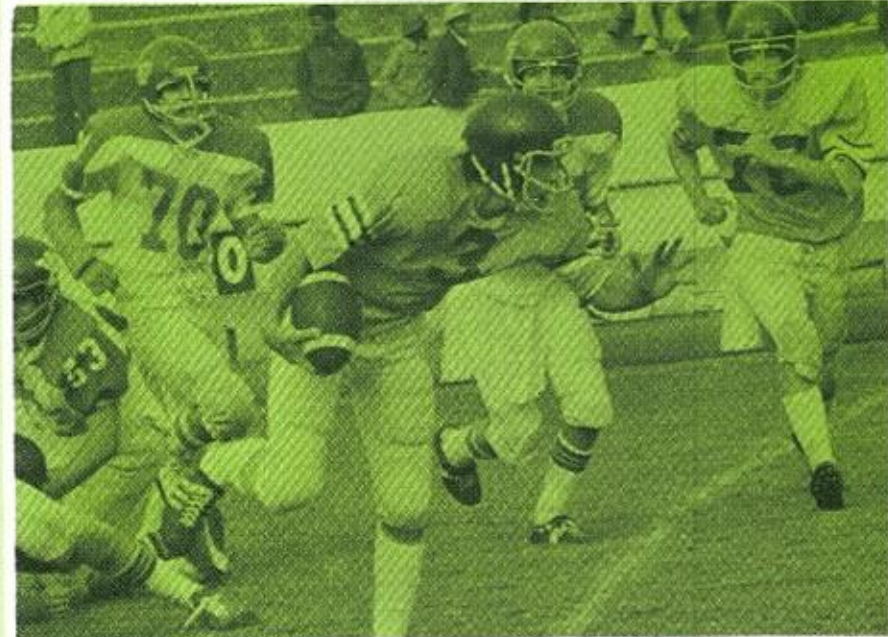

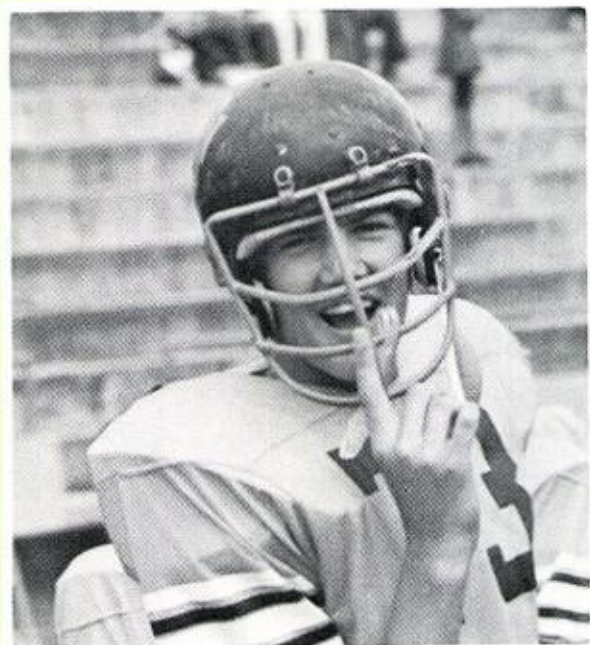

The name of the game is football. It is made up of back-breaking work from early Spring to mid-Winter and it is put together with the efforts of coaches, managers, an offense, a defense, and a will to win.

The 1975 Varsity Panthers compiled an 8-2 record on sheer determination as well as physical strength and mental experience. The teams defense led by Seniors Jimmy Gaddy, Gary Burger, Billy Clark, Brad Coon, and Donnie Strickland held down such powerhouses as Avondale, Shamrock and Towers.

The SWD Panthers played one of the most exciting kinds of "foot"ball ever this past year. This year's Varsity Soccer team, coached by Mike Kuczmariski, was headed toward a winning season as early as the middle of January with a 4-0 record. Although the team was a young one, lead mainly by Sophomores and Juniors, the Panthers defeated many a Senior dominated team. With this kind of competition and spirit, Soccer gained much popularity and support at SWD during the 1975-76 season.

The Panther cagers fielded a young team this year. Coach Gene Ginn termed it "a rebuilding year." The Young Panthers consisted of 10 underclassmen and only two seniors, Julian O'Brien and Rene Cordona. Though the Panthers did not have a highly successful season this year, things will be brighter in the future when the Panther's young talent is put to use.

The 1975-76 Girls Varsity Basketball Team had to adapt to a few changes this year and they did so with determination and skill. With the changing of the year came a turnabout in the playing style of Girls basketball. They switched from 6 girls on the floor to the regular men's rule of a five-man game. But the girls liked the change and took on the challenge led by guard and top scoring junior, Jill Joiner. Also contribution to the joint effort was freshman Julie Jenkins, a forward and skillfull rebounder. By mid-season, the team had put together a 3-4 record in region play and were looking forward to the playoffs.

The '75 edition of SWD baseball was a study of contrast. The first six games were marred by four 1 run loses, practically ruining any playoff chances. But then the Panthers exploded for nine straight wins to finish up 11-4. The streak included two satisfying victories over arch-rivals Towers and Columbia. Coach John DeVore's Panthers were lead by the steady performance of two-time MVP Doug Ibele, along with the hitting of batting champion Randy Wagner. Major offensive contributions were made by RBI king Randy Greene, super-soph Craig Dryden, Billy Echols, Mike Klarman, Dennis "Fish" Herring, and Mike Autry. The backbone of the pitching staff was little lefty with a wicked curve, Bob Roddy. Also aiding the cause from the mound was David Coley, and again, Echols and Greene.

The most demanding position an athlete can be placed in, is that of total self-reliance in individual competition. Sports such as wrestling, track, swimming and gymnastics put enormous responsibility on the individual. He is totally on his own without any of his teammates to cover for his mistakes. Whether it be in the water or on the mat, the track field or the bowling lanes, he is a "marked man" with little or no margin for error.

This section of the '75-'76 yearbook is dedicated to the individual athlete. It has been set apart from the other sports for that particular purpose. The individual's hard work and determination, somewhat overlooked in the past, is hereby saluted.

As our traveling tour comes to an end, we can look back on the past year's sports with a victorious note for the outstanding accomplishments of both individual and team efforts. Win or lose, the Panther teams gave it all they had and their determination was equaled only by the support of their fans.

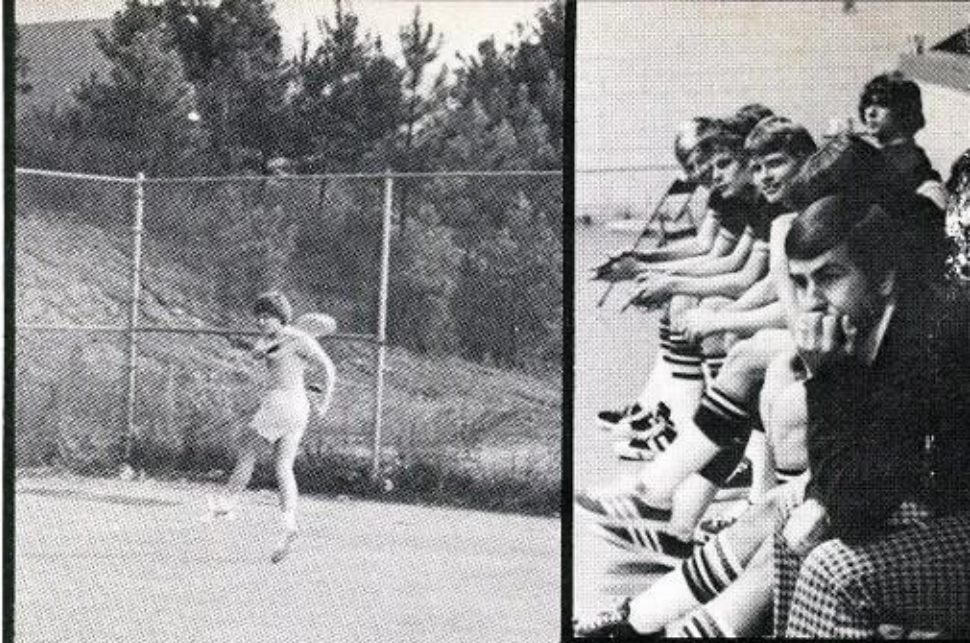

Congratulations and appreciation to the varsity football, soccer, and wrestling teams especially to the select few on each team whose efforts throughout the particular season were outstanding.

Though the basketball season ended with several disappointing losses, the varsity girls' and boys' teams demonstrated their will to win by turning out some of the finer basketball players in the region. Whether or not the state champions were there, the talent was, without a doubt, characteristic of both teams.

Also growing in popularity are baseball and track; the spring sports. Though they are composed of players as a team, both sports are representative of individual competition. RBI's, strikeouts, stolen bases, homeruns, and batting averages are as important to the baseball player as the win-loss record is to the team as a whole. The same holds true for points and places in relay runs, shot put throws, and dashes when competing for excellence in track.

And believe it — it takes courage to be a gymnast on two skinny poles in the air or flying toward the ceiling on a trampoline! The SWD gymnastic teams have that courage and as a result, the sport has become a favorite sport at the school.

Overall, the 1975-76 athletic year was one that cannot easily be summarized. There were controversial losses and run-away triumphs, lost tempers and broad smiles. There were tests of time and endurance. But no matter what the sport was, the strength, determination, will to win and support were always there in and for the SWD Panther teams.

Girls of Gold

"Nivet Woman"

Blob Count ...

Kelli, what's that lump on your head from?

Roll off: Go, go, go, go, go, go ...

Teresa, don't you think it's touch up time?

Sondra and her ruby-reds ...

"Mach 1 Mama ...

Here comes Jane in her cadillac!

Tammy Tacky and Glo are bringing up the rear with a boom!

Bevee, I like that new hair-cut; A sorta off-to-the-side look, huh?

Mary, you definitely have the qualities to teach the Safe Driving Course!

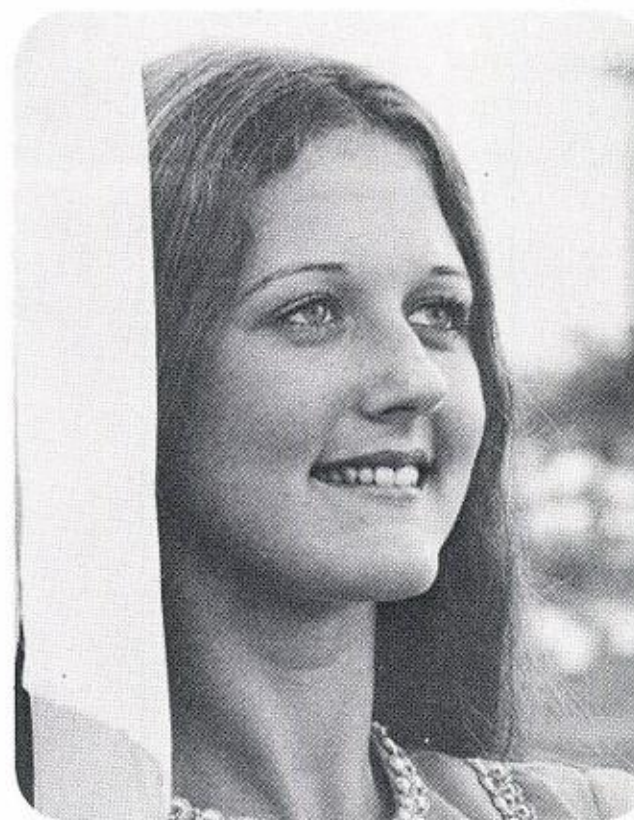

"Oh no, where's my tights?"

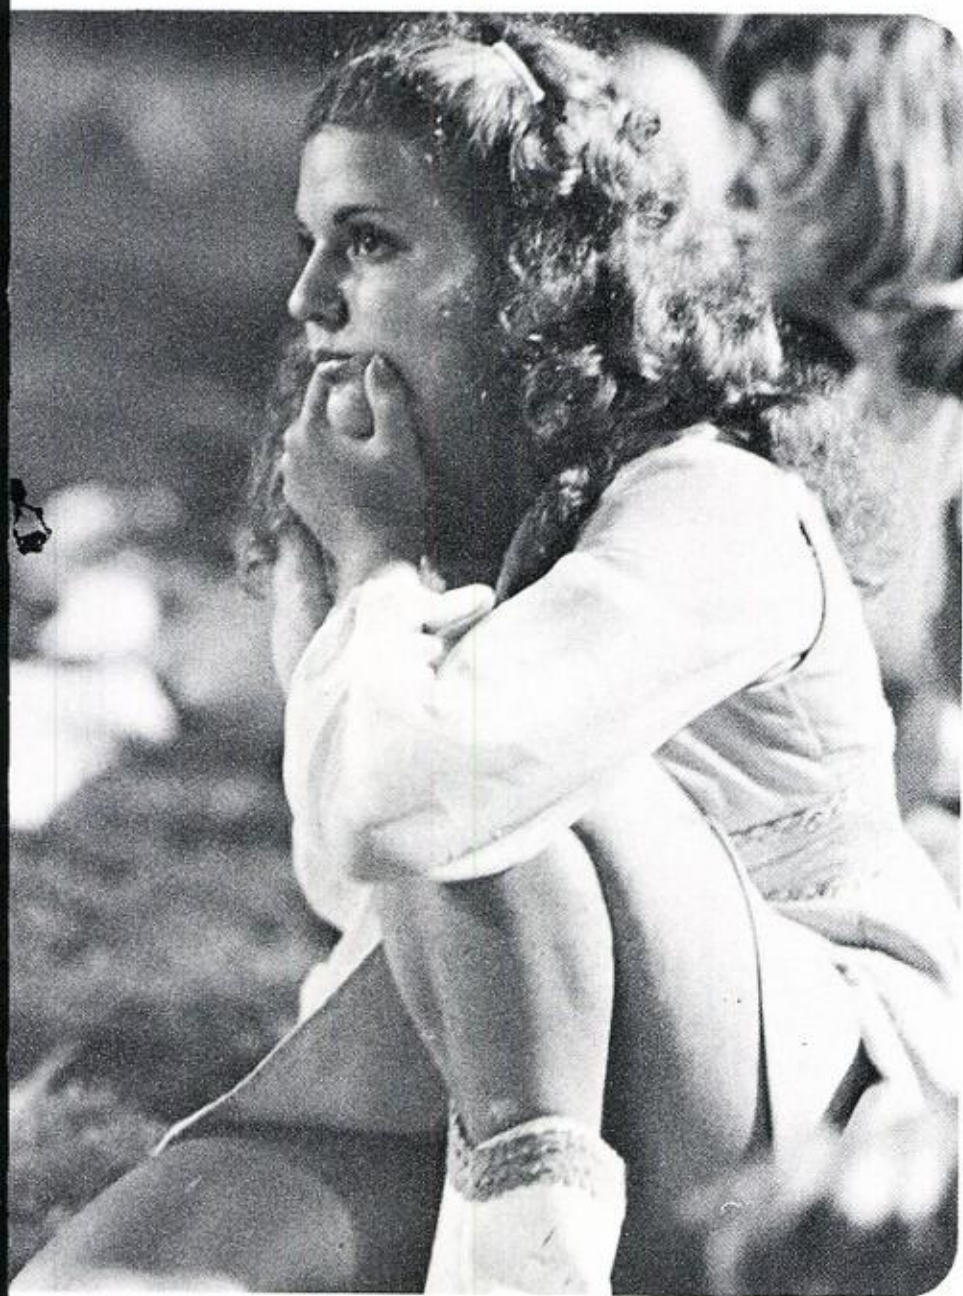

O.K. Mamas & Babies, let's plant our radishes in the corner of the field ...

"Donna, you can play in the water fountain later!"

Star G.G. of the week is ... Miss Ed!

It looks like Patty & Sam Hoover are back together!

RHYTHMETTES

Miss Christian County
 Ding-Ding — Never fear Fred and Deb are here ...
 Who pushed the "Emergency Stop"?
 Susie Cleaver ...
 Where's Lisa M.?
 What do you mean we can't sell our pins and notebooks?!?!
 Don't worry if you mess up cuz. nobody looks at us anyway!
 Go back girls — you know how to respond.
 Don't forget your black underwear!
 Betsy and Karen, SHUT-UP!!!
 Get your smile out of your pocket ...
 Don't get your britches in a wad ...
 We've got a peg-legged captain ...
 Gosh, and we all thought she was so sweet ...
 Corp record: The crossing of the "fine line" twice in one year ...
 Who's the "FOX" this week?
 Let's have a party!! No boys and no booze ...
 Practice is called off for this afternoon, we're going swimming instead ...
 When can we use our Bicentennial ending?
 The S.W.D. Rhythmette Booster Club???
 I don't wanna mark time for 14 counts of 8 ...
 Is it MERCY or IDER this week?
 These are only a few of the many memories that the 75-76 Rhythmettes will always hold close to their hearts.

Girls, out of the bass section! . . .
When are we going to get down into some soul? . . .
"He turned into a jerk" . . .
Altos, you're flat . . .
Turn in wrapping paper money by Friday, or else . . .
Sopranos, your cuckoos are late! . . .
Robert, how 'bout joining the bass section instead of joining Jana . . .
Put all six legs on the floor . . .
Hold the talking! . . .

ANNUAL STAFF

Spaghetti again? ...

Who threw the magic markers on the floor ...
The three musketeers ... Duke, Joel, and Mark ...

If I hear the word "Deadline" one more time, I'm gonna scream ...

No Joel, we can't print that in the yearbook ...

Who knows how to type? ...

Another Sunday, another deadline ...

Hey Big Nan, will you draw me a couple of lay-outs? ...

But Dan said to do it this way! ...

Turn in your RECEIPTS ... Oh nobody has any ...

Let Fred talk to Mr. Dent ...

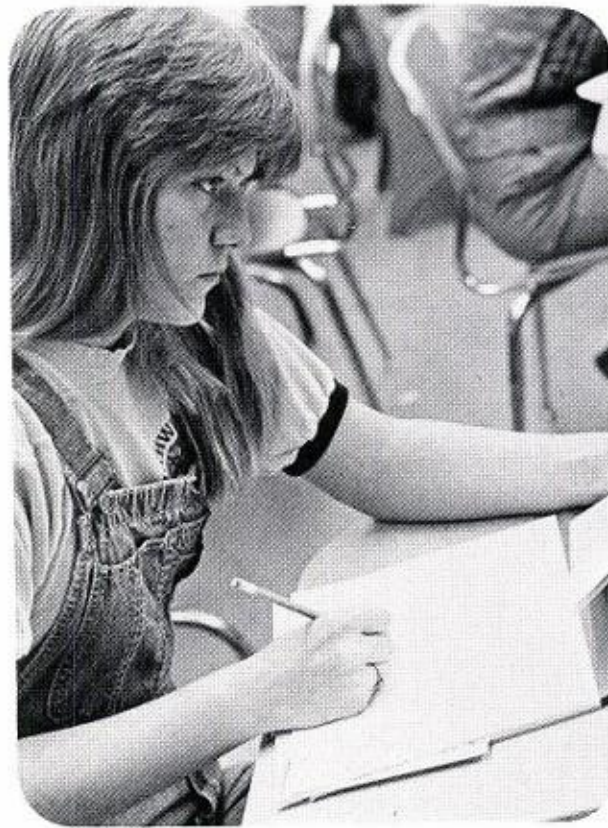

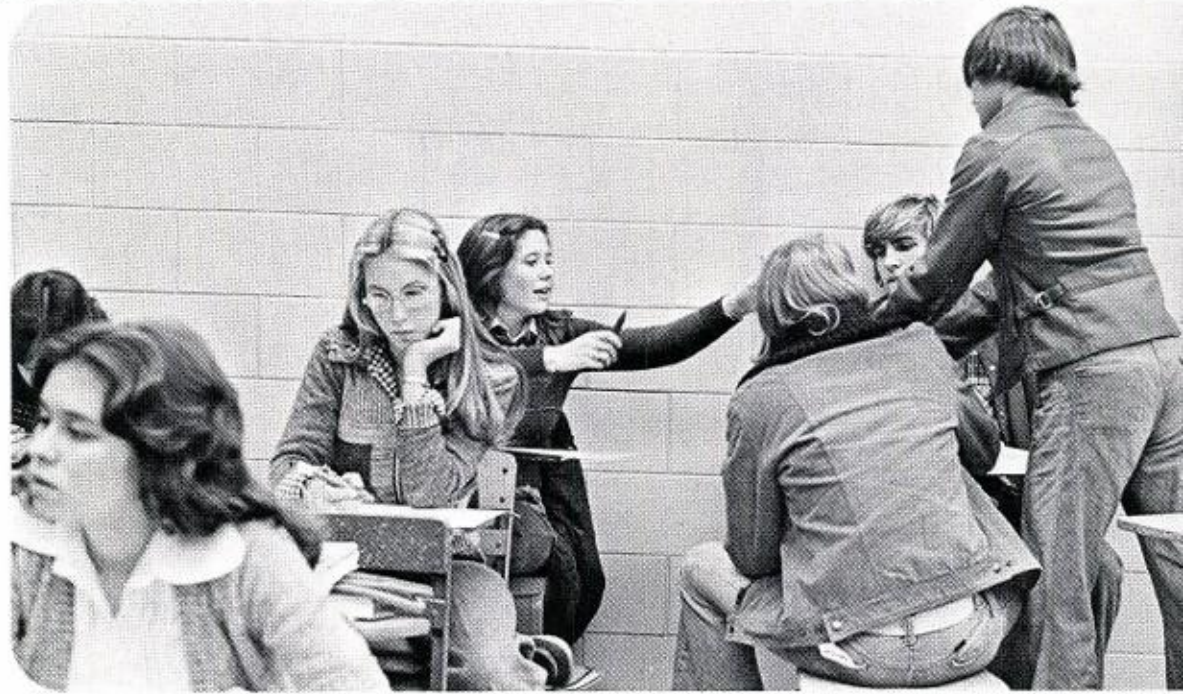

Gayle: "Well look at you" ...

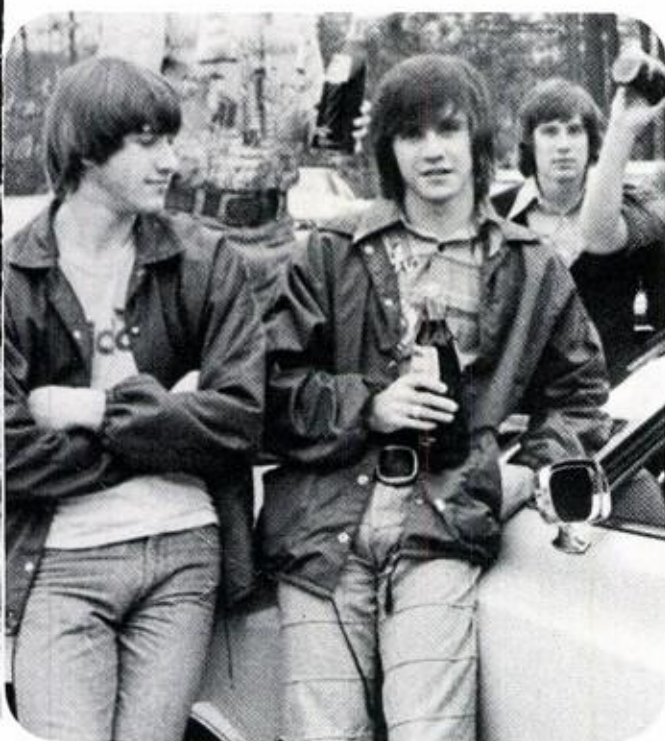

Who on this staff hasn't bought a yearbook?

Have you finished the Lit. section Kathy and Marna? ...

I wasn't supposed to take that picture were you? ...

Annual is fun, but it won't be the same without Miss Harrell ...

What happened to our Redneck of the Month?
 No more cokes Marsha . . .
 Thompson, I'll kill you!
 "Oh God, my fingers are jammed in the typewriter!" "That's O.K., we've got another one."
 Jaws doesn't bite . . . only talks . . .
 Concentration at its finest . . . Oh you mean Scott's sleeping at the window again . . .
 No, I'm not asleep. I'm just resting my eyes.
 Quit cutting the free coupons out of the left over papers . . .
 At least look like you know what you're doing Is Owen here? . . . No . . . Good!
 Tad who? . . . You mean the editor . . . I didn't know we even had an editor . . .
 #*!#?'? says India . . .
 When are my stories due . . . Yesterday

No! TW This really is lousy. That's a poem???
TRUE LOVE ← Gross poem???

Good! B.K.

I love you, my darling.
I love you; I do.
If you love another,
I want to know who!

Punctuation??

I need your quick answer,
So give me a clue.
Cuz if you don't love me,
I'll find someone new.

What's this??

What are the psychological and sociological implications of this?

Use it! (clap! clap!) mus

The End (That's for sure!)

I like it! It's short and to the point. B.S.

Here we are, folks! We are now entering the Southwest Dekalb city limits. This is one of our many top-notch highlights as we tour the exciting home of the Panthers. Please direct your attention to the right and take note of that rodeo-wranglin' man, Coach Mike Ham.

Coach Ham got his start in the rodeo business two years ago from a guy who taught him "the ropes" of the sport. Always an exciting attraction, the rodeo is a year-round job. It requires a membership fee of $140 a year and most riders, explains Coach Ham, are insured for up to $10,000.

The rodeo, with all its glimmer and glamour, is also a dangerous sport. Ham recalls a time in Tennessee when he was to ride "Bad River", a mean and mangy bull that hadn't been ridden in a long while. He had been told the bull would buck twice and throw to the right so he prepared himself for the jolt. But "Bad River" had other ideas and threw to the left. The unexpected jerk wrenched Ham's arm, throwing him head over heels to the ground. The bull then stomped on his hips. The result was a trip to the hospital.

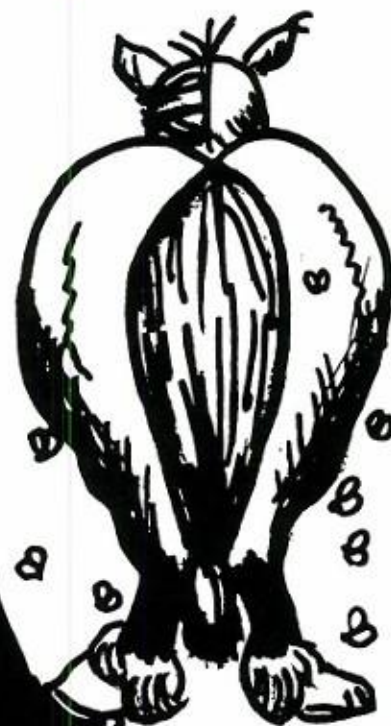

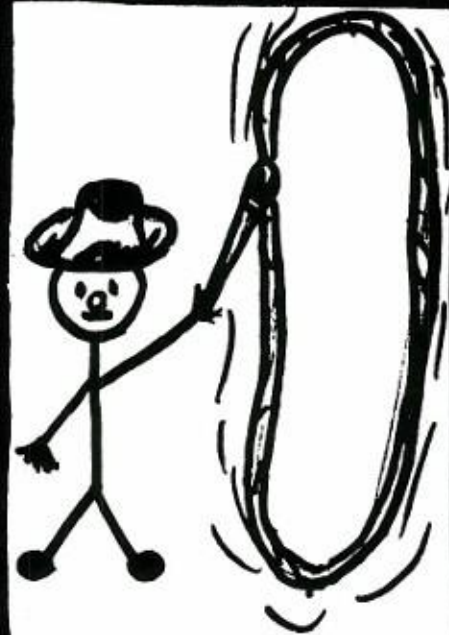

Does he plan to keep riding in the rodeo? You better reckon so! Coach Ham, Southwest Dekalb wishes you luck and says "Ride 'em, Cowboy!"

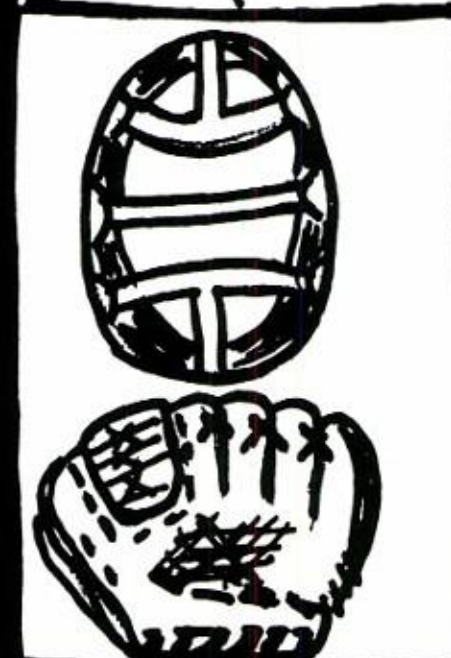

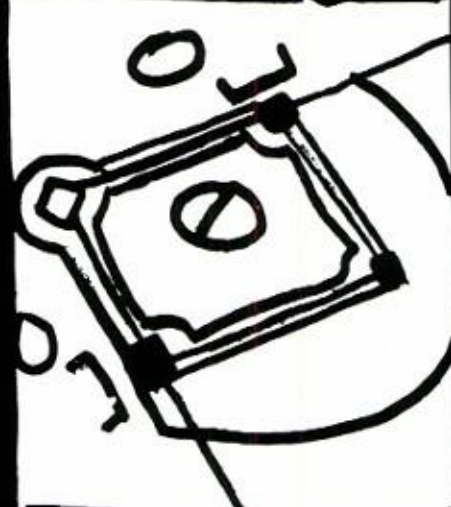

If you'll look below, you can see the Panther Pony Farm and its owner, Mr. William Smelser. Mr. Smelser has trained all of the horses on his farm himself.

Six years ago, a boarder at the Smelser house convinced Mr. Smelser to rent some land from a friend and try his hand at training. Since then, he has trained several horses for show, and a few for racing. Training horses requires a lot of patience and Mr. Smelser's patience has earned him some ribbons.

Mr. Smelser has said that horses are relatively dumb animals, but not difficult to train. Mr. Smelser spends an hour a day ... for about 2 years ... training a horse. He begins when the horse is about one year old, and when the training is completed, the horse is the right age to enter a show.

So the next time you join the "horsey set" at a show, keep a look-out for one of Mr. Smelser's students!

To your left is Sandlot Stadium, home of the Lorelei Ladies and their fabulous shortstop, Bobbie Damron. The Lorelei Ladies are an Atlanta Softball team that plays up and down the East Coast. Last year the team won 55 games and lost 15.

When Bobbie was a child in Kentucky, there were no girls' teams, so she played Little League with the boys. Later she played with high school, college, and amateur teams and joined the Lorelei Ladies in 1963.

Playing for the Ladies is not all fun and games ... it's all practice and games. They practice at least twice a week and play four games every week end. When school ends, the schedule becomes even more hectic.

Bobbie plays many positions ... second, third, short-stop ... anything but catcher. The first (and last) time Bobbie played catcher was as a substitute for the injured regular. The too-large face mask kept slipping over her eyes and when she tried to throw out a runner stealing second base, the ball ended up in the dugout!

Bobbie's hard work made her an All-American in 1971 and she has been on several All-Star teams. Last year she was voted the Ladies' Most Valuable Player. They know that Bobbie is a real gem on the diamond.

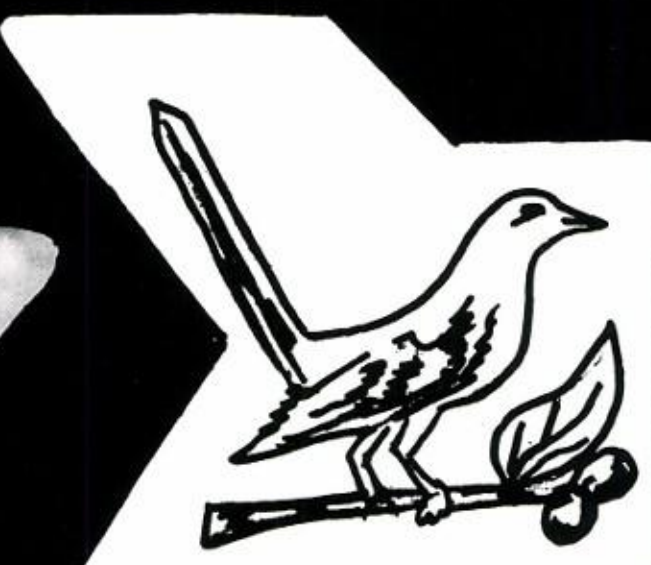

Now, to your right, is Miss Catherine Young, Keeper of the animals at the SWD Zoo. This is a new job for her since she has only recently become involved in organizations that help the wild life in America.

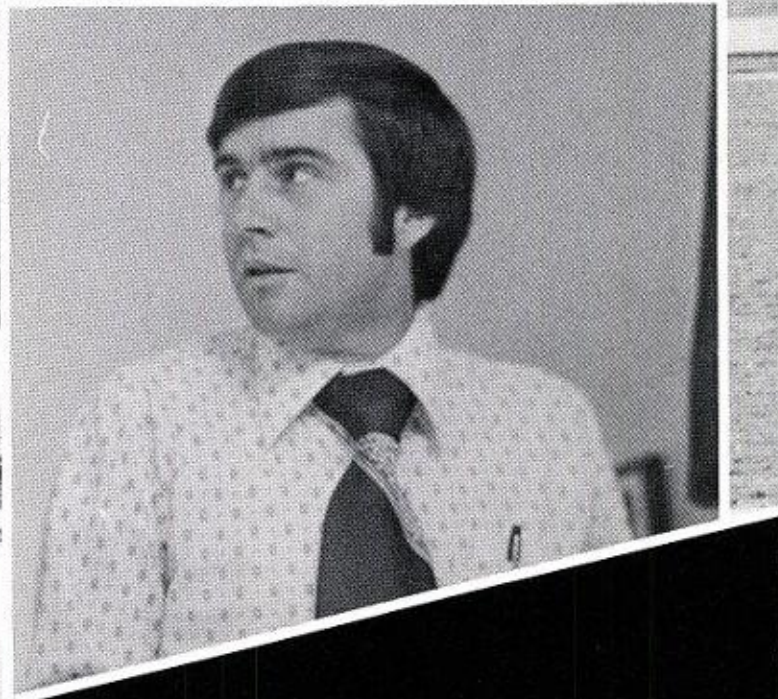

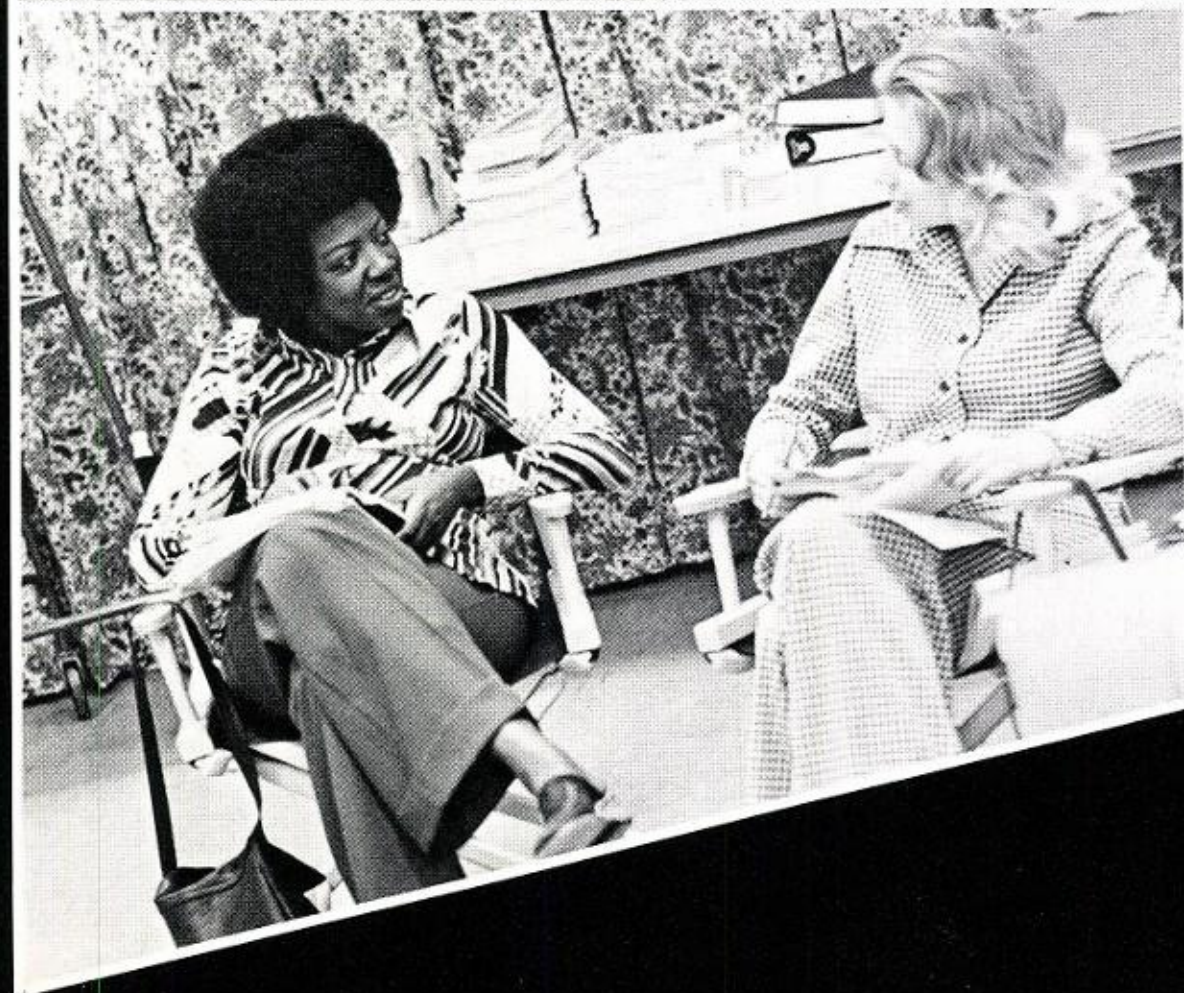

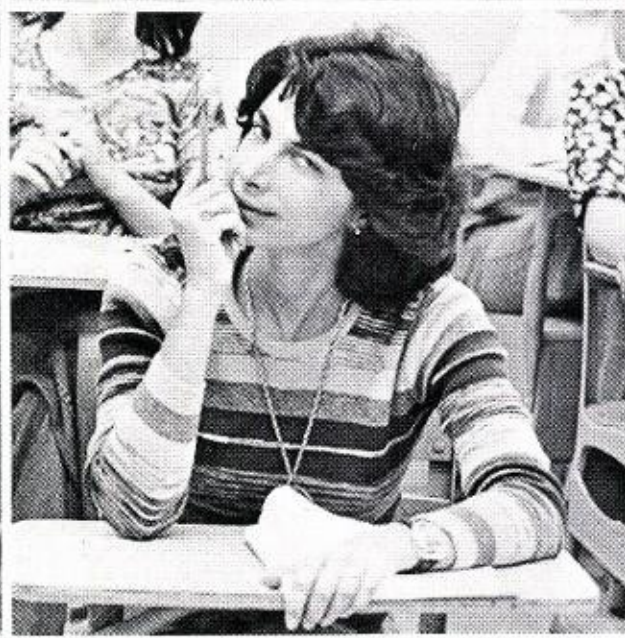

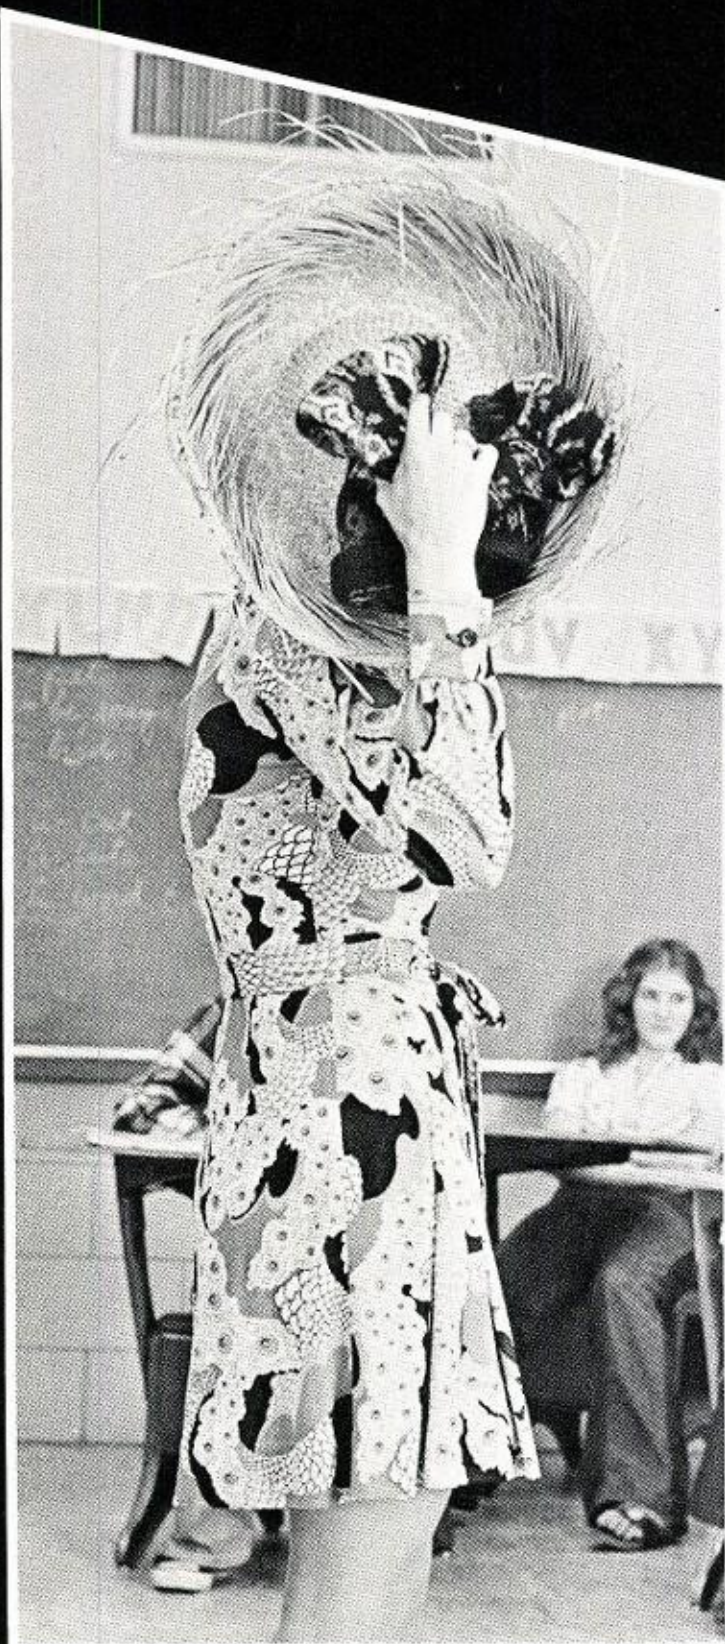

Miss Young's interest began at the age of thirteen, when she read an article on the slaughter of seals. It was a very disturbing article and made a deep impression on a young mind.

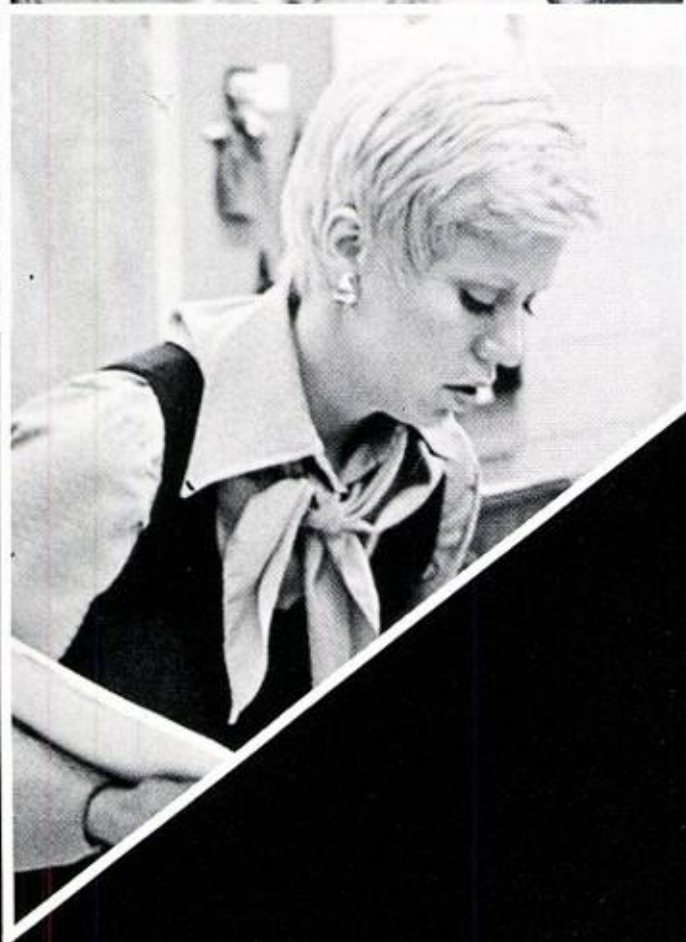

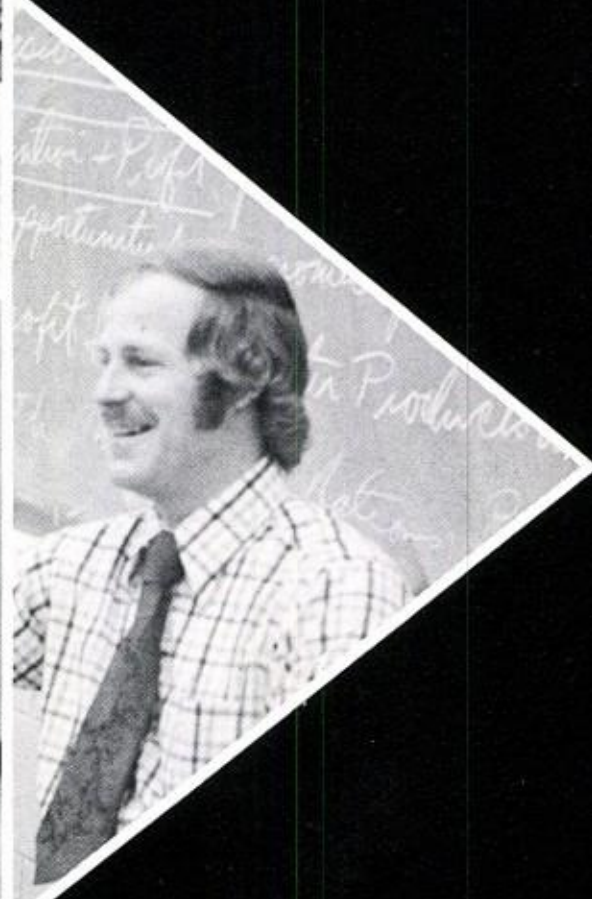

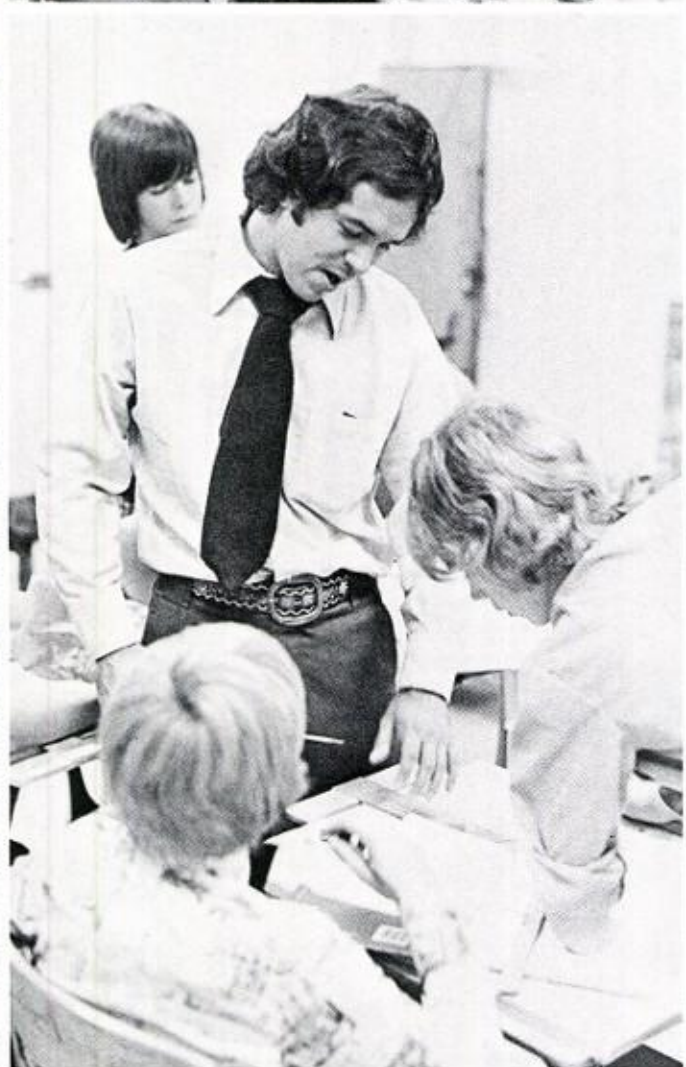

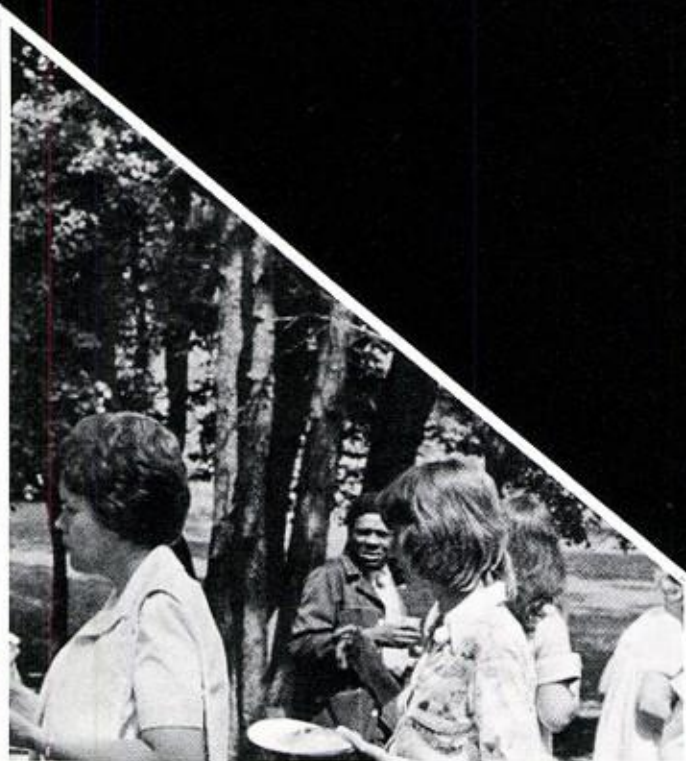

Miss Young's concern became apparent when she began her job at SWD as keeper of the zoo. She has started a Wild Life Club for the preservation of her zoo. The club circulates petitions and sends letters to Congressmen.

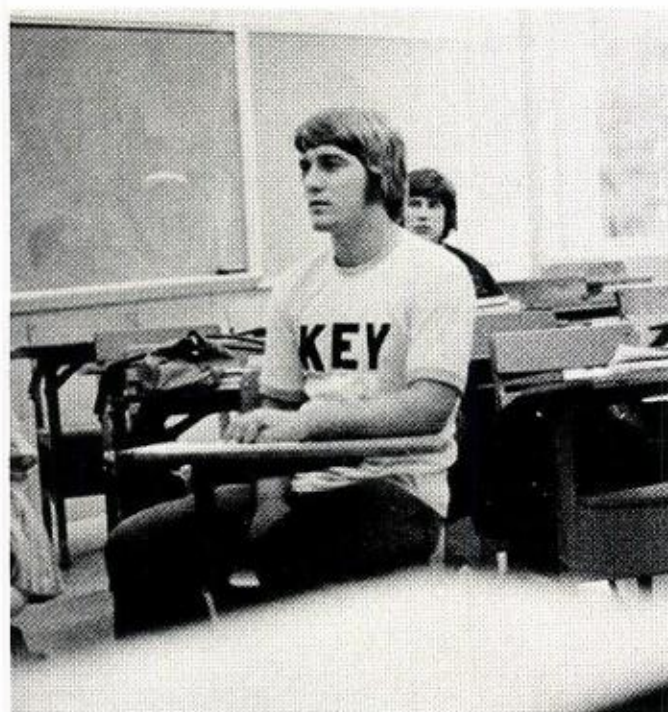

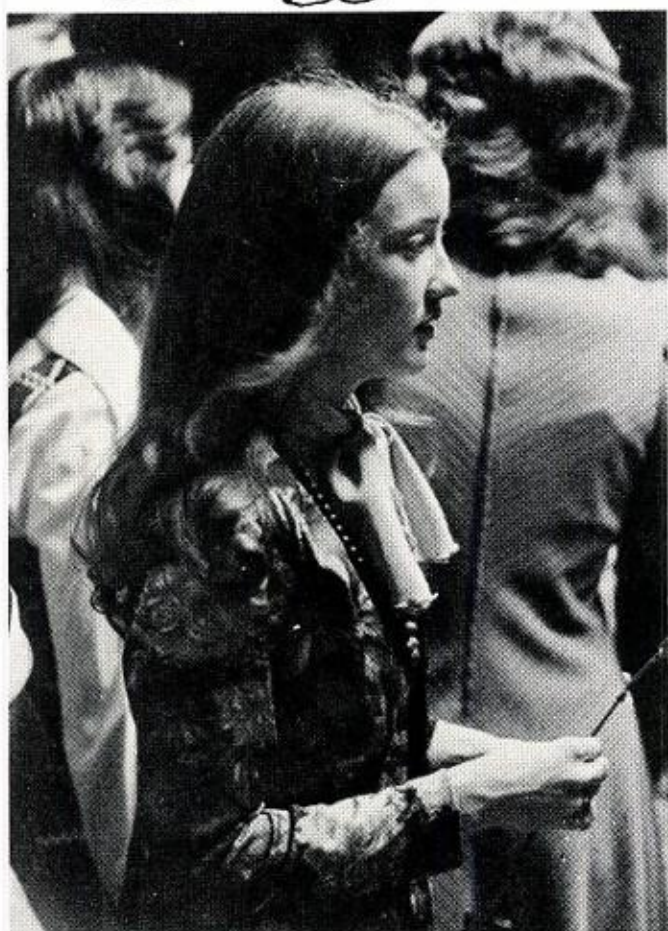

Be careful now as you pass through her SWD Zoo. She cares very much about her animals and hopes you will, too.

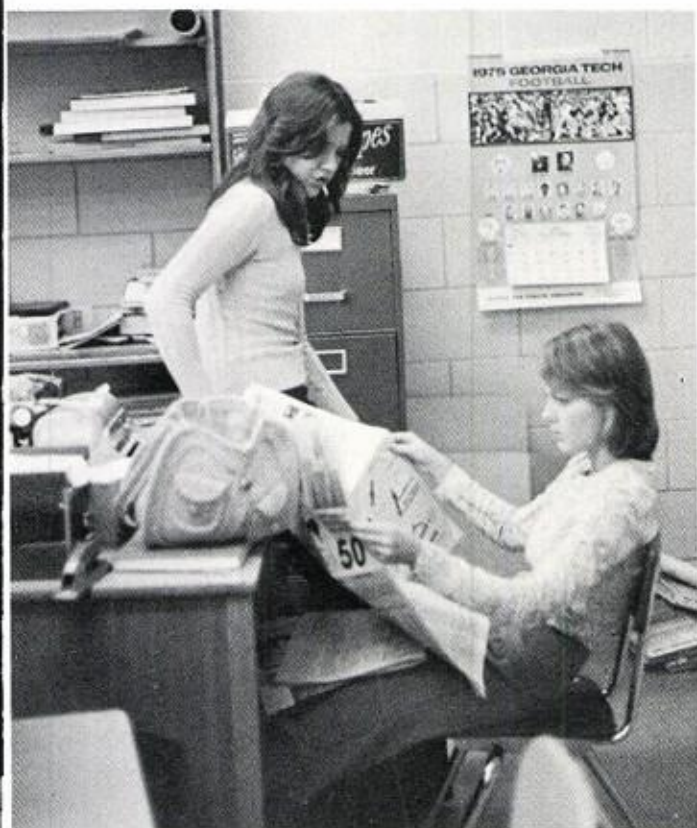

And here we are, back at our starting point. We hope you've enjoyed your tour.

This year is very different from any other year here at Southwest DeKalb. The Senior class of '76' is proud to be a part of it! How does it feel to be a senior and to know that soon your high school years are coming to an end? Great! That's usually the first answer one gets, but just think about it . . . You may be like these guys who have played football for four years and you give it all you have because football is your pride and joy. Now as you enter your last year, you realize this is the last season. You will play for the last time with this great bunch of guys — as you look on into the up-coming season, you want it to be the best — and to give it your best. The season goes on, the games are hard, but won with pride! The middle of the season arises, the team has won one of their toughest games and glory shines from their faces. Then the countdown of the remaining games begins, and they go by so quickly. Before you know it game 10 is here, the last of the season and for the Seniors, the last of their high school years. The stands are full, the band and corps are waiting. Parents stand in proud admiration. The buzzer sounds and as you walk off the all-too-familiar field, you realize you will never play here again — never win nor lose — only watch as next year's team follows in your footsteps.

What happens when a person volunteers to help decorate for a Junior-Senior at SWD? He gets blisters on his hands from tearing tape to stick on the bleachers under the flagstone wallpaper. He gets a basement full of yakking "helpers" and decorations piled sky high in his car. His arms fall asleep after holding streamers up in the gym to make the ceiling.

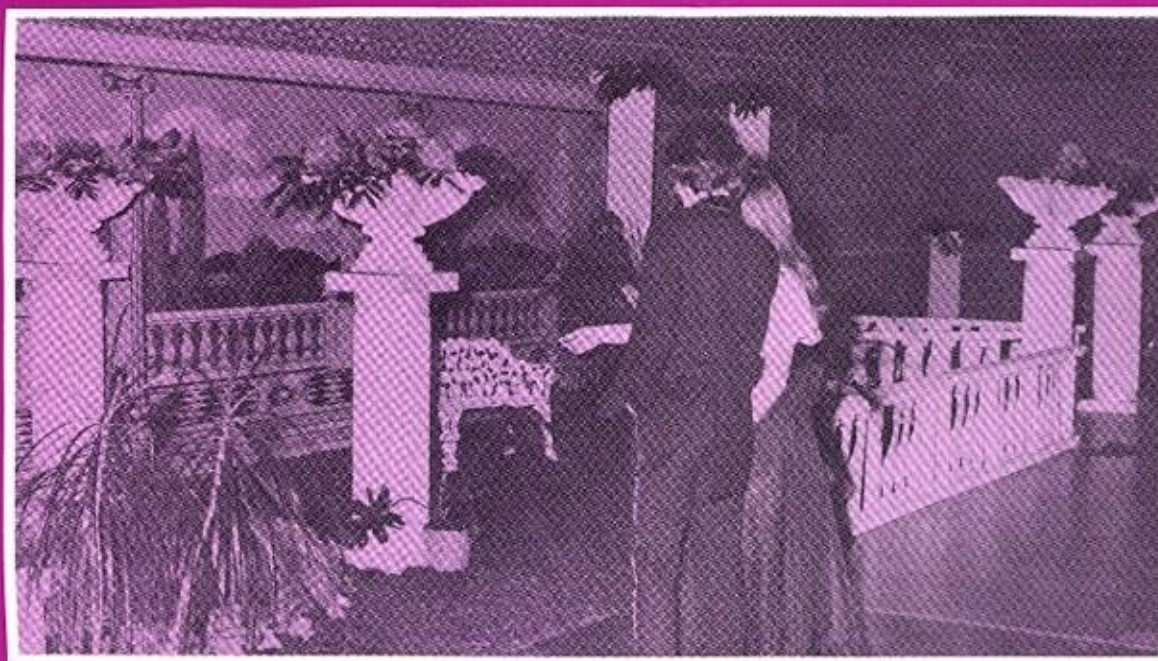

What happens when a person volunteers to help decorate SWD's Junior-Senior Dance? He gets to take part in creating the most successful and important dance this school puts on and in knowing that because of all the time and effort he put into decorating, he has helped to make it the best social event of the entire year! It's all worth it in the end!!

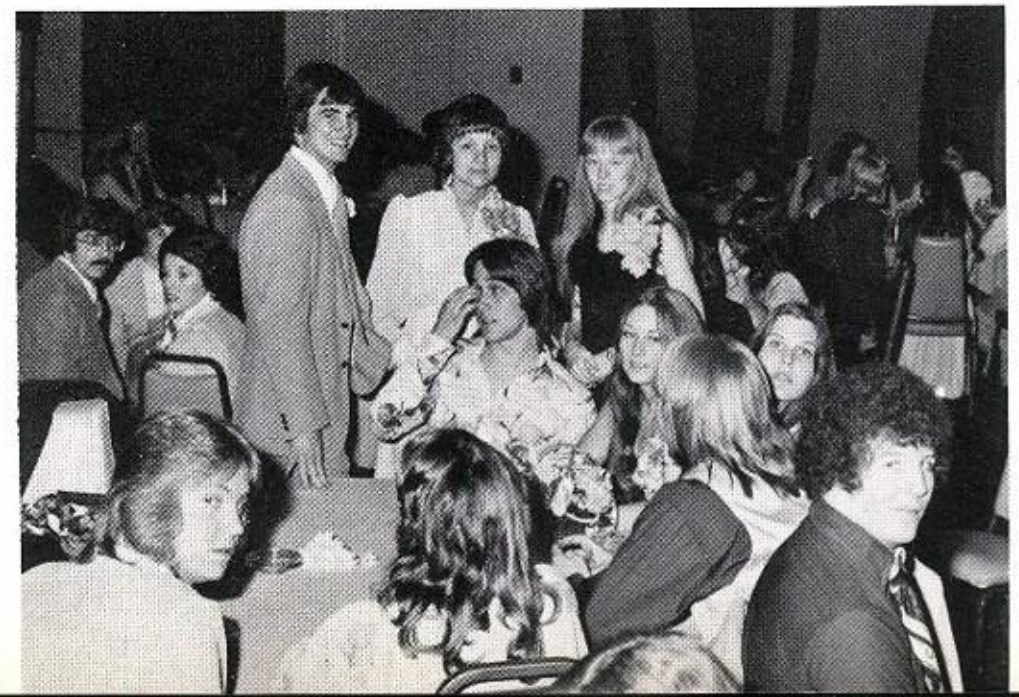

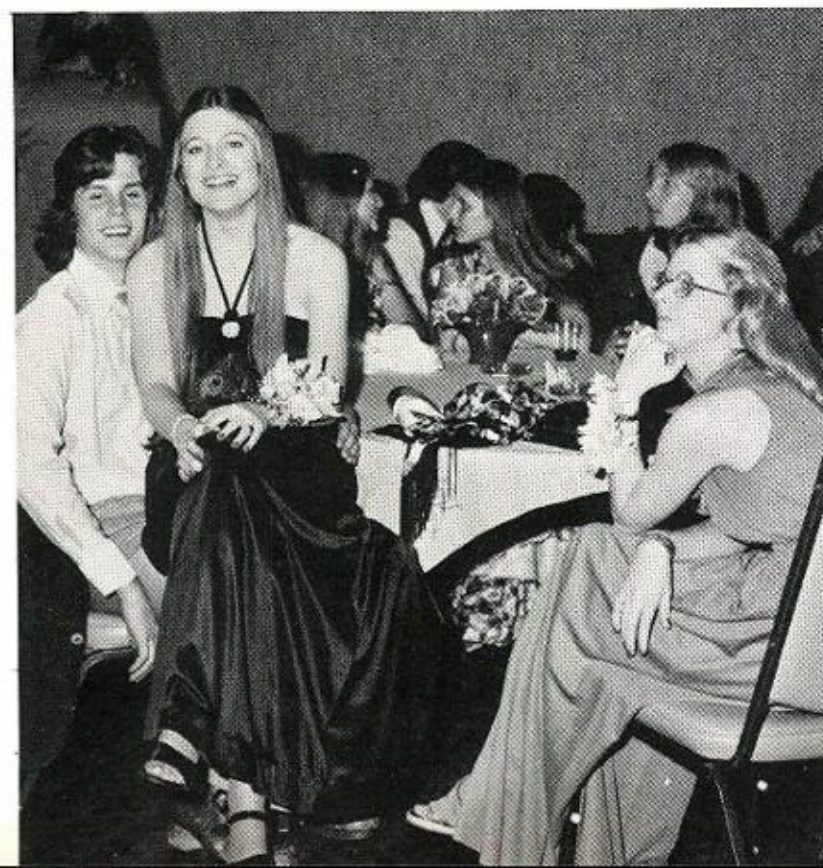

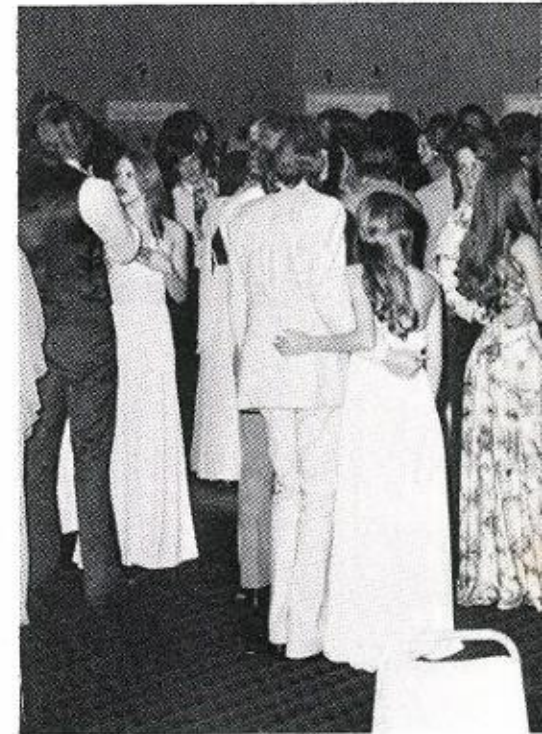

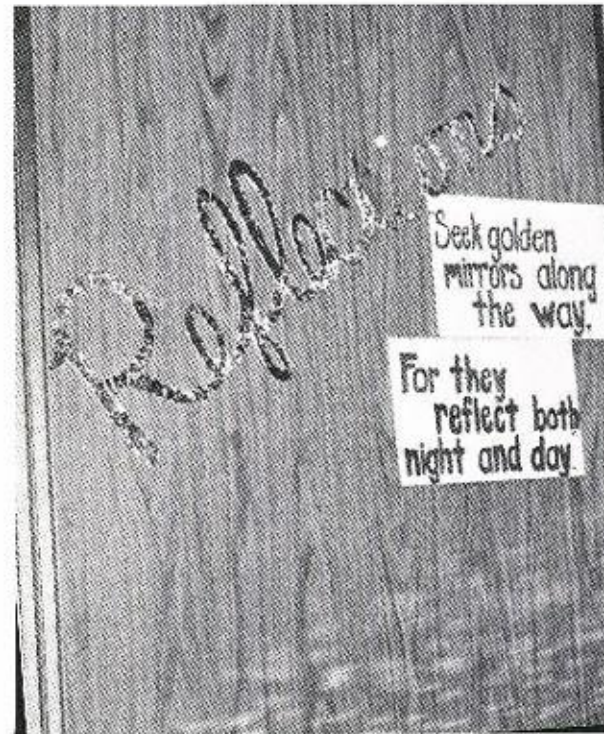

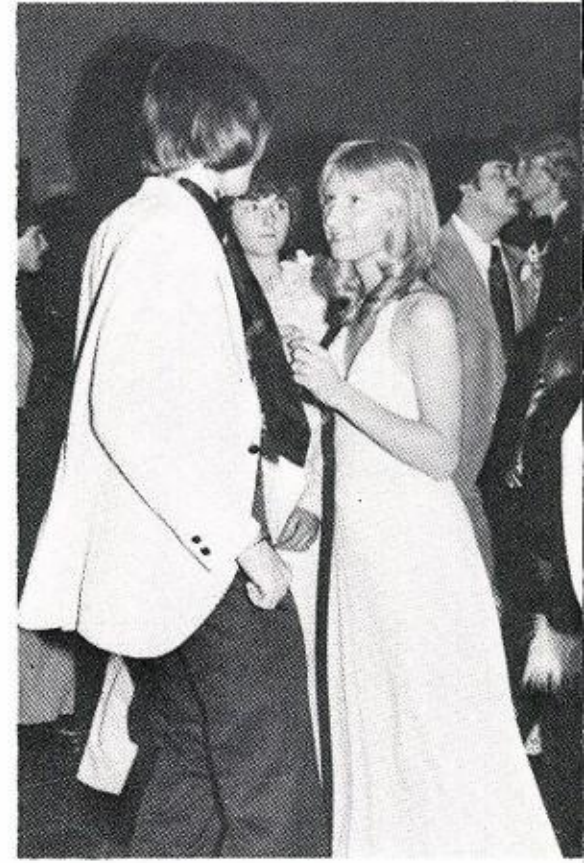

SENIOR '75

The 74-75 Junior-Senior Dance was not only a financial success but also a cooperation-participation success on the part of all who took time to create it. The Junior class, sponsored by Ms. Wild, began preparing for the dance during mid-second quarter. At class meetings they decided on decorations, costs, preparations at individual houses, and the theme. The theme was "In the Still of the Night" and decorations were centered around a Roman and Greek idea. The "boogie-music" was provided by the band "Fresh." Our thanks to Ms. Wild, Ms. Harrell, and the many students, who worked long hours of their free time, for their tremendous effort and complete participation.

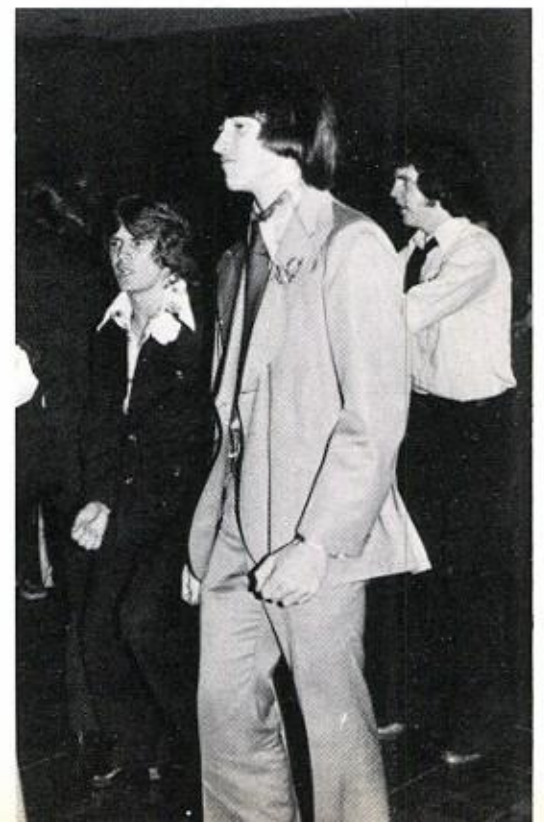

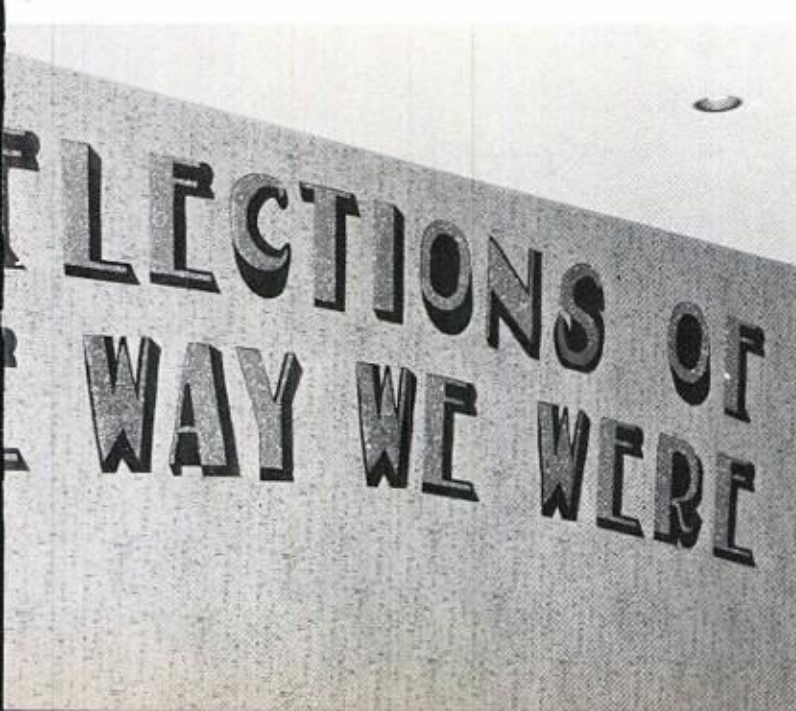

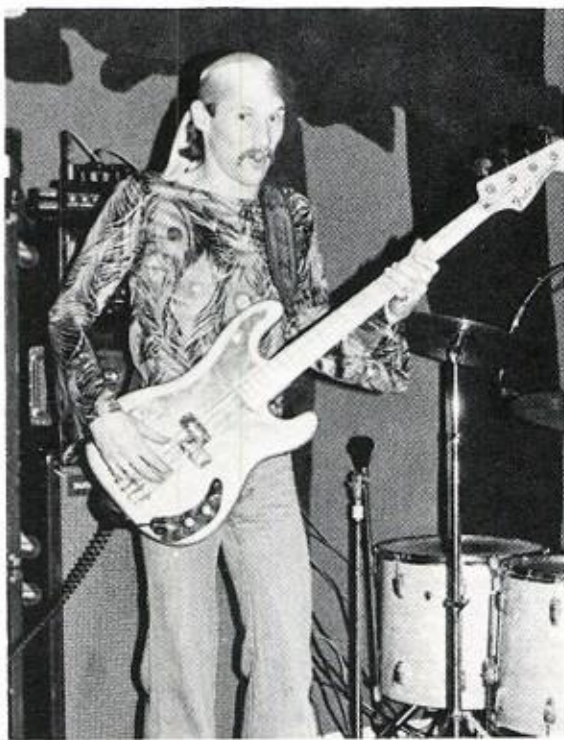

SENIOR WINTER

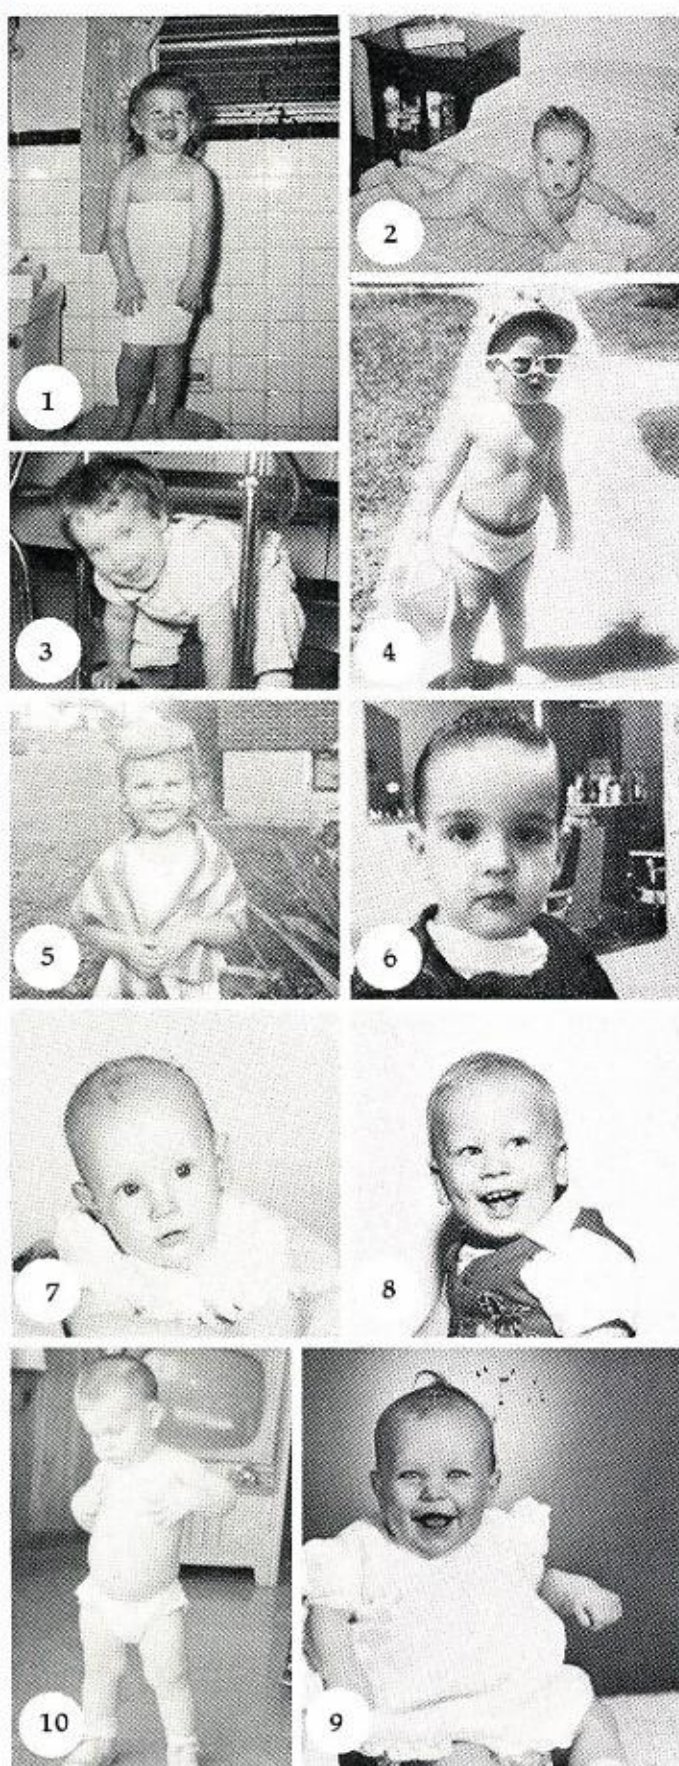

THE WAY WE WERE

Everybody's doing the Loco "Motion" ... This year's Senior Winter Dance set the pace for the bump-n-boogie sounds of Motion who rock-n-rolled the walls out at the Northlake Hilton. For many of the Seniors who will be graduating with the class of '76, this year's theme, "Reflections of the Way We Were" was most fitting.

DANNY McNEELY

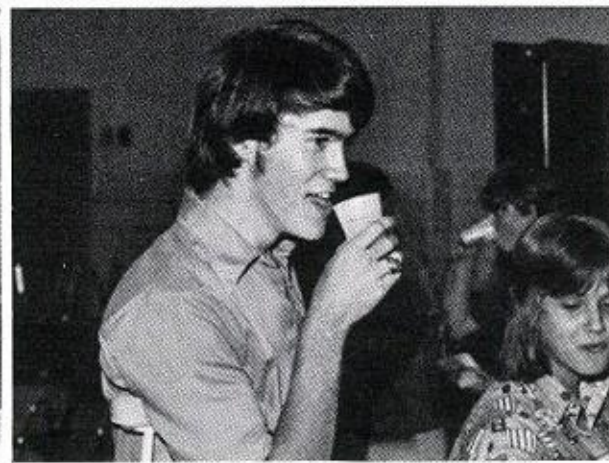

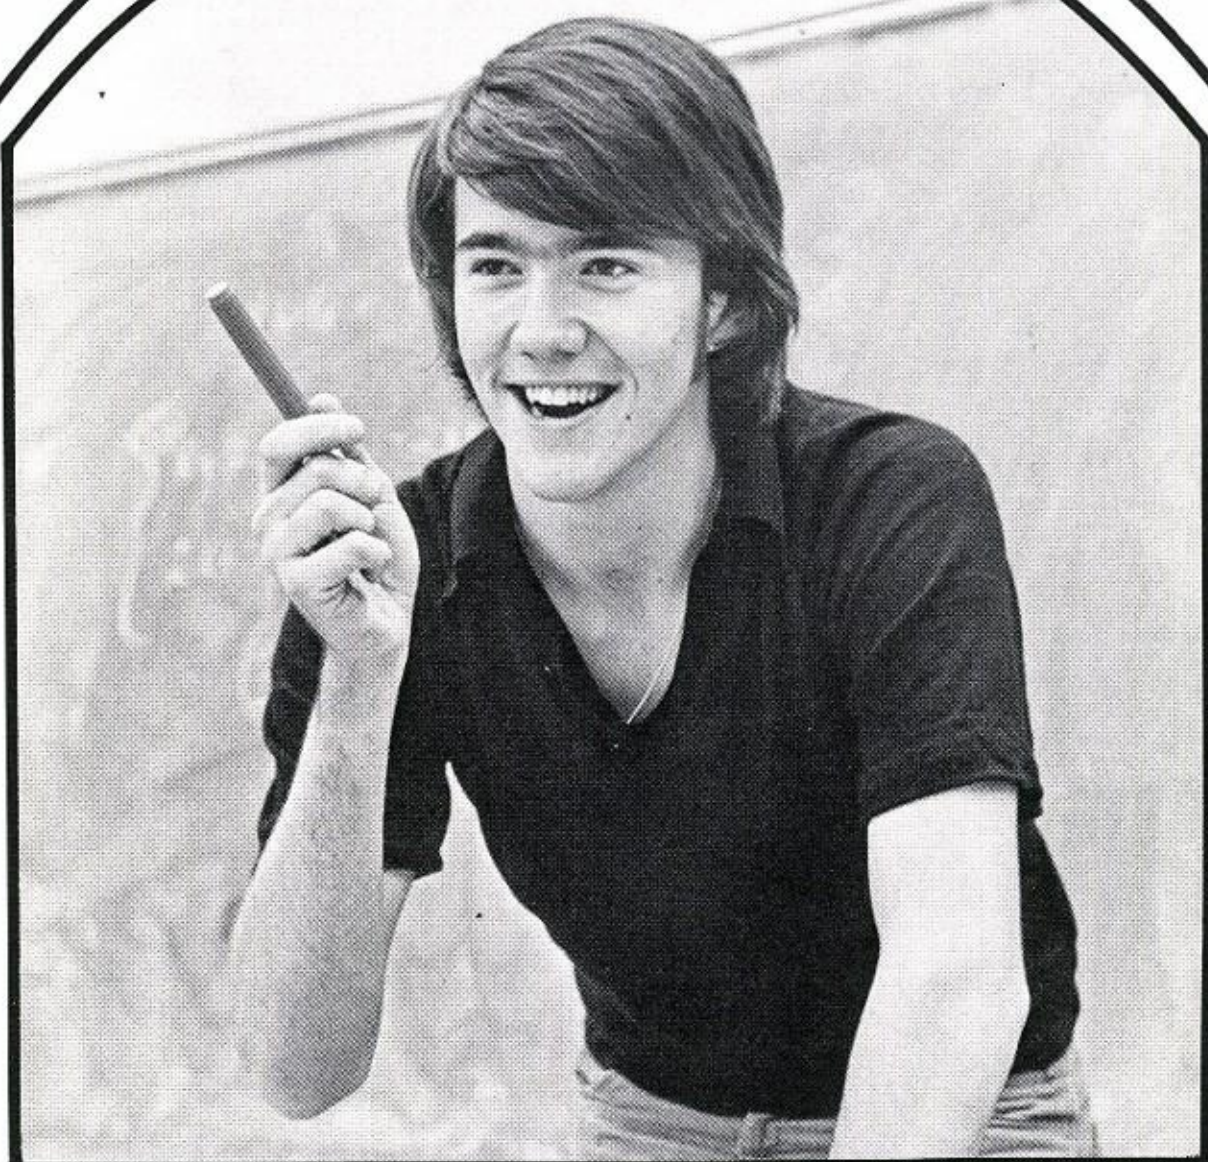

The Doctor Townsend Scholarship is a scholarship that is given to a senior planning to go to college, and this financial assistance will enable him to further his education.

The Senior class received financial support for this fund from several organizations and interested individuals. With their help the Senior class made this Fund a substantial amount for the furthering of this individual's education.

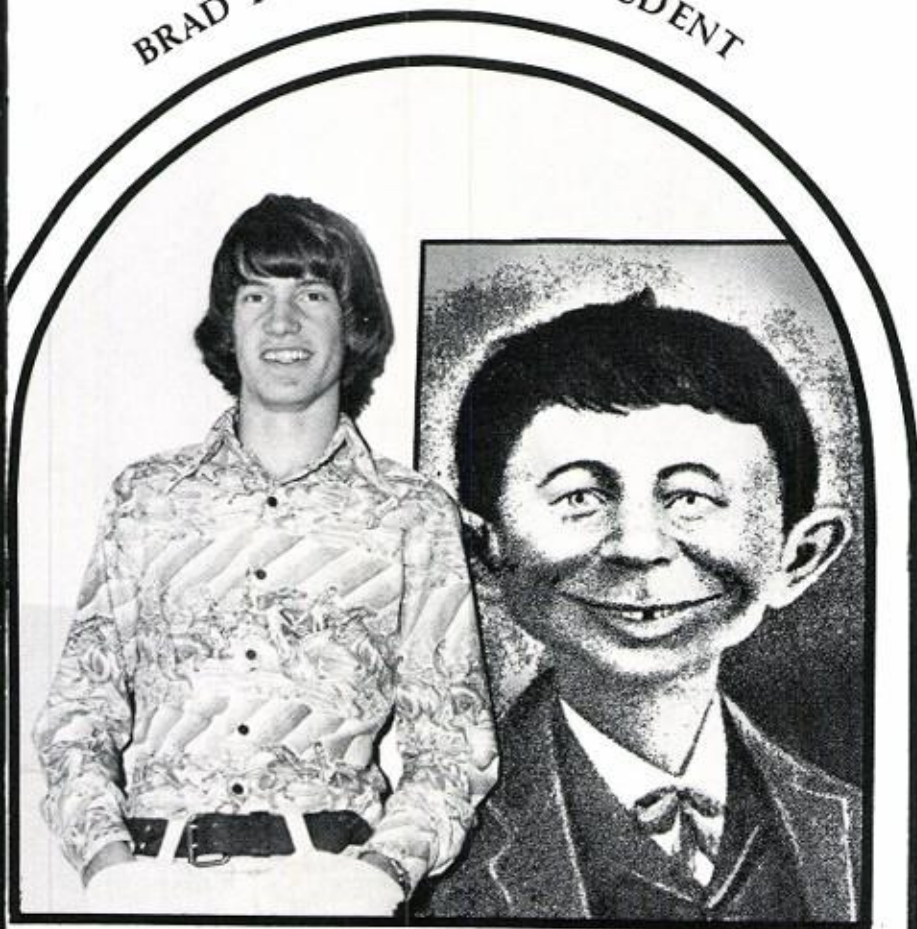

This year the Senior class voted on the senior that they felt most deserved this scholarship. He is intelligent, witty, and active in student activities. The Dr. Townsend Scholarship is proudly awarded to Danny McNeely.

DR. TOWNSEND SCHLORSHIP

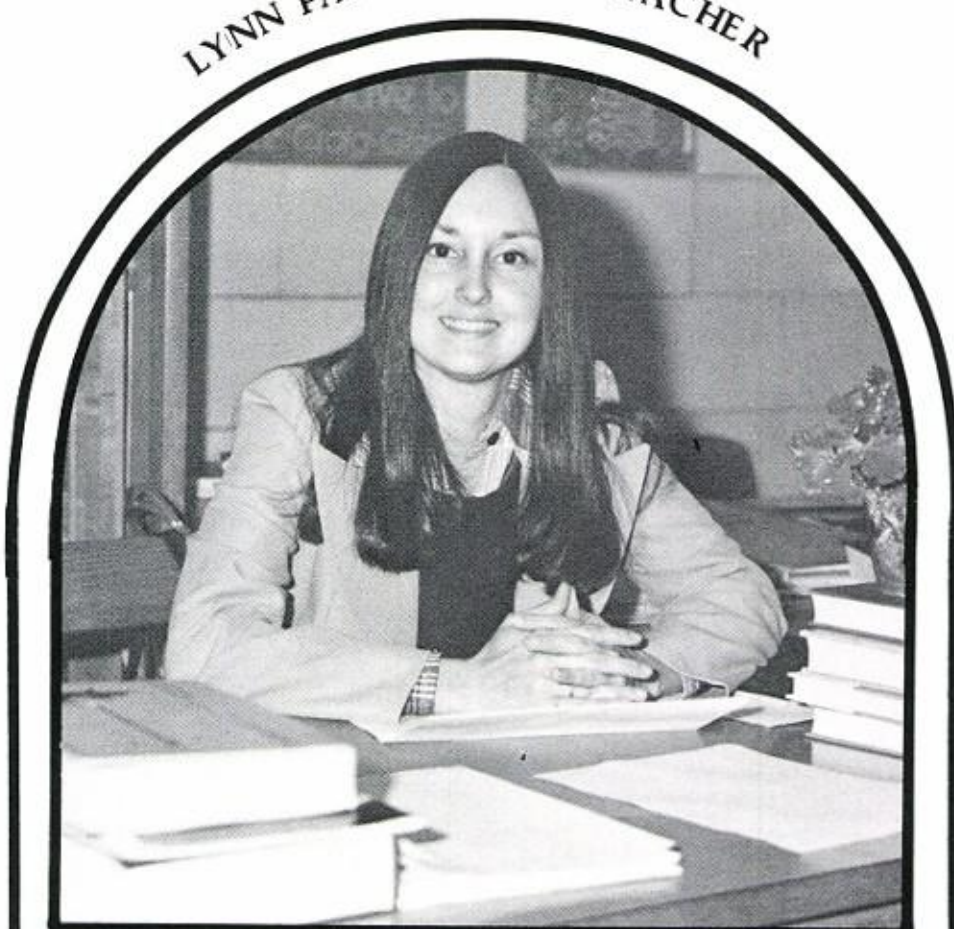

BRAD KIZZORT STAR STUDENT

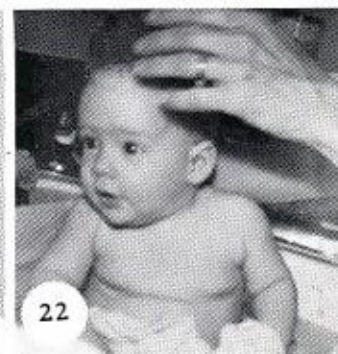

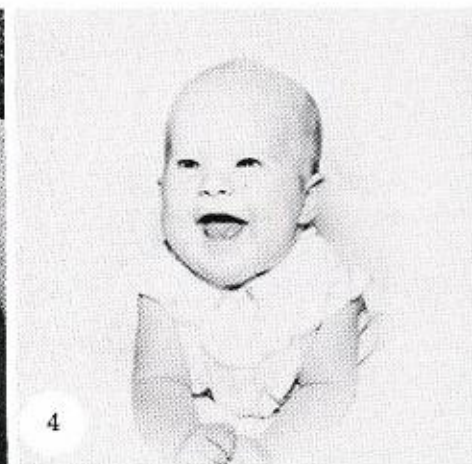

Being Southwest Dekalb's Star Student is a great honor for me. It brings me the respect I want from people older than me. But it's not the respect I want from people my own age. I don't want to be remembered as "the smart guy". I want to be remembered as a friend.

LYNN FARMER STAR TEACHER

A Star Student is outstanding because of his undeniable intelligence and achievement, but there are other factors which contribute to making a student and friend unique, set apart, and worthy of praise. Brad Kizzort certainly possesses rare intelligence and has achieved mightily, but his subtle humor, dedication, talent (writing and acting), unpretentious personality, and consideration for others are combined qualities that few possess.

SAN FRANCISCO

Spirit of 76!!!!
 Oh, dues are only $15.00 this year ...
 Finally the big Senior trip ...
 Pep rallies they still have them?
 Who'll be the next Bahama Mama ...
 Do you have your "open door policy card?"
 Don't park there that is a fire zone ...
 Wow, we get to sit on the stage!
 Senior privilege, what's that?!?!
 Hey my car got towed away, I didn't have a sticker ...
 Is anybody left 3rd quarter?
 Did you get an A on the SAT?
 Women's Lib strikes Sr. class officers!
 School till 12:00, work till 5.00.
 Where will we go today — Burger King, Wendy's or Hardy's!
 That Jr. Sr. had better be good!
 Where are we gonna have the Senior party this year?
 It's all over!!!!

What's in a tassel?

Besides two different colors and a nylon fabric; have you ever stopped to think about what's in the tassel that takes five long years to earn the privelege of hanging it on your rearview mirror? What's in a tassel? Let me tell you ...

Senior Tassel Recipe

Take one year of buying elevator passes and pep rally tickets and mix with one slight indention on the head from a senior ring.

Fold in and combine the ½ cup of water that landed on the poster that you worked on all last night and taped over the water fountain. Chop this into small pieces and separate the pre-freshman from the freshman as you enter your Ninth grade year.

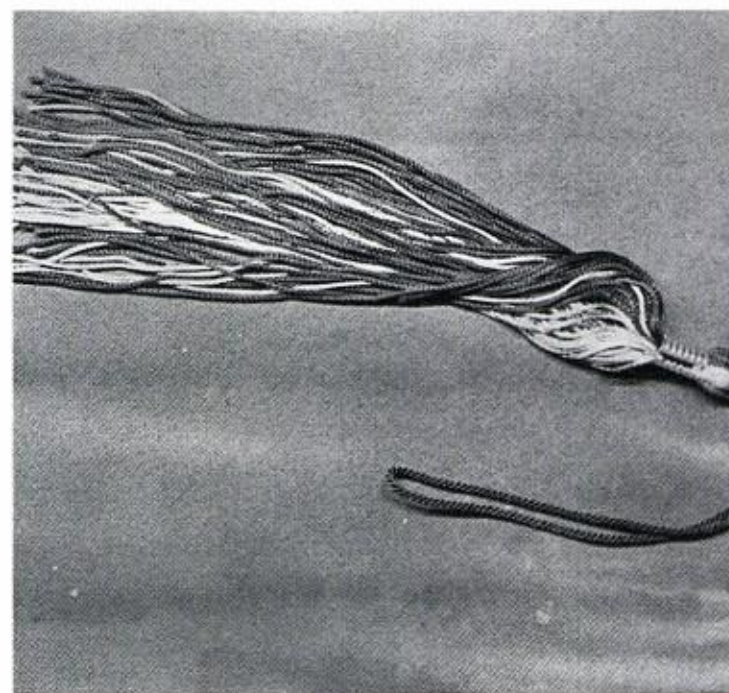

Set aside and prepare for the "Soph-a-more" announcements. Mix together three weeks of Drivers Education with one learners permit and a four-year license. Bake for one year in the smokin' SWD parking lot.

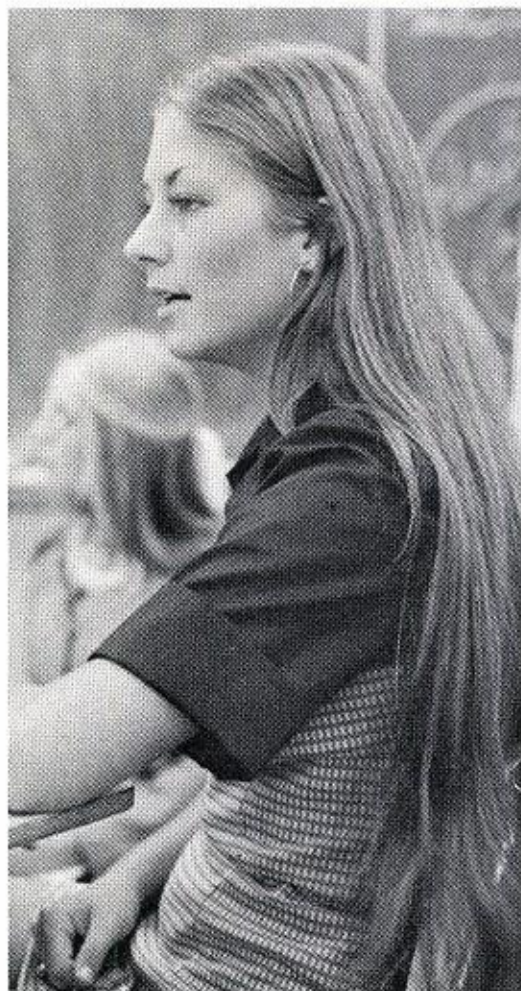

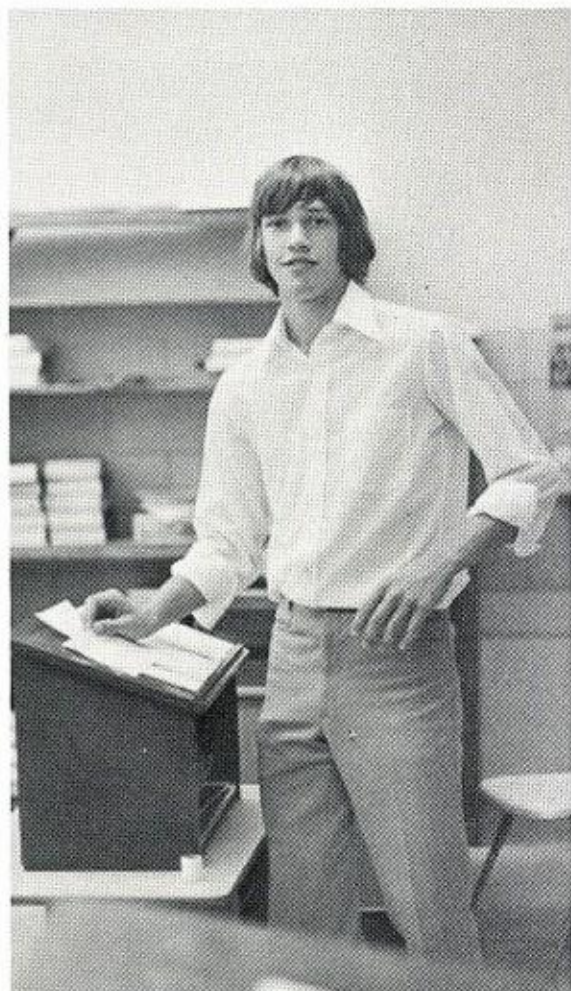

Top this off with one dedicated year of preparing for a fun-filled night called the Junior-Senior.

Add to that and blend well: one senior ring (with initials if desired) and a brand new shiny senior key. Stir in 6th period open campus and garnish with senior directories.

Combine all these ingredients and shape into an SWD High School diploma. Serve with graduation robe and as a finishing touch ... you guessed it ... your very own blue and gold SENIOR TASSEL with which you have now earned the right to hang on your rearview mirror.

And that's what goes into a Senior Tassel!

RING-RING-RING-RING

Oh no. It's 3:20 again. In just a few minutes thousands of eighth graders are going to come swarming out of the school and try to get through my doors at the same time. Talk about painful! But I'll not complain. That's only half the battle. The worst part comes on the way home. All that screaming and jumping around. I remember one day I had to run the whole route and was on my way home when a kid jumped out from under a seat and yelled, "SUPRISE!" He said he had been hiding. It's days like that one that make me want to quit. But if I quit, who would take my place and deliver all those "kiddies" back to their mamas? I mean I'm really an accepted part of society. Listen to how they cheer for me as I pull into view in the afternoon. Well maybe being a school bus isn't so bad after all. Here they come now, those sweet little devils. Come on "kiddies" and jump through the windows, I don't care. I'll get you home safely. I'm proud to do my share to preserve the American Way.

The status symbol of adolescence is the driver's license. This inconspicuous plastic-coated card opens up new worlds to be explored by the high school student. It creates an exciting dimension of dating, riding through the parking lot, and going out to lunch. No more walking to the store during study hall, no more calling your parents to pick you up from a dance. But, beware of flashing blue lights and the tragedies they bestow such as "laying drags" and of course, our all time favorite, the "beer and wine ordinance." So, if you're responsible enough and if your ol' man can afford the insurance, "Gentlemen, start your engines." And by the way, how many times did you have to take the driving test?

Whassamatta? Did you wake up this morning at 5 till 8 and get dressed on the way to school? Did you snag your panty hose on the car door? Did you fall asleep last night studying for your 1st period final? Cheer up kid, things could be worse. You could have locked your car with the keys in it and left the motor running. Or your baby brother could have spit-up on your term paper.

If the morning blues have got you down, just grin and bear it. Or if you're smart — go back to bed.

During this Bi-Centennial year, millions are saluting America and its tradition. Thus we now take time to salute the symbol of American life — The Hamburger. Through the years, though, The Hamburger has become seriously degraded. It has come to the point where it is 99% bun. If some meat is not returned to The Hamburger it, too, may become extinct. So stand up and show your pride in The Hamburger by saying —
I pledge allegiance to The Hamburger of the United States of America, and to the French Fries with which it stands, one meal under a dollar, indigestible, with ketchup and mustard for all.

The theme of the 1976 PANTHER is related to travel, because for five years one can look at Southwest DeKalb High School as a journey or an adventure. My goal for this yearbook has been to capture all the variety and excitement at Southwest DeKalb and the adventures we can choose to explore here.

My staff has helped me attain this goal — of making the 23rd edition of the PANTHER yearbook YOUR book, not OUR book. The advisor, Jane Harrell; assistant editors, WeeSe Donalson and Cathy Akoubian; the section editors, Cindy Buttrill, "Fred" Fetter, Michelle Metaxas, Marna Scarry, Gayle Smith, and Paige Smith; and the remaining staff have all worked endlessly to make this book a success. I could not have produced this yearbook without their devotion and friendship. I would like to thank the photographers — especially Matt Mitchell. I knew I could depend on Matt at any time and I appreciate his unfailing patience and desire to provide quality photography.

Congratulations to Jane Harrell, my friend, advisor, and the leader of the HARRILL'S ANGELS' for retaining her sanity another (and last) year as the best advisor the PANTHER will ever have. A special thanks to our publishing representative Dan Troy. He made those hectic "deadline days" seem somewhat bearable.

We hope this yearbook will make you laugh, smile, cry, or remember the many memories from those special attractions and adventures YOU experienced at S W D.

I'm not afraid of the world,
not anymore,
Not since I found you.
It occurs to me that we need the world far less than it needs us.

Cindy Neal

We get up to "it's 38 out with a high today of 52 ." Then we hurry quickly from the warmth of our home to the shelter of the car, where we watch the cold outside indifferently until we clamber out with our necks tucked into our collars and our eyes glued towards the relief of the heated school, where we bask in our classrooms, staring out the window at the intangible rain outside, until our friend approaches us with, "Good morning; nice weather today isn't it?" And automatically we answer, "Good morning; yes it is isn't it; ... very nice," as we gaze unconsciously into the storm and the clock traveling unmeaningfully into the evening.

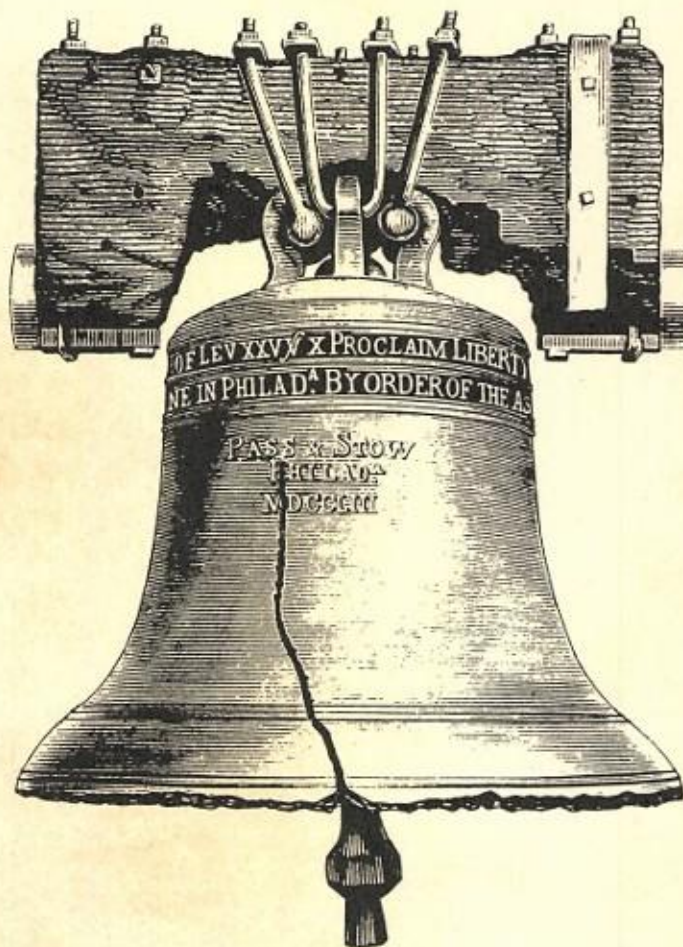

Ted Wansley

My schedule for the day was as follows:

- 5:30 Got up quickly, stuffed a bikini in my purse, and left.
- 6:00 Arrived at airport.
- 8:00 Disembarked in Jamaica for my pearl-diving lessons but the instructor was ill, so we settled for shark races.
- 10:20 Flew back and hurried to school for creative writing.
- 11:00 Back to the airport.
- 2:30 — 3:15 Had lunch on the Champs Elysees.
- 3:30 Back to the airport again (by then it was getting monotonous)
- 6:00 Ate dinner In Rome and found a cheap room so I could get dressed for the opera. It was boring so I flew back.
- 12:00 Midnight sailboat races on Chesapeake Bay. Raced home and . . .
- 2:00 Hung my blue ribbon on the door and collapsed into bed for five hours of sleep.

Incidentally, this is a very successful therapy program for chronic insomnia. I recommend it higly.

The Clique

People standing in social circles: chatting nervously. Talking, and talking, aiming to impress. Nodding and smiling and not really caring . . . everyone so busy trying to impress — that no one is impressed — unless it is with his own excellent performance.

Cindy Neal

It was my first day at work, and wouldn't you know, I got stuck making French fries. I guess I was wrong in thinking my job at Chic-fil-a would be a little glamorous. When I didn't do too well at dipping ice cones in chocolate syrup (two fell in the chocolate), I was told to bag the orders. After a few mixups and some customers complaining because the lids on the cole slaw weren't on tight enough (it must have been a mess), I got switched to French fries. My boss said an idiot could make French fries so I guess that's why they gave me that job. The first batch turned out all right and I was proud. The lines at the cash register started getting longer and longer, and everyone was running around in a mad rush. I put on the second batch of fries but somehow, in all the rush, I managed to forget all about them. I remembered when I saw the grease splattering and clouds of black smoke rising slowly. Discouraged and disillusioned, I sat in the employees restroom for 15 minutes and cried. Feeling better and a little more confident, I remembered I only had 5 more hours to work that day. I didn't have to worry because I almost never make the same mistakes twice and I'd already done everything wrong.

Camille Taylor

I love the weekend, although that does not set me apart from everyone else. Unfortunately, Monday is just around the corner. I hope it gets hit by a bus.

DESIRE

We have met the supreme challenge,
And succeeded.
But it is not the margin of Victory that counts.
It's the measure of desire
That separates the two forces.

The Halls

The halls of the school are worn and full of memories.

The floor is speckled and dirty with the scuffs of a million kids.

Memories of lost conversations still echo, with the partings of many old young lovers.

Jeff Norris

Problem:
My feelings run ahead freely but my thoughts chase after, swiftly trip them up, cut them short with dark knowledge of Consequences and with Fear.
What you hear is a finished product, slick and shining and shallow.
Listening to my words even You could never guess their background.
Please try.

Dianne Chance

I've often called you my friend.
I hope you've called me the same,
And when I thought the world would end
You've been there. (Is Friend Your Middle Name?)
I will feel forever indebted to you.
(I, Friend Jones, Hmm, Not Bad)
And if you ever need someone to turn to Just come to me (Do You Ever Feel Sad?)
I'll try to be there for you to lean on I'll have a bench you can rest your dreams on I can't promise you we won't fall
But I'd just like to try, that's all (It's A Big Bench, Could I Put My Dreams There Too?)

Brad Kizzort

The lover of my dreams has kind eyes

a generous smile
 (that shows a mouthful of braces.)

Nancy Brian

it's not that i'm afraid to say hello it's just that i never want the time to come when i'll have to say goodbye.

Camille Taylor

I can look into your eyes and love you,
Or catch a glimpse of your hair
 as you turn the corner,
And dream of the day when you'll notice me;
 Then our lips will touch and the Angels will sing.
But it won't happen.
Anyway, the Angels only sing for movies.

Marna Scarry

You're cold, but then you're sweet
Before you stare, you're through You're too changeable
I can never depend on you
And you ask me what's the matter

You're snobbish, you're cruel Never think about the fun you poke
You giggle and laugh
And call it all a joke
And you ask me why I cry inside

If tears are all that matter
Then it doesn't matter at all

Brad Kizzort

Music

It is funny how music
Is applicable to one's Life
When he loses the one he loves.

Holiday Memories

I found an old picture of you in my attic.
An image of your soul,
Your spirit in Kodacolor.
On the yellowing back of the picture
A note was written.
 Taken in front of the old house where I was born 2/2/57.
I haven't the heart to tell you what you remind me of
 in this picture,
But if you had come out of your house and seen your shadow
I would have expected six more weeks of winter.

Ronnie Wright

No one had to tell me.
I always knew that finally it would be like this.
I always knew,
that someday you would leave and someday
I would be left alone.

Cindy Neal

Hello River

Hello river, you've come again, to flow through my eyes,
and never end.

A lonely heart sinks, as you run by.

You're the only one who comes when I begin to cry, and hurt is there, in every tear, river please, stay away from here.

Every day you come flowing through my eyes.

As I look back on all the lies,
a love that's lost, not to return,
maybe someday I will learn,
all I feel is sorrow anymore, why do they keep hurting me for?
Tell me river, you're my best friend,

when will all this hurting end?

Anything worth having cannot be possessed
You can't own me or call me yours.
You can't chain me with rings or paper.
I am free, not owned by someone for whom I work like I do a boss.
If you have this kind of ownership in mind, don't call me yours.
For I am as free as an eagle, and who knows I might fly away.

Images

The veil of light lies misty against the sky Translucent rays sparkle down spotting the earth with their brilliant shine.

A prism of raindrops reflects images on multitudes of visions Kaleidoscopes of colors merge into hues of living, revealing shades of love.

The shade of love is a shimmering shadow trembling on the edge of light afraid to enter, afraid to retreat revealing only a glimpse of its beauty that so many seek to discover.

Debbie Mobley

it's just as nice, to go to sleep at night
and hear someone say
"i love you"
when you were thinking just the same thing about them.

Trees are human, for we have emotions.
I can remember when that couple came and carved their initials in me. They were so very happy. As the years went by the couple would come back and sit under the shade of my branches. I felt like a protective mother to them, and when they came to me in tears, I ached for them.

Diane Dorsey

When you spoke it was an unreality.
My senses had dulled and I was in a fantasy.
Your words reached me but I couldn't control them.
My mind was fogged;
and your words were lost in the mist, running like a frightened child.
I tried to pull your words together in a string that I could read;
but they kept snarling and knotting until their meaning was too tangled.
Finally I gave up hope and collapsed in my fantasy where no words can reach and no thoughts can hurt.

Debbie Mobley

I have no Idea*
Left is an empty sheet of paper at the desk of a writer,
Or an empty boxing glove
Of a noted fighter,
No weights for an athlete to lift,
No paper for the wrapper of a gift,
Or a guitar with no strings to play,
So when I take you out tell me
*What to say.

Dennis Osborn

A friend is someone

Suffocation

Resurrection

I have always felt that the difference between happiness and unhappiness was living

I mean, when someone says to me
I'm unhappy
I always wonder — Hey you, are you Alive or are you Dead?
It's like a heart transplant — Give someone a little heart and suddenly (and without realizing it) he is living again.

EVIL

Your evil eyes Burning hot Anger inside Coming out

Burning for revenge
Ready to attack
You creep like a snake
Desperate for pain

Rid your hatred
And your burning eyes
For jealousy
Is no answer

Carolyn Hood

Very often, we must live with those who hang on to our hearts
Like kittens on screen doors with their claws.
Attempting to pry them loose
Is futile.

In the Wind

Look, to the horizon,
As you feel your heart run Away with the sunset,
And feel the wet rain
Of your crying,
For the love of your friends

They come, they go
They stop, and flow
On by, never to return
Never to go

But the ones we love
Manage to slip our minds
Till we pass on by the town
While nobody's aware While no one's Around

And ones we think we love
Leave never hurting our soul
As harsh as friends
That come and go in the mind
That come and go in the wind
With the few words that may begin Your life.

Mark Baxter

Attack Vietnam

As the nation's 200th anniversary of independence slowly approaches, its exploitation mounts to an erratic frenzy. Never before has such zeal been centered around one event nationwide. The word "bicentennial" has become a standard of living. The advertising world has gone berserk with its use of slogans and displays. "Go Bicentennial this year; be the first to wear the official bicentennial underwear that can be purchased only at America's bicentennial store. The basic "Old Glory" colors will look chic even underneath your most stylish fashions. Don't be left out! Jump on the bandwagon now and ride into the year of '76 knowing you are bicentennial patriot."

Thousands of bicentennial products are flooding the market and finding their way into American homes. No home is complete without several souvenirs of America's history proudly displayed: Bicentennial life-size statues of Minute Men, replicas of the Liberty Bell, murals of Paul Revere's famous ride, etc, will accumulate in American homes. Soon every family will be celebrating bicentennial day once a week. Each member will dress in the fashions of the time and act in a manner associated with the period.

The unbelievable advertisements and products that are revealed each day are comically absurd. It is a challenge to guess what bicentennial product will be contrived the succeeding day. Perhaps bicentennial toothpicks are next on the list.

Debbie Mobley

The rain poured loudly
On the ruined soil. I Watched carefully as the Time seemed to crease my life.
I wondered if I could Remain silent any longer.
We destroy.
It's the satisfaction
For the hunger of power —
Yet we tag it progress,
While we sit and eat
The knowledge that took Precious moments to find,
"The rain still falls, the Silence dances in what little Light there is left making Noises too loud to Be heard —
And it's telling us of ourselves."

Karen Harris

The After-Life

The relatives filled her old dead house like pack-rats, Rummaged through her drawers,
Threw closets open to the light,
Stole keepsakes, destroyed secrets
With vulture-like enthusiasm
They had no right
She would not have wanted this
I felt her frowning presence Close to me.

Dianne Chance

He Took out his bright red and white and black printed handkerchief — sneezing coolly and forcefully into it, wiping his nose in a handy, dandy, Joe Cool swipe.
He missed however one of the spots, giving him a most hideous appearance and forcing his friends to regard him with the love they held especially for lepers, prostitutes, legless men, stuttering buffoons, and Congressmen,
He thought immediately that he must have bad breath, body odor,
or dandruff.
He never considered the fact that perhaps, with his bright red and white and black printed handkerchief,
that he had, with a handy, dandy, Joe Cool swipe, wiped his nose off of his face.

Mall People

Bustling, rustling, Packages in hand,
Little children, running, playing,
Mothers running after.
Clothes of the rich here,
And here, a poor man in rags.
Short skirts,
Long dresses
Swinging to and fro.
And here comes a turkey waddler,
Hurrying to her appointment at My Fair Lady.
Now, I'm going to walk among them
These cheerful faces;
And blank ones too.
Ah! Now walking beside me
Is a lawyer, or either a doctor one,
His expression tells me so.
And now sitting on the bench ahead
A girl who is staring at me.
A smile and slip quietly by
And wonder what she writes of me.

Melanie Sims

Morning
the sun shines and earth glistens with life time stands still, but seagulls fly over blue waters toward that place (somewhere in time) where water and sky and life and light meet and become one

Amy Lussier

Sleep, then overcame me.
Slowly it filled every thought I'd found it trickled down on me and pulled my eyelids down.

My bed slowly started turning and rocking toward my mind.
Dream covered breaths of air
Left real thoughts far behind.

Steaming pictures cooled my wants Cold now burns the face
I remembered a dark thought and watched a bright dream fall to the morning.

Marty Wallis

The sky was red with anger the wind boiled with turmoil.
How long will we go on without having concern for our fellow

Lynde Worley

Bundled Up

She collected shopping bags, had a whole collection of shopping bags.
When you saw her she was always bundled up in layer, upon layer, upon layer, of clothes;
old ratty clothes,
found clothes.

She talked to me when she saw me on the street.

She talked to everybody when she saw them;
she talked to the radio,
the birds on top of straight and tall brown poles.

~~She~~ on the sidewalks right next to the crack, to the old flattened waxy Dixie cups,
to grey tramped-on grass, to the sky
(was her favorite thing.)

She resided in a spot
(we must all always reside on a spot) behind a billboard, with strips of papering falling off, by Mr. Weens at 6th and Hill Streets.

And where she kept her spot most of the time was behind that paper sign with SAVINGS and LOANS advertised.
But sleeping behind savings and loans got her a beating to death instead of saving her anything.

So she slept as always — oblivious and not in the world caring of the street lights, neon signs flashing,
cars brights, or muggers

but in a frozen red pool tonight, bundled up in layer, upon layer,
upon layer,
of clothes;
old ratty clothes,
found clothes.

Scott Emmons

Suddenly —

Silver splits the restless sky.
A rumble drifts in from the west to join the soft patter of unseen droplets Mother Nature promptly divides into two opposing forces for the battle.
The tension mounts as the struggle continues, gaining both force and fury each second.
Without warning, all motion is terminated — a gentle calm descends.
The forces disperse to parts unknown.
Such is a thunderstorm.

Between the bare branches
Of a lone oak tree expecting

On the return trip
Fire-colored trees follow their road-master
Like a faithful infinite shadow.
Behind,
Yellow,
Drying Grass fields roll back into a thin dark pine edge broken (occasionally) by the land-sowers' tiny houses granted the land's permission to remain.
Close, sapphire Sky protects the openness from time.

A breeze
Puff of wind.
Steady night wind
Doves, stretching their wings to the wind
In preparation for flight.
A testing flap. Then airborne, free.

The cool autumn morning shines with a clear brilliance, never before understood.

The cattle moo in a low key, the chickens are all huddled up. And in the apple tree the spider weaves his web.
With each pattern and more the dew droplets sparkle and shine like diamonds on the cool fall morning.

The creation of the infinite universe unknown staggeres the imagination with the thought of its

Emotion

His Hands, old and worn Waited for the life to be born Into the countryside
After the seasonal white

His eyes looked endlessly
Into the sea of trees
Covered by a cloud of snow
The chilly wind made his eyes
Water, or was it
Emotion

A young boy
Once full of joy Stood looking into the Sea of snow covered trees
His eyes watered, There Was no chilled wind

Mark Baxter

Gently sweeping the dusted fields;
Wiping the land clean;
making the way for a wash and dry

Trailing behind the soft, silent

Bales of cotton turned dark to make cloth of greens and browns of the meadows bare and alone.

i say no to that

For i would not like to be a road side.

and catch people's discards

and hold cigarette butts for men with nothing better to do than pick all of them up just to make one big cigarette to smoke.

to be a final resting place for Opossums,

Squirrels,

Dogs

and Cats

that never made it to the other side.

and think,

a roadside is always the end of a forest

A city seen from an airplane is like a dirty spot on the carpet.

Captured by none
It worries me, yet hurries me by with a Smile and a wave — a gesture Forbidding a tear to pass.
Can the grass feel footsteps?
Captured by few
It bothers me, yet fathers me like a son with a Smile and a pat — a gesture
Forbidding a tear to pass
Can the grass feel footsteps?
Captured by all
It frightens me, yet tightens around my thoughts with a Smile and a wink — a gesture
Forbidding a tear to pass
As I walk on grass.

Smoke

The smoke was a serpent; a giant, thick powerful snake. It intertwined through the branches of the trees. It brought the aroma of burning wood, the odor of burning fur and flesh. It was evil, and would not go away for days. The snake was there before, during and after the yellow flames licked away at the creatures of the forest.

The sun shone gloriously, its heat burning,
beautifully,
sweat pouring from every gland, illuminating the small puffy clouds, melting everything,
like a dog on the beach,
withering the vegetation,
warming flowers,
drying up small streams, beams softly shining earthward drought, making a wonderful rainbow, killing cattle,
looking so magnificent while rising, miserable suffering,
and even more so while setting.

A Sensitivity

A murmur of voices slowly
Slips into my consciousness
As I realize there is a light rain Falling noiselessly upon me.
My feelings tell me I have been here Ages upon ages, merely Listening to the silence.
I am at peace;
My body at rest.
I feel tuned, as an instrument
Waiting for a melody;
Forgotten, or at least evasive
Fugues dance within me.
Do not subject my strings to the Violence and confusion of tunes loud,
Indifferent, and unresolved;
Or the careless Handle me, for such things Destroy my tone and my response.
Bring me in from the rain —
Converse with me in a Sonata.
Leave to me an inspiration;
I shall leave to you this peace.

Puberty's Preparation

A child is born
Prepare his mold — Prepare his mind.
Shall he be great?
Shall he be blind?
Prepare his mold — Prepare his mind.
Will he kill in the war?
Or is that a bit to far?
Prepare his mold — His story; as of yet untold.
Shall we name him love?
Must we call him deceit?
Can he be a pauper,
Scrapping at our feet?
Prepare him to fight!
It is only right — to feel that cold steel and It's a deadly bite.

For in this manner and only in this way —
He can be blind and still labled great.
We'll name him love; the child of deciet.
Or is that a bit too far?

Billy Williams

Have you ever . . .

walked in a field full of flowers and dew?
felt the rain on your face?
touched the clouds?
licked a popsicle as it dribbled down your chin?
felt a newborn baby's skin?
cried out loud, trying not to hold back?
touched someone emotionally?
run a country mile?
lived a frightening moment?
given up yours so that someone else could have?
seen a year old fawn in the wild?
held back revenge?
lost yourself in a dream?
laughed at a good movie?
watched the stars?
got a lump in your throat?
been overwhelmed by the fragrance of a flower?
listened to a clock tick?
asked God for forgiveness?
sensed the power of nature?
loved?

Sometimes when I'm down and lonely
I get the urge to fly a kite or play the kazoo or build a sand castle or roll down a steep green grassy hill and giggle
But whenever I get the urge to do that someone always reminds me that I'm sixteen and I should know better.

I do.
I prefer kites.

Boredom is bland,
It smells like a musty room, tastes like cottage cheese or grits, looks like a white wall, and sounds like a test of the emergency broadcasting system.

Kathy Prough

Hello, Goodbye
"Hello. How are you?"
I smiled and waved a greeting
They smile and nod and wave
Then promptly forget our meeting
(I frown sometimes)
I sat down beside her Smiled and asked her out
She answered "No"
And explained so well,
She's telling the truth, no doubt
(I frown alot, you know)
"It was a good race, very well run," he reckoned
I smiled in agreement.
We both knew I came in second.
(I frown most of the time)
I smile as tears run down my cheek,
I'll be somebody someday.
In about a week.
I'll leave a note and it will say,
"Say good bye to me"
And the spattered blood will draw sympathy
From those that thought they knew me.

Fragment

There was a frolicsome fragment of happiness dancing in my room.
Once I actually grabbed a hold of it, but it withered and slipped from between my fingers. In its teasing and annoying way, it pecked me and fled, crept up my back, pulled my hair, screamed and sang and giggled all around.
As I tried to catch hold of it for just another glimpse, the fragment burst into baby fragments and swept out the window.

In a cold, frosted town that I used to know well
By a lost, empty sea with no waves and no swell
And the shack where I lived by the big, black lagoon was eerie and green in the light of the moon.
The wind told me secrets I knew I must keep
And the air threatened death with its long, silent sleep.
The sky was so empty, just moon and no stars
The houses are drab with invisible bars.
It's a weird lonely world like a mute picture show
For once I am there, I am not free to go.
A black, wailing prison, my ball and my chain
A stark dismal fortress that stands in the rain.
So now I can't go there, I need to be free —
No longer a home, but a stranger to me.

Life

Life seems so short Maybe it's just a small part of what's in store.

Tim Miller

Why? said the young boy
as he tugged at the coat of the old man he thought knew all.

Because it must be. said the old man
as he stared at the brown of the sky with eyes that saw nothing.
the young boy was silent as he took it all in and he also stared at the brown.
the old man smiled at cracked pavement as he waited upon a new question with which he would search the skies of his mind to find a suitable answer.

THE ANSWER MAN

I went to the market place Saturday, to look for the answer man to buy some badly needed answers
But
When I got there
I couldn't find him.
And when I stopped looking
I found I was lost
So
I sat down on a hard, cold rock and cried, and while I was crying a man came to me and told me he was selling answers, this week Only so like a fool I believed him and followed him, only to find later he was not real and only a question in disguise.
